Devastating Earthquake Rocks Romanian Capital

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — An earthquake described as one of the strongest ever recorded in Europe devastated the Romanian capital of Bucharest, flattening apartment buildings, buckling streets and driving thousands of terrified residents from their homes.

Early reports from Bucharest today said hundreds may have perished there, and the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said the city of Ploesti, 35 miles north of the capital, was heavily damaged by the quake that struck late Friday.

Tanjug said ambulances were rushed to Ploesti, an oil center that was the target of massive Allied bombing raids in World War II.

There was no immediate word on how many may have died in Ploesti and other outlying areas.

The Romanian government said today the quake caused Streets Buckle, Buildings Fall, Injuries Mount

"casualties and great material damage" in Bucharest and the rest of southeastern Romania, but it gave no details.

In the capital, rescue workers struggled today to free victims from the rubble of apartment and office buildings. Fires broke out in some of the damaged structures, and the air was heavy with the smell of smoke. By dawn police began blocking off many damaged streets, including Magheru Boulevard, the city's main thoroughfare.

Witnesses said the Intercontinental Hotel, a favorite of Americans and other foreigners, was one of the few buildings on Magheru Boulevard to escape damage.

Hospitals throughout the city were jammed with the injured and their families. Meanwhile, the government issued repeated appeals for 1.5 million residents to remain calm.

The earthquake, registering 7.5 on the Richter scale and felt from Rome to Moscow, struck at about 9:30 p.m., when most of residents were at home. Unofficial reports said several apartment buildings, including at least two seven-story structures, had collapsed, burying scores of tenants.

An employee of a Western airline reported from the Romanian capital that he had seen seven or eight crumpled apartment houses.

Survivors wandered about the wreckage of apartment buildings calling out the names of friends and relatives.

Balconies in a downtown music theater also reportedly collapsed, injuring several persons.

Thousands of residents spent the night in the streets, huddled around candles and the few belongings they could carry with them.

Many foreigners bunched up their families and spent the night in their cars. Traffic was brisk throughout the night as ambulances raced along the streets and motorists, some in their pajamas, apparently tried to leave the city.

Witnesses said large cracks were visible in many downtown buildings and glass and debris were everywhere. An eight-story building near the National Theater collapsed, they said.

Romanians are now faced with "moments of hard trial," the government news agency Agerpress said.

The only report of casualties outside Romania was in neighboring Yugoslavia, where 17 persons were reported injured in Kragujevac, a city south of Belgrade.

A telephone operator on the Bucharest exchange said "the situation is terrible here. We know nothing for sure but we have heard that there are many dead."

A Marine guard at the U.S. Embassy said by telephone that he had no official casualty figures "but in talk around here, the estimate is in the hundreds of dead."

A spokeswoman for the U.S. State Department said she did not believe any Americans had been killed in the quake. The U.S. Embassy suffered slight damage, she said.

President Nicolae Ceausescu was in Nigeria when the quake struck. He cancelled a scheduled meeting today on the Spanish island of Mallorca with King Juan Carlos and returned to Bucharest today.

Radio Bucharest went off the air for about 1½ hours Friday night and then returned to broadcast appeals to the population to stay calm and help rescue teams, and for workers to go to their jobs to keep basic services operating.

"The entire population is called upon to take part in removing the wreckage, to do their best to assist those afflicted by the quake," Agerpress said.

Julius Drimmel, a seismological expert in Vienna, said the quake was centered about 60 miles north of Bucharest in the Transylvania Alps. There were no reports on damage and casualties outside Bucharest.

Patrick Willmore of the Institute of Geological Sciences in London said the quake was at least twice as strong as the one that shattered Skopje, Yugoslavia, in 1963, killing

Sodus Bank Alarm Leads To Gun Charge Arrest

A man with bandages on his face was arrested yesterday near a Sodus branch bank when Berrien sheriff's deputies answered a bank alarm, officers reported. Michael G. Pemberton, 18, of Montrose, Mich., was arrested on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon as deputies responded to an alarm triggered by employees at First National bank of Southwestern Michigan about 12:30 p.m.

The branch bank is on Pipestone road, Sodus township. Deputies said they were summoned to the bank when employees became suspicious of a car that had gone by several times, then stopped, and a man with his face heavily bandaged approached the bank.

Investigators and bank officials said employees locked the bank's doors, turned off the lights, set off the alarm and hid as the man attempted to enter the building.

Pemberton was scheduled to be arraigned on the concealed weapon charge in Berrien District court today.

Sheriff's Det. Capt. Ronald Immoos said Pemberton is currently on a deferred prosecution program out of Genesee county for larceny in a building.

Police said they seized a .36 caliber cap and ball pistol, a replica of an 1848 Navy pistol, when the arrest was made. Lt. Ronald Schalon said Pemberton, at the time of the arrest, had white athletic-type adhesive tape on the left side of his face and across his nose, and was also wearing a false mustache.

Immoos told The Herald-Palladium Pemberton was at the Sodus branch of the bank last Friday (Feb. 25) and had inquired about a loan.

Immoos said Pemberton told him he (Pemberton) had gotten into a fight with his stepfather Friday morning in Montrose and drove to southwestern Michigan to see if his cousin still lived near Sodus. The detective captain said Pemberton told him he was going to Sodus "for target practice."

According to FBI Special Agent Dean Phelps, bank employees around 12:30 p.m. yesterday saw a car that was allegedly at the bank last Friday drive by about four times, then park about one-half mile west of the bank on Naomi road.

Phelps said an employee spotted a man wearing tape on his face walking towards the bank, so the bank's doors were locked, the lights turned off, and employees then hid and called the sheriff's department.

The agent said the man went to the door of the bank, and when he found he couldn't get in, began walking back to the car.

Sheriff's Sgt. James Bale arrived as the man got into a car, but the man refused to leave the car, Schalon said, so Bale covered him with a shotgun. Schalon arrived shortly after, and the man got out of the car and was frisked. Schalon said he found a pistol tucked into the waistband of the man's trousers.

Officers said the pistol they seized requires the user to pour gunpowder into the cylinder, then put a ball into the cylinder, pack both in, and then place firing caps on the back of the cylinder. Det. James Leonard said the gun was loaded and capable of being fired but had not been fired.

John W. Gillette, senior vice president for First National bank of Southwestern Michigan, said action taken by Sodus branch employees is "just the kind of precautions we try and teach our staff members to take."

Conviction Upset By 'God' Question

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The conviction of a Detroit man for the brutal slaying of a Burroughs Corp. executive has been overturned because the prosecutor asked the man if he believed in God.

The Michigan Court of Appeals on Friday said it was reluctantly reversing the first degree murder conviction of Arthur Jackson Burton in the 1973 slaying of Philip M. Guard of Dearborn.

Guard, who was shot in the face several times, was manager of the real estate group for Burroughs.

Burton is serving a life term in Jackson Prison on the murder conviction.

The appeals court based its ruling on a 1974 Michigan Supreme Court opinion that bars attorneys from asking defendants about their religious convictions.

"Whether the defendant hesitates, or unhesitatingly responds negatively or positively, or if he should quite properly refuse to respond," he still could prejudice some jury members, the high court said in that ruling.

In Burton's case, the prosecutor asked him at one point: "When do we know that you're telling the truth and when you're lying? We just have to take your word — Do you believe in God?"

Before Burton could respond, the judge intervened and ordered that the question be stricken from the record. The appeals court commented that action by the judge, but said the Supreme Court opinion forced it to "reluctantly reverse" the conviction.

But it urged the high court to reconsider whether its earlier opinion should apply in cases like Burton's, where the judge did everything in his power to "confine" the error before it could spread.

The appeals court said it would not want the 1974 Supreme Court opinion to "bestow a windfall on the defendant because of an unanswered question that slipped past the lips of a seemingly exasperated prosecutor in the middle of a month-long trial."

Jackhammer Sweet Music For Miner

By PAUL CARPENTER

TOWER CITY, Pa. (AP) —

Ronald Adley welcomed the sweet music of a jackhammer beating through a 50-foot wall of hard coal today to free him from the chamber he has been trapped in for four days.

Adley, sealed a mile inside a 400-foot-high mountain, hoped to crawl through a four-foot escape tunnel sometime today. He was locked in a 10-foot-high by 10-foot-wide pocket when a wall of water surged through the mine at midday Tuesday.

"We are so close we can see his light and he can see ours ... Music to him is the drill he keeps hearing," John Shutack, regional director of the federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA) said Friday night.

The rescuers moved sideways toward Adley at five inches an hour.

Meanwhile, a drill from above bored an eight-inch hole from the surface to an area where seven comrades — their fate still unknown — were believed to be. A television camera and listening devices were to be lowered into it.

Two other miners were known dead. A funeral for one was held Friday in a driving rain.

As the rat-a-tat-tat inched nearer, Adley, a 37-year-old father of two, bedded down on a wool blanket that rescuers had sent him via a pipe that was pushed through into his chamber. Between brief naps, he nibbled on snacks and sipped hot coffee funneled through a tube. A plug of tobacco was handy.

As one rescuer operated a 35-pound jackhammer in the escape tunnel, five others behind him shoveled out the coal.

Work on the tunnel, which began Wednesday night, was slow because the hard coal turned sharp drill chisels into stulls.

"Sure, we're happy," said Kate Adley, Ronald's sister. "But we're praying for everybody else. No one has given up hope. All those families down there — there's always hope."

FOR YOUTH JOBS

Berrien To Get $571,000 Grant

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
LANSING — The Federal government will spend more than $22 million — including $571,000 in Berrien county — to give summer jobs to 45,000 disadvantaged youths from 14 to 21 years of age.

The money has been allocated to 22 local projects to help urban youth under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. Gov. William Milliken said Friday.

State Labor Director Keith Molin said Michigan has more than 100,000 youths between 16 and 19 who have left school and are unemployed. Thousands more will be out of school this summer, he noted.

The young people would work 20-30 hours a week for about 10 weeks and be paid $2.30 an hour, the state minimum wage. They will be employed in hospitals, libraries, parks, programs for the aged and handicapped and other jobs.

The program is aimed at improving the youths' job skills, encouraging dropouts to return to school, and providing more money for low-income families.

The money is allocated as follows: $1.8 million for rural counties; $1.5 million for Flint; $1 million for Lansing; $824,000 for Jackson; $1.4 million for Kent County; $637,000 for Muskegon; $127,000 for Dearborn; $6.6 million for Detroit; $93,000 for Livonia; $277,000 for Warren; $348,000 for Bay County; $571,000 for Berrien County; $415,000 for Calhoun County; $488,000 for Kalamazoo County; $1.1 million for Macomb County; $301,000 for Monroe County; $1.9 million for Oakland County; $272,000 for Ottawa County; $349,000 for Saginaw County; $443,000 for St. Clair County; $2.3 million for Wayne County; $215,000 for Ann Arbor; and $456,000 for Washtenaw County.

Patrolman Saves Dog From Lake

COLOMA — Coloma Township Patrolman Roy Davis ended up wading through the icy Paw Paw Lake channel yesterday evening to save a Saint Bernard dog that fell through the thin ice cover and nearly drowned.

Police gave this account:

While on patrol, Davis was told by two youngsters that a dog had fallen through the ice and was struggling in the water. The officer walked along the ice toward the dog, and when he was five feet from shore the ice broke, plunging Davis waist deep into the cold waters.

He continued toward the dog and rescued it. Police said the dog was owned by William Forbes, of 4936 Shoreview, Coloma.

The boys who flagged down Davis had tried to save the dog. The boys were Pat Sutter, 6787 Wil-O-Paw, and Mark Scheer, 4973 Maple court, both 12 and both of Coloma.

The Year Of The Indian

Shortly after Spain began to exploit the discoveries of Columbus' voyages to the New World, a Dominican theologian, Francisco de Victoria, advised the Emperor that claims to lands and sovereignty in the Western Hemisphere required consent from the Indian tribes as original owners.

De Victoria forwarded this opinion to the Spanish throne in 1532.

The conquest of Mexico by Hernando Cortez and of Peru by Francisco Pizarro testify to the crown's acceptance of the underlying assumption that the aborigines were sovereign powers.

The theorem of the founder of modern international law, however, is accepted by implication in our Constitution which gives the federal government the exclusive power to make treaties and delivers to Congress the sole authority to regulate commerce with the Indian tribes.

The first judicial construction of the Indian treaty question came in the 1830s. The Supreme Court declared Georgia could not interfere with Indian lands created by earlier treaties with the Cherokee nations.

The federal government was not as powerful then as it since became. The Georgia state government paid no attention to the Court's ruling and shoved the Cherokees off their property.

This forceful disregard of future Indian treaties became standard as the American nation pushed westward.

A century following the last treaty between the U.S. and the Indian tribes in 1888 finds a distinct about face position at Washington.

While it has put down a number of shootouts from Indian militants seeking to grab real estate, its lower federal courts are giving accord to treaty provisions in many areas.

The Sandia Pueblo in New Mexico is building a race track north of Albuquerque that will operate outside of state regulation. A U.S. district court ruled recently that the Mescalero Apaches can run a resort free from interference by New Mexico's liquor licensing laws.

Indian claims to water rights in the arid western states are creating headaches.

The Gila River Indian Community is claiming over 70 per cent of the water from the Colorado river which the Central Arizona Project wants to divert to the Phoenix and Tucson regions.

A few months ago the Michigan Supreme Court issued an opinion which can be read from several directions. It sustained a contention by the Chippewa tribe that it does not need a license to fish commercially in Lake Michigan, but added that the Department of Natural Resources can still control the activity from a conservation standpoint.

The state of Maine currently is in a state of confusion over a preliminary ruling by a U.S. district court which implies the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes may have a right to two-thirds of the Pine Tree state. The claim is based on a 1794 treaty selling most of their traditional lands to Massachusetts without federal consent.

The supporting legal premise is so tortured that even the Justice Department's lawyers who are helping the Penobscots and the Passamaquoddies admit the case is inappropriate for judicial handling and should be met by Congress in the form of a check drawn on the federal treasury.

Giving effect to broken treaties has a strong moralistic appeal and fits perfectly within the theme that Uncle Sam should take the lead in promoting human rights around the world.

These stale claims, though, are being resurrected for property rights which have appreciated a thousand fold by the efforts of others than the Indians.

With all due respect to the Old Testament dictum of visiting the sins of the fathers unto the seventh generation, unrestrained exercises in legal rationalizing will prove mischievous in the extreme.

It is interesting to note that so far at least no one is claiming bankrupt New York City on the ground that the Dutch settlers who paid $24 worth of baubles to the Indian owners for Manhattan Island pulled a shady deal.

Wheat Vs. Oil Cartel

Should the U.S. and Canada attempt to counteract the cartel arrangements of other countries on such commodities as oil and coffee by enacting one of its own on wheat? That is the idea Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is promoting.

Asked how his concept of a price fixing arrangement on wheat differs from the often criticized oil cartel, Bergland replied:

"If we can do something about the oil cartel, fine. I'd be willing to drop these talks with anybody when the oil cartel is dissolved. But until such time as that occurs, I don't intend to back down."

On the surface the idea of combating one cartel with another has merit. To much of a food short world, North American wheat is as precious as imported oil is to us. Adopting the tactics of the monopolists hardly is the way to promote either free trade or the ideas of a free market economy.

In the long run no one wins in a prolonged cartel situation. If history tells us anything, it is that the oil cartel will be broken up eventually by the increasing competition of alternate energy sources and the needs of individual cartel members to increase their share of the market.

A wheat cartel would stiffen the resistance within the oil cartel, not weaken it. Unless the agriculture Secretary has discovered a magic formula for converting grain into fuel, he would be better advised to go easy on this one.

Deep Snooze For Human Beings?

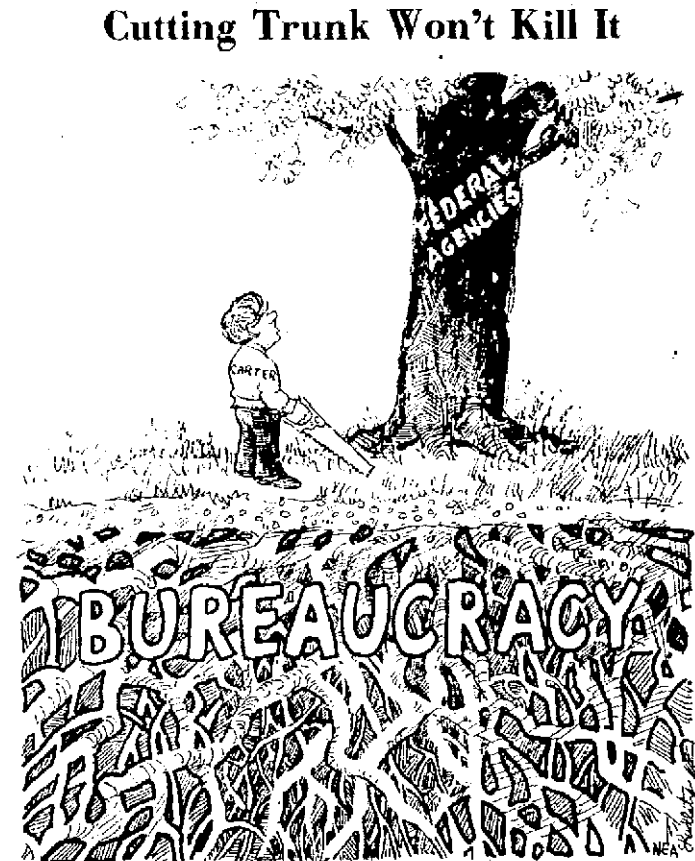

Researchers who have been doing work on hibernation may be on the verge of discovering what it is that causes some animals to enter into a state of suspended animation during the winter season.

Whatever the ingredient, it apparently is contained in the bloodstream of the animal. The researchers were able to induce hibernation in active squirrels by injecting them with blood taken from hibernating animals.

While in hibernation, an animal's body temperature drops and its breathing and blood circulation slow down. Space scientists have said that before man can exist in the several year long trips which will be required to explore the outer reaches of the universe, a similar state of suspension will have to be induced.

Thus it is that a hibernating squirrel may hold the key to not only space adventures, but the prolongation of life itself. When body metabolism is slowed down, life expectancy increases.

With the state of the world as it is, man may decide to do a little hibernating himself.

SAYS WOMAN HAS RIGHT TO BE MARRIED OR NOT

Editor,

Recently I received a package of The Herald-Palladium newspapers for the month of January 1977, from my mother who resides in St. Joseph. In the Tuesday January 11 issue, bottom of the front page, there was an article titled: "Twin City Trooper wins in Close Race with Stork" by Nick Smith. The article was interesting enough, however, the last line stating that the girl involved was not married, in my opinion, was very inappropriate. First of all, it is no one else's business. She has every right to be or not to be married. Also, who cares? The condition of the mother and child, after birth, would have been much more interesting and appropriate.

HE'S BACKING CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Editor,

Figures and numbers can be used to suit the users purpose is such a true saying that it is no wonder the average citizen can hardly expect to know which side to believe. On Tuesday, March 1, staff writer Larry MacIntyre quoted parole probation agent, Lester Knickerbocker: capital punishment is "only a deterrent to the one being punished" and "crimes of passion are not going to be deterred by anything". Also he quotes him as saying: "Being locked up is enough".

Now here are some statistics and quotes according to a study by FBI.

Much of the nation's serious crime is committed by a relative small number of hardened criminals, who make law breaking a way of life. Now here are the figures: 64 per cent of persons released in 1972, after arrests of murder, were arrested for the same crime by the end of 1975.

So if as Knickerbocker believes, "There is no need for inhumane or uncomfortable living conditions," these people would not be able to commit murder again if capital punishment was legal, and the 64 per cent of the people that this crime was committed on would be alive and walking the street. These murders that would be classified in the capital punishment class would not be crimes of passion, but repeaters and mad dogs.

First degree homicide is willful, planned, diabolical taking of life and, constitutes 15 per cent of all homicides. Should anyone convicted of such a dastardly crime be allowed to live in civilized society to repeat this crime?

FORMER TEACHER CLAIMS LMC SHORT-STAFFED

Editor,

I read with interest, the Herald-Palladium article, "LMC Wins Legal Battle on Faculty Firing", dated Friday, Dec. 31, 1976. It is safe to say that LMC won that distant battle. But, the same article reminded me (a former LMC physics instructor) of what the battle was all about. The article states, "LMC this year has a record enrollment of nearly 4,000 students and the faculty numbers 54".

This is a very revealing figure when compared with the enrollment figures of all other junior colleges in the United States, as listed in the 1976 Bicentennial Edition of the World Almanac, pages 182 to 191. Below is the enrollment of all junior colleges in the Almanac with 54 teachers, give or take one. Also listed is LMC, which counted 80 teachers in the 1976 edition, and Jackson Community College (to provide comparison to a junior

Union Appears To Be Safe

WASHINGTON — There has been much hand-wringing about the corrupting influence of "special interest" contributions to candidates for public office. Yet a recent fascinating analysis suggests that the integrity of the Republic may not be in the imminent danger claimed by some reformers.

The reason is that the potential deleterious influence of the millions of dollars worth of special interest contributions is often offset by mindless spending, wasteful duplication and poor judgment on the part of the givers.

Ironically, this information, along with supportive statistics, comes from Common Cause, one of the leading purveyors of the theory that graft and venality inevitably will prevail over democracy and integrity so long as campaigns for Congress are financed with private donations rather than public funds.

"Special interest political giving for congressional candidates was truly a growth industry in 1976," says common Cause. Its figures, which have come to be generally accepted as a reliable indicator of campaign spending do indeed show that various "interest groups" spent $22.6 million — an amount almost double the 1974 total of $12.5 million — to support candidates for House and Senate seats last year.

Attached to that proclamation is the organization's financial analysis, listing the 15 candidates most generously supported by labor groups last year and the 15 who received the most money from business, professional and agricultural organizations in 1976.

Of the $3.4 million spent by both business and labor on their favorite candidates, $1.8 million — slightly more than half — went to opposing contenders in hotly contested Senate races in seven states: New York, California, Ohio, Indiana, Maryland, Tennessee and Vir-

But in almost all of those cases, the amounts spent by the opposing forces were roughly equal, thus neutralizing the other side's six-figure donations.

Partly because of the emphasis placed on those expensive and hard-fought races, neither side emerged with a particularly good record for the season. The 15 candidates on which business lavished almost $1.7 million included seven winners and eight losers. Labor's 15 favorites, recipients of slightly more than $1.7 million, amassed a marginally better 8-7 record.

But the labor figures are deceptive because union political action committees frittered away more than $330,000 on three Democrats who were virtually guaranteed winners.

The most bizarre instance in that category was the $121,272 labor wasted on Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., a longtime sentimental favorite of many union leaders. He captured a phenomenal 68 per cent of the vote while spending most of the campaign in a New York hospital — and undoubtedly would have done just as well without a nickel from the unions.

On the other hand, nowhere on the list of the candidates favored by business organizations are the three conservative Republicans — Sens. Harrison M. Schmitt of New Mexico, Orrin G. Hatch of Utah and Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming, — who toppled incumbent Democrats last year in less populous Western states.

Similarly, labor spent a great deal of money to finance sure winners and eventual losers in 1972, but ignored three liberal Democrats — Sens. Joseph R. Biden Jr. of Delaware, Dick Clark of Iowa and Floyd K. Baskett of Colorado — who upset incumbent Republicans in relatively obscure contests that year.

'Roots' Failed To Fool Many

In a recent column, I lamented the fact that the TV audience apparently had swallowed "Roots" hook, line, and sinker — not missing its obvious anti-white bias. I based this opinion on reviewers' comments and mass media reports indicating that "Roots" had been an overwhelming success with the TV audience.

I was wrong, but you would not have guessed it from the media. I have never received anything like the quantity and quality of mail evoked by that balm. The audience for "Roots" was indeed huge, but much of it, clearly, was hopping mad.

Enormous numbers of people, judging by these letters, are completely fed up with the white-guilt syndrome, resent seeing whites depicted on TV as uniformly loutish, and also know enough about history and human nature to discern a con job when they encounter one.

I was struck by the fact, moreover, that many of those writing considered it remarkably courageous to criticize "Roots." The impression seems to be widespread that if one offers any sort of criticism of anything black one risks being called a "racist." Well, who cares. If the emperor has no clothes, we might as well say so, even if he happens to be black.

Because of the interest and importance of the "Roots" backlash, I would like to pass on some representative samples of the mail I have been receiving:

"This is the first time in my life I have ever written to anyone about something in the paper but I wanted you to know there was at least one family out here that agrees with you wholeheartedly. I have watched and read most everything written about 'Roots,' but none has written against that unfair and unjust show... we are not educated... but we know when we are being assaulted and insulted and we do not like it, Please keep up the good work."

"Thank you for having the courage to write the article about 'Roots'... It is my prayer that people will learn to sort things out for themselves and not swing like a pendulum for someone who pulls the string like Alex Haley."

"Have just finished reading your article on 'Roots'... I would just like to inform you that as my husband and I watched this series we were well aware, and furious at how one-sided it appeared. I have spoken to many people and the majority felt the same way."

"May I offer congratulations and appreciation for your courageous and in my estimation accurate article re 'Roots'... However, you were inaccurate in your assumption that white people in general did not recognize the all-out attack upon us. It is my opinion, after discussing and hearing others discuss this one-sided rendition, that the reason so many viewers watched this thing all the way through was, as mine was, just to see how far they would go... I sincerely hope the TV 'Roots' show has not done irreparable damage to the gains made by whites and blacks in understanding each other."

Well, it looks as if "Roots," after all, failed to fool all of the people. Large numbers of them out there knew what was going on, even if the television executives and producers in their air-conditioned cocoons thought they were putting one over.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

The Year Of The Indian

Shortly after Spain began to exploit the discoveries of Columbus' voyages to the New World, a Dominican theologian, Francisco de Victoria, advised the Emperor that claims to lands and sovereignty in the Western Hemisphere required consent from the Indian tribes as original owners.

De Victoria forwarded this opinion to the Spanish throne in 1532.

The conquest of Mexico by Hernando Cortez and of Peru by Francisco Pizarro testify to the crown's acceptance of the underlying assumption that the aborigines were sovereign powers.

The theorem of the founder of modern international law, however, is accepted by implication in our Constitution which gives the federal government the exclusive power to make treaties and delivers to Congress the sole authority to regulate commerce with the Indian tribes.

The first judicial construction of the Indian treaty question came in the 1830s. The Supreme Court declared Georgia could not interfere with Indian lands created by earlier treaties with the Cherokee nations.

The federal government was not as powerful then as it since became. The Georgia state government paid no attention to the Court's ruling and shoved the Cherokees off their property.

This forceful disregard of future Indian treaties became standard as the American nation pushed westward.

A century following the last treaty between the U.S. and the Indian tribes in 1868 finds a distinct about face position at Washington.

While it has put down a number of shootouts from Indian militants seeking to grab real estate, its lower federal courts are giving accord to treaty provisions in many areas.

The Sandia Pueblo in New Mexico is building a race track north of Albuquerque that will operate outside of state regulation. A U.S. district court ruled recently that the Mescalero Apaches can run a resort free from interference by New Mexico's liquor licensing laws.

Indian claims to water rights in the arid western states are creating headaches.

The Gila River Indian Community is claiming over 70 per cent of the water from the Colorado river which the Central Arizona Project wants to divert to the Phoenix and Tucson regions.

A few months ago the Michigan Supreme Court issued an opinion which can be read from several directions. It sustained a contention by the Chippewa tribe that it does not need a license to fish commercially in Lake Michigan, but added that the Department of Natural Resources can still control the activity from a conservation standpoint.

The state of Maine currently is in a state of confusion over a preliminary ruling by a U.S. district court which implies the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes may have a right to two-thirds of the Pine Tree state. The claim is based on a 1794 treaty selling most of their traditional lands to Massachusetts without federal consent.

The supporting legal premise is so tortured that even the Justice Department's lawyers who are helping the Penobscots and the Passamaquoddies admit the case is inappropriate for judicial handling and should be met by Congress in the form of a check drawn on the federal treasury.

Giving effect to broken treaties has a strong moralistic appeal and fits perfectly within the theme that Uncle Sam should take the lead in promoting human rights around the world.

These stale claims, though, are being resurrected for property rights which have appreciated a thousand fold by the efforts of others than the Indians.

With all due respect to the Old Testament dictum of visiting the sins of the fathers unto the seventh generation, unrestrained exercises in legal rationalizing will prove mischievous in the extreme.

It is interesting to note that so far at least no one is claiming bankrupt New York City on the ground that the Dutch settlers who paid $24 worth of bables to the Indian owners for Manhattan Island pulled a shady deal.

"Have just finished reading your article on 'Roots'... I would just like to inform you that as my husband and I watched this series we were well aware, and furious at how one-sided it appeared. I have spoken to many people and the majority felt the same way."

"May I offer congratulations and appreciation for your courageous and in my estimation accurate article re 'Roots'... However, you were inaccurate in your assumption that white people in general did not recognize the all-out attack upon us. It is my opinion, after discussing and hearing others discuss this one-sided rendition, that the reason so many viewers watched this thing all the way through was, as mine was, just to see how far they would go... I sincerely hope the TV 'Roots' show has not done irreparable damage to the gains made by whites and blacks in understanding each other."

Well, it looks as if "Roots," after all, failed to fool all of the people. Large numbers of them out there knew what was going on, even if the television executives and producers in their air-conditioned cocoons thought they were putting one over.

Road Chief Confirms M-139 To Stay Open

JOHN P. WOODWARD
Highways director

John P. Woodward, director of the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation, has confirmed that the state will not close old Somerlayton bridge (M-139) during construction of a new bridge.

In letters to State Sen. Charles O. Zollar (R-Benton Harbor) and Rep. Harry Gast Jr. (R-St. Joseph), Woodward said a new Somerlayton bridge over the St. Joseph river next to the present bridge will mean a two-year delay in construction because of acquiring right-of-way.

The state originally planned to build the new bridge on the site of the present bridge which would mean closing M-139. This brought protests from St. Joseph, Benton and Royalton townships.

Text of Woodward's letter to Zollar and Gast:

Prior to the meeting Friday evening, February 25, 1977, representatives of the Department headed by Mr. W. J. MacCreary, and Mr. Dale Granger representing the Department of Natural Resources, inspected the site of the Somerlayton Bridge and adjacent floodplain area.

After careful observation of the area, Mr. Granger (DNR) stated that he did not consider the land adjacent to the bridge and roadway as wetlands. He also felt that the mouth of Yellow Creek could be relocated, if necessary, to make room for a relocation of the roadway to the east. Mr. Granger also stated that the DNR would issue a permit for the necessary fill on the floodplain area, thus allowing the Department to design a new bridge adjacent to the old one, keeping the existing bridge in operation.

This determination changed our plans from those stated in our letter to Representative Gast dated February 10, 1977, and will allow us to maintain traffic while constructing the new bridge and roadway, eliminating the necessity for a detour. With this option available to us, we will proceed to design and construct the project, using a new bridge and approach roadway adjacent to the existing bridge. We will keep the traffic on existing M-139 during construction of the bridge, avoiding the detrimental economic impact of the traffic detour on Scottdale.

Please understand that we still are required to secure a permit from the Corps of Engineers, but feel that with Mr. Granger's help, it now can be accomplished.

The construction of the Somerlayton Bridge on the new location will require more time due to the necessity for acquiring right of way. We anticipate a two-year delay in our construction schedule but will do our best to shorten this time if possible.

We wish to thank you for your part in helping solve a difficult situation and feel that this is just another example of our successfully working together.

Sincerely,
JOHN P. WOODWARD

Shriners To Hold Clinic

The Berrien County Shrine club will sponsor a free clinic for physically handicapped children next Wednesday at B'nai Shalom temple, Delaware street and Broadway, Fairplain.

Purpose of the clinic "is to determine by examination and interview if the resources of the Shrine hospital or Shrine facilities can help a handicapped child," according to Phil Sax, chairman of the crippled children's committee of the Berrien County Shrine club.

The clinic will start at 10 a.m. and continue until all children are examined, Sax said. Any handicapped child under age 18 who has need of orthopedic or orthodontic services is eligible to attend the clinic.

Sax said two physicians and three dentists will be at the clinic to examine children.

Children will get "complete physical" examinations, Sax said.

"There is never any charge or cost for services rendered by the Shrine for crippled children," Sax said, "nor are there any hidden charges or requests for donations from the recipients or their sponsors."

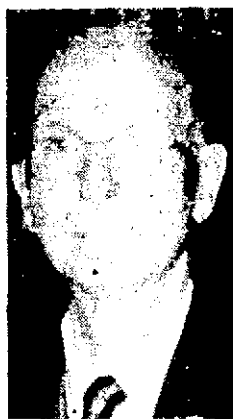

For further information, to enroll a handicapped child in the clinic, or to arrange for transportation to the clinic, people may call Sax at 925-7840, or Atty. Thomas McCoy, president of the Berrien County Shrine club, at 983-1567.

Berrien Bar Creates 'Dean' Status For 13

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Some of them practiced during the Depression. Others sat on various benches. Some were employees of governments while others started their own firms.

But the 13 men honored last night at Berrien Hills country club all have two things in common. They all practiced law in Berrien county, and last night they were all named Deans of the Berrien county Bar association. The association's tribute to the 13 Deans was the first for the Berrien Bar and was attended by some 200 lawyers, wives, judges, and area legislators.

Deans received plaques from the Bar association commemorating their service and resolutions honoring their achievements passed by the state legislature.

Named Deans of the Bar association were: A. Edward Brown, Elden W. Butzbaugh Sr., Theron D. Childs Jr., Vance E. Fisher, Casper R. Grathwohl, and Judge Philip A. Hadsell. Also Judge Harry A. Laity, Dale A. Seymour, Dalton G. Seymour, Robert P. Small, Russell J. Taylor, Laurence T. Uridge, and Myron Wolcott.

Brown, Childs, Hadsell, Taylor and Wolcott were unable to attend the testimonial dinner.

Sen. Charles O. Zollar, on behalf of Reps. Harry Gast and Ray Mittan, who also attended the ceremonies, spoke on behalf of the legislature. He noted the legislative resolutions honor the deeds and accomplishments of the 13, and "the resolutions show the high regard from your colleagues and members of the legislature."

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrnes delivered the main address. Of the new Deans, he noted: "These men, who have devoted their lives to the practice of law, have also been its guardians. They have represented not only their clients but the cause of equal justice; the right to a full and a fair hearing, and the rendering of a competent and just judgment."

"They have made honor and truth not just words or slogans but basic principles of their lives."

"We have elaborate codes of ethics. All manner of opinions are published on what is or is not proper ethical conduct. Such published codes and opinions have never been necessary for these, our honored brothers, for whom honesty is as natural and essential as breathing."

"Their lives, their work, are very monuments of ethical standards."

"Not only have (they) helped build the legal profession of this county, but they have also helped build the county itself. They know that besides serving their clients and families, the lawyer is also performer of his position and training a public servant and leader."

"We salute and honor these brothers in the law whose many years in the profession have created for us, following behind them, not only examples of excellence, but bright beacons lighting the path we must follow if we, too, are to fulfill our calling as lawyers."

"It is right that we should create the distinction of Dean of the Berrien county Bar association. It is even more right and fitting that the first lawyers to fill this office are the men we honor tonight."

Bar Association President James B. McQuillan told the Deans: "We look to you in the future for counsel and advice as we have in the past. Your lives are the highest ideals of professional service."

Schedule Diocese Meetings

A group of parish council service personnel from five midwestern dioceses will meet in Kalamazoo March 6 and 7 to discuss the formation of a national organization to serve the needs of professional parish council personnel throughout the country.

The meeting will be held at Nazareth center, Kalamazoo, and will be hosted by Brother David M. Richards, SM, Coordinator of pastoral programs of the Catholic Diocese of Kalamazoo.

Others attending the meeting include Father Ralph Starus, associate vicar for Laity, Archdiocese of Chicago; Sister Peggy Schmidt, assistant vicar for Parishes, Archdiocese of Detroit; Father Richards Reis, Coordinator of Pastor Councils, Diocese of Youngstown; Michael Novak, Coordinator of parish councils, Archdiocese of Cincinnati, and Brother Richards.

The five are members of the National Steering Committee of the Diocesan Parish Council Personnel (DPCP) which sponsors an annual four-day conference geared to enhancing the professional competence of those persons (lay, religious and clerical) who work with and for parish councils. The first such conference was held in Boston in 1974, and subsequently in Cincinnati and Colorado Springs.

The next national DPCP Conference will be held in Detroit from Oct. 2-5. Cardinal John Dearden will host the conference.

Pastoral planning in the Catholic Diocese of Kalamazoo is now taking the form of parish as-semblies in which parishioners are invited to participate in setting goals for the Diocese for the next three years.

Input is expected in the areas of spiritual development, Christian service and Christian education.

The theme of the pastoral planning program in the Diocese is "Planning Together for Service."

The program is under the direction of the executive committee of the Diocesan Pastoral Council, of which Mrs. Joseph (Frances) Marsala of St. John the Evangelist parish, Benton Harbor, is a member.

Parish assemblies will be held until mid-March and will be followed by regional assemblies in late March. Parish delegates will meet with representatives of the Diocesan Pastoral Council and the Most Rev. Paul V. Donovan, Bishop of the Diocese of Kalamazoo at the regional assemblies to discuss the results of the parish assemblies.

Ideas gleaned from both parish and regional assemblies will become a part of pastoral planning data used to articulate diocesan goals.

The pastoral planning effort in the Diocese will culminate in a Diocesan Pastoral Assembly May 13 and 14 at Nazareth college, Kalamazoo.

Delegates from the Diocese's 45 parishes and 15 missions will join the Diocesan Pastoral Council in celebrating and ratifying the new diocesan goals which will be formally promulgated by the Bishop for 1977-1980.

A group of parish council service personnel from five midwestern dioceses will meet in Kalamazoo March 6 and 7 to discuss the formation of a national organization to serve the needs of professional parish council personnel throughout the country.

The first such conference was held in Boston in 1974, and subsequently in Cincinnati and Colorado Springs.

The next national DDCP Conference will be held in Detroit from Oct. 2-5. Cardinal John Dearden will host the conference.

Pastoral planning in the Catholic Diocese of Kalamazoo is now taking the form of parish as-semblies in which parishioners are invited to participate in setting goals for the Diocese for the next three years.

Input is expected in the areas of spiritual development, Christian service and Christian education.

The theme of the pastoral planning program in the Diocese is "Planning Together for Service."

The program is under the direction of the executive committee of the Diocesan Pastoral Council, of which Mrs. Joseph (Frances) Marsala of St. John the Evangelist parish, Benton Harbor, is a member.

Parish assemblies will be held until mid-March and will be followed by regional assemblies in late March. Parish delegates will meet with representatives of the Diocesan Pastoral Council and the Most Rev. Paul V. Donovan, Bishop of the Diocese of Kalamazoo at the regional assemblies to discuss the results of the parish assemblies.

Ideas gleaned from both parish and regional assemblies will become a part of pastoral planning data used to articulate diocesan goals.

The pastoral planning effort in the Diocese will culminate in a Diocesan Pastoral Assembly May 13 and 14 at Nazareth college, Kalamazoo.

Delegates from the Diocese's 45 parishes and 15 missions will join the Diocesan Pastoral Council in celebrating and ratifying the new diocesan goals which will be formally promulgated by the Bishop for 1977-1980.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE No. 281. Obadiah

In a vision, the Lord showed Obadiah the future of the land of Edom. The Edomites had betrayed Israel, and had even deserted them in time of need. However, they felt safe inasmuch as they had built their dwellings in high, inaccessible cliffs.

"The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rock, whose habitation is high; that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground? Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the Lord." (Obadiah 3-4)

Obadiah's brief prophecy concludes with the prediction that the land of Edom would be restored to the Lord: "And saviours shall come up on mount Zion to judge the mount of Esau; and the kingdom shall be the Lord's." (Obadiah 21)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Trying To Forget Teen Love

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing to you because I have a poem that I hope you will print, for every teenage girl who thought she was in love.

FORGET HIM

Forget his name, forget his face.
Forget his kiss, his warm embrace.
Forget the love that you once knew.
Remember he has someone new.
Forget him when they play your song.
Forget you cried the whole night long.
Forget how close you two once were.
Remember he has chosen her.
Forget you memorized his walk.
Forget the way he used to talk.
Forget the things he used to say.
Remember now he's gone away.
Forget his laugh.

Forget his grin.
Forget that dimple in his chin.
Forget the way he held you tight.
Remember he's with her tonight.
Forget the time that went so fast.
Forget the love that now is past.
Forget he said he'd leave you never.
Remember now he's gone forever! — A Girl With A Good Memory
Dear Girl: Here's your poem. I can hear the scissors snipping it out all over the globe.
Thanks for your poignant contribution to this space. It should answer for all time the question I am asked so often, "Can teenagers fall in love?" Of course they can.

Brassy Brat

Dear Ann Landers: My cousin is a divorcee in her late 30s. She insists on bringing her ten-year-old daughter to evening functions, dinners, showers, weddings, hotel dinners, etc. The child is very brassy, butts into conversations and takes right over. Many adults resent it. My husband says she's the most obnoxious kid he's ever seen.

I've hinted that the child needs more rest and she shouldn't be brought to evening affairs. But my cousin insists it's highly educational for a youngster to be around adults because she's with kids her own age during the day.
This child has no friends and is a pain in the neck. Who is wrong? — Fresno

Dear Fresno: Your cousin — and I feel sorry for the child. Since she is blind to the truth it's up to you (and others who have been imposed on) to tell the woman flat out, "The evening is for adults, so please don't bring the child."
CONFIDENTIAL to Small-Town Girl, Who Envious Her Poise: Don't be so sure. Poise is sometimes a matter of being too stupid to know you should be embarrassed.
Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

There was a time when most of us in the practice of medicine discounted the value of acupuncture because not enough was yet known about it. Today, more and more evidence is being accumulated to explain how acupuncture works for the relief of pain in some cases.

Dr. Bruce H. Pomeranz, of the University of Toronto, has long suspected that some hormone factor was responsible for the control of pain by acupuncture.

Recently, his studies pointed out that acupuncture stimulates the brain to release a special substance, endorphins. These hormone-like substances circulate in the blood, and are thought to block the pathways of pain.

His experimental work on animals indicates that Dr. Pomeranz's concepts are worthy of note.

Zinc is a mineral that is intriguing many doctors and, especially, pediatricians. Dr. Philip A. Walravens, of the University of Colorado Medical Center, believes there may be as many children with too little zinc in their diets as those with iron deficiency. He and his associates in the Department of Pediatrics believe that young infants and children who have poor appetites and are not developing as rapidly as expected may be suffering from a deficiency in zinc.

Their investigations show that zinc deficiency is a significant problem, even in pre-school children. They urge physicians who are faced with the problem of poor eating habits to send specimens of the blood and the hair of the child to laboratories specially equipped to test for this problem.

Manufacturers of formulas for infants and children are now adding supplemental zinc to their preparations.

Roquefort and blue cheese contain penicillin. Dr. Michael J. Felner, of the New York Medical College, called attention to an interesting case of severe hives that was traced to the penicillin in these cheeses.

A patient of his, after having taken penicillin, had developed hives, fever and swelling of the joints. All this disappeared when the penicillin was discontinued and when she was given an antihistamine.

Later, all the symptoms again appeared even though she was no longer taking penicillin. This time it was found that her "addiction" to blue cheese and Roquefort cheese was the offender.

When the cheeses were discontinued, the hives disappeared and never returned.

Our first choice is the eight. This is more likely to give East the impression that his partner led fourth best of a six-card suit headed by the ace than is the false card of the jack or 10. In other words, East is less likely to suspect you of falsecarding if you drop the eight.

Once the heart is returned you will be able to set up three heart tricks and wind up making a lot of notrump. If East shifts to a spade you will still make some number of notrump but you won't make your contract.

Scrabble's A Serious Game

By WILLIAM SCHIFFMAN
Associated Press Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Scrabble? It's just a parlor game, I sneered. something people play on the dining room table on a rainy day when there's nothing better to do.

That's what I THOUGHT UNTIL I met Lester Schonbrun. Our meeting, as fate would have it, took place over a Scrabble board.

Schonbrun says he's one of the top three Scrabble players in the country — maybe in the world. I had no reason to doubt him after our game. In a few short minutes I learned the agony of defeat, losing by the incredibly lopsided score of 485-141.

I knew I was in trouble when he brought a chess timer to the rickety table, along with a battered Scrabble set and a dictionary that looked like it had been mauled by a bear.

The chess timer, two wind-up clocks that work alternately to time each player, usually is set to give opponents 15 minutes apiece. Exceed your time limit and each minute is worth 10 points for your opponent.

Schonbrun honed his skills in New York City, where several chess clubs cater to the Scrabble crowd. That's where most of the top players are, he said.

"When I started, the good players were spotting me 150 or 175 points and still beating me," he recalled. "But I realized that I was good and I kept at it, and eventually I was the one giving the odds and winning. Just before we left New York, in 1970, no one wanted to play me."

Schonbrun, who admits he has hustled a few games with unsuspecting "fish," says the most he has won at Scrabble is $120. There is no official championship for the game, although there are some tournaments on the East Coast.

Scrabble was created in 1931 by architect Alfred Butts. It was originally sold by friends before Selchow & Righter Co. of Bay Shore, N.Y., was licensed to market it in 1953.

Scrabble is played on a board of 225 squares. Each player chooses seven lettered tiles from a pile of 100, and the object is to spell words on the board, covering as many of the red, blue or yellow extra-point squares as possible to boost your score.

Use of all seven tiles in one move — a bingo — means a 50-point bonus. The winner has the most points when all the tiles are gone.

"You have to know a lot of words," said Schonbrun, a muscular, balding man of middle age who works part time as a taxi dispatcher. "You have to read the dictionary, you have to remember words that are used on you — and you have to know the tricks."

Some of the tricks border on the dishonest, but it's all within the rules. When there's money on the line, as there often is when top players meet, you have to go for every advantage.

Old Ways Fine To Keep Warm

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

You can keep warm and cozy without using a lot of expensive fuel. Just borrow some ideas used by your grandparents.

"When I was a girl our bedrooms were as cold as any bedrooms could be," says 79-year-old Florence Scribner of Camondale, Conn. "We had no heat in them and no insulation but we were always cozy and snug and we were healthy."

"Before going to bed we would heat a brick or a round stone about the size of a grapefruit in the oven, wrap it in a piece of carpet and tuck it into our beds. First, we would test it by moistening a finger the way you might test to see if an iron is at the right temperature. We would look for nine round stones, the size of a grapefruit," she continues.

"On extremely cold nights we might add an aluminum hot water bottle. The aluminum held the heat better than some kinds you find today."

Sometimes youngsters would tuck heated stones in their pockets when they went off to school and when they went ice skating. If they felt cold they would rub the hot stones between their hands or stick their hands in their pockets to keep warm.

"In winter you went into your cold weather bed clothes. We didn't worry about looking fancy," Mrs. Scribner recalls. "We crocheted knitted ankle-length foot socks that were nice and warm. We wore some kind of little night cap to keep our heads warm and we wore flannel night gowns. We made warm bedcovers out of cotton scraps and lengths of fabric lined with cotton batting. The quilts were wonderfully warm, and colorful. Our bed sheets were longer in those days. They could be pulled up from the bottom to cover your body."

"The only time we put heat in a bedroom was when my great-aunt came to visit," she adds. "She would bring along her bed warmer, a metal pan with a long wood handle. Coals went into the metal pan."

A hearty, vigorous woman, and a widow, Mrs. Scribner is a petite 5 feet but maintains the house in which she grew up and takes care of the kinds of chores that keep it ticking along.

Nowadays Mrs. Scribner has a bit more heat, a side register in the wall, but she turns the heat on about a half hour before she plans to go to bed and then turns it off upon retiring.

Coloma Approves Three Interior Remodeling Jobs

COLOMA — Three building permits representing an estimated $5,400 in work were issued during the past three weeks by Richard Krieger, Coloma city building inspector.

Issued permits were Louis Hubert, to add paneling, new bath, and assorted repairs at 131 Washington street, estimated cost, $1,000. Lee Gast, 170 North Paw Paw street, raise floor, $500. Gladys Van Derveer, 539 Jackson Court, add paneling, ceiling tile, replace windows and add aluminum soffit and fascia, $3,900.

Novel Building Needs No Heater

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — When it's 25 degrees outside, it's 75 degrees inside — an heater needed.

"If we followed President Carter's request for a 65-degree reading we would use more energy because we would have to kick on the air conditioning system," said Julian Darden, one of the designers of the energy-efficient building at the Exxon Chemical Co. here.

The four-story, brick and concrete-block structure was a product of the 1973 energy crunch — designed to stop wasting gas and electricity.

To passers-by, it looks about like any other building, except for the lack of windows. But inside 300 employees work in shirtsleeves, warmed by a combination of body heat and ordinary fluorescent lighting.

The secret is insulation and lack of glass. It's a technique used supplementally in many office buildings around the country these days, but the Exxon building is one of the first specially designed to get most of its heat from people and lights.

Darden, a project engineer for Exxon, said the building is constructed of conventional materials at a cost no higher than an ordinary building with windows.

The only windows in the Exxon building are two tall, narrow, four-story openings, near coffee urns and soft drink machines.

"We have them mostly for psychological reasons," said Darden. "Employees like to see a few birds now and then."

The lights are directly over desks, so there is no waste in illuminating dark corridors and corners.

fluorescent lights in the ceiling and as the fresh air comes in, the light warms it. Body heat also helps. If the weather gets too cold outside, the vents slow the flow.

Here is the construction makeup from the inside out: Sheetrock walls, hollow concrete blocks, a layer of glue serving as a moisture shield, and finally, the outside brick wall. The roof is flat, of asphalt and gravel.

Why aren't more buildings built this way?

"Who knows?" Darden said.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q — Can you tell me how to insulate an attic floor between the joists? I intend to use the insulation that comes in batts.

A — Yes, but it would have helped if you had said whether some insulation is already there. If so, add a layer of batts on top. Be sure the new insulation does not have a vapor barrier. If the kind you bought already has such a barrier, remove it or slash it freely with a knife, then install it with the slashed surface down. If there is no insulation between the joists, just lay the batts in place. This time keep the vapor barrier face down; that is, facing the warm part of the house. The batts need not be stapled.

Power Companies Exploring Methods Of Storing Energy

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Power companies are testing many new ways to bring less costly energy to consumers. For example, storing electricity in bricks at night for use the next day. The night rate would be cheap, explained W. Danham Crawford, president of the Edison Electric Institute, an association of investor-owned electric utilities.

"It's an idea that has been used in European countries for decades. In the morning the electric load comes back and the reduced rate is cut off. The method has not been used in the United States before because electricity always has been cheap, but now it is justified," he explained.

The project is being tested he says, by the Green Mountain Power Corp. in Burlington, Vt., and the American Electric Power System which is field testing it in homes in areas from West Virginia to Michigan. It works like this: Two units of an electric thermal storage space heating system are positioned side by side — a conventional electric furnace and a British-built heat storage furnace containing a brick-like refractory core inside a heavily insulated metal cabinet.

From 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. the conventional electric furnace heats the home while the storage furnace is charging and storing heat for use the next day. At 7 a.m. both units cut off and for the next 16 hours, a blower moves air across the hot bricks in the storage core to provide heat for the home using electricity only to run the blower.

At 11 p.m. the off-peak direct heating and storage cycle begins anew.

"It's an idea that would be a good use of energy if we become heavily reliant on electrical cars in the future," Crawford explains. At night you would plug your car into a storage battery."

SHE'LL AID WOMEN PRISONERS

Rape Victim Is Acquitted

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — Inez Garcia, acquitted after 15 months in prison for killing a man she said helped rape her, says now she plans to spend more time with her son and go to work for women prisoners.

"I promised a lot of women in prison I would do what I could for them," Mrs. Garcia said late Friday, moments after a 10-man, two-woman jury declared her innocent in her second trial for second-degree murder.

Spectators in the tiny, packed Monterey County courtroom burst into cheers and tears when the verdict was announced.

Mrs. Garcia had been convicted in 1974 of killing Miguel Jimenez, a 300-pound man she said stood guard while another man raped her. Her conviction was overturned in December 1975 on a legal technicality and she was released on $5,000 bail.

Her case, like that of Joan Little in North Carolina, became a rallying point for feminists and made her a symbol of a woman's right to defend herself.

Miss Little, who was in jail on armed robbery charges, killed her guard and escaped when, she said, he tried to rape her. She was acquitted of the slaying last year.

"I thought I wasn't political, but I found out I am," Mrs. Garcia said outside court Friday. "I always believe the truth comes out. I want to thank the jury for believing in me."

Mrs. Garcia, who is separated, lives in Berkeley with her son, John, 13. The youth cried when the verdict was announced.

"He cried because I'm free," she said as she hugged him.

Prosecutor Arthur Braudrick, who argued that no rape occurred and that the shooting stemmed from a dispute over drugs, said he "assumed the jury believed she was telling the truth."

He complained about large-scale publicity during Mrs. Garcia's first trial. "This case was tried in the press the first time," he said. "As far as I can recall, every one of the jurors on this case read previous accounts."

However, jury foreman Herman Champlin said that most jurors were not familiar with news accounts of the first trial and were careful not to read them during the second.

"I don't think the verdict had anything to do with the news media," he said. "We didn't feel that the prosecutor proved practically anything beyond a reasonable doubt."

Braudrick had called witnesses who testified that after the shooting, Mrs. Garcia had asked to be roughed up so it would appear that she had been sexually assaulted.

Defense attorney Susan Jordan said she thought Mrs. Garcia's 4½ hours of testimony in her own defense won the case.

"A woman who gets raped will no longer be looked upon as a prostitute but as a victim," the San Francisco lawyer predicted.

Mrs. Garcia, 32, testified that Jimenez helped Louis Castillo rape her. Castillo was never charged in the case.

She said she was filled with shame and anger, loaded a .22-caliber rifle and found Jimenez within a half-hour of the alleged rape. He was shot five times on March 21, 1974, in Soledad, about 100 miles south of San Francisco.

He's No. 3 Man In Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detroit Judge Wade H. McCree has assumed the No. 3 post in the U.S. Justice department, solicitor general, following his Senate confirmation on Friday.

The Senate's approval of President Carter's nomination makes McCree, who has been on the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals bench in Cincinnati, the highest ranking black in the justice department.

The Senate also confirmed another black, Drew Days III of New York, and two women, Barbara Babcock of California and Patricia Wald of Maryland, to be assistant attorneys general.

Days, a lawyer with the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, is to head the Justice Department's civil rights division. Babcock will head the civil division and Wald the Office of Legislative Affairs.

Also confirmed were two other assistant attorneys general, Benjamin Civiletti, a Baltimore lawyer, to head the criminal division; and Daniel Meador, dean of the University of Virginia Law School, to head the office for improvements for the administration of justice.

In addition, the Senate confirmed the nominations of Thomas Ross, a former reporter for the Chicago Sun-Times, to be an assistant secretary of defense; R. James Woolsey of Maryland to be under secretary of the Navy; and of Robert Hall of Virginia to be an assistant secretary of commerce.

Ambulance Firm Chief Says His Man Is Shoved

Benton township police said three people were injured Friday in a two-car collision that brought two ambulances to the scene and the alleged pushing of one firm's attendant by an attendant of another.

Patrolman Roger Spencer said a Rampart ambulance arrived at the accident scene on Napier avenue just east of Union, about 4:15 p.m. Spencer said a Medic I ambulance of Community Emergency Service arrived moments later.

Stephen Reed, president of Rampart, later alleged to Benton Sgt. Donald Watkins that Larry Biesbrock, 21, a Rampart attendant, was pushed away by a Medic I attendant while Biesbrock was applying a bandage to a woman injured in the collision, police said.

No arrest was made, but Reed said he would contact the manager of Medic I and decide whether to file a formal charge of assault and battery.

Rampart is a private firm. Medic I is the new municipally-owned service for Benton and 8 other communities.

The injured woman, identified as Katherine Fredrick, 65, of 1322 Wolcott avenue, St. Joseph, was treated and released from Memorial hospital. She was a passenger in an auto driven by her husband, Herman, 70, who was reported this morning in "good" condition at Memorial.

Also reported injured but seeking his own treatment was a passenger in the other auto, Bruce Chesser, 25, of 104 South Maplewood, Berrien Springs. The driver of this auto, Brita L. Blomquist, 24, of 110 Meadow lane, Berrien Springs, was reported uninjured.

Spencer said Herman Fredrick, who was pulling into Napier from a private driveway, was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. Spencer said Brita Blomquist was ticketed for not having an operator's license on her person.

Man Arrested Inside Office, Patrolman Says

Bobbie D. Rogers, 29, of 794 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, was booked on a charge of breaking and entering after he was arrested inside the Benton Harbor public housing commission office at 925 Buss avenue about 4:42 a.m. today, according to Patrolman Jim Hartman.

Hartman said the man was apprehended while climbing through an inside window separating offices. Hartman said a typewriter and an adding machine were found on the ground outside the building. Hartman said he and Patrolmen Art Bell and Greg Platts went to the office after receiving a tip about an alleged burglary.

One man was arrested and another escaped during similar, but separate police chases reported yesterday and early this morning by Benton Harbor and Benton township police.

Seized in both incidents were autos reported by the owners to have been stolen.

City police at 1:36 this morning arrested Esker Downes Jr., 18, of 832 Pearl street, who was booked on charges of unlawfully driving away an auto and fleeing and eluding police.

Patrolmen James Spalo and Jim Hartman said the owner of a 1969 Cadillac, Willie Martin of 783 Pearl, hailed the officers in the 600 block of Broadway and reported that the auto had just been driven away. Martin said he left the engine running while visiting a short time with his sister.

Police said they saw an auto that matched a description and gave chase for several blocks. The officers said the auto stopped on Pipestone, and a man fled on foot. He was apprehended on Colby street after a foot chase, it was reported.

Benton township Patrolman Michael Krugh said he was driving along Territorial road near Stevens in Benton Harbor about 11:18 a.m. Friday when an auto rounded the corner, nearly hitting the patrol car and forcing another off the road.

Krugh said he chased the vehicle several blocks to the 600 block of Threshers avenue at speeds up to between 50 and 60 miles an hour. The auto stopped and a man got out and fled on foot.

Krugh said the car was traced to its owner, Eugene Wilson, 301 Stevens. Krugh said Wilson said the auto, a 1965 Oldsmobile, was stolen. Krugh said Wilson was not the man who fled from the vehicle.

St. Joseph police at 11 a.m. Friday seized a bag of suspected marijuana reported discovered in a hallway of Memorial hospital. Police said a hospital housekeeper said she discovered the bag in the hallway between men's and women's lockers in the basement of the north wing of the hospital. No arrest was made and an investigation is continuing, police said.

Benton Harbor police received two reports of vandalism to automobiles Friday.

Beverly Kirby of Meadowbrook road, route 1, Eau Claire, said the windshield and taillight of her auto were broken and chrome trim was bent while the vehicle was parked in the lot of central junior high school, 423 Broadway. The damage was discovered about 3 p.m. Ray Sessions told police at 12:30 p.m. the windshield of his auto was smashed while it was parked at his home, 292 Brunson avenue.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said an empty cash register was reported stolen shortly after midnight from Ramada Inn, Ferguson drive. The cash machine was reported stolen from a basement lounge area.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were: A television set and radio, valued at $150, from the home of Ella Rice, 664 Columbus avenue; and two chairs, valued at $50, from the home of Vinner Dickerson, 419 Riford street.

Township police reported items taken in the burglary included a turntable, cassette recorder, AM-FM stereo receiver, and two 18-inch speakers.

Entry into the house was made by kicking in a locked door, police said.

U.S. Orders Ban On Plastic Bottles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plastic soft drink and beer bottles containing the chemical acrylonitrile will be banned effective March 11, a congressman says.

The office of Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., said Friday the Food and Drug Administration confirmed that the order for the ban has been signed.

Michigan health authorities recently warned against use of the bottles because of possible health risks, and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs have urged a state ban on the containers.

The FDA announced Feb. 11 it intended to suspend its approval of the bottles, which have been tested in some areas, including Southeastern Michigan, but are not in general use. A spokesman for the FDA said Friday the order has not been made public.

The problem is the possible leakage of the chemical from the bottles into soft drinks and beer. Rats which drank water heavily laced with the chemical had "significantly lowered body weight and other adverse effects" such as lesions in the central nervous system, according to an FDA study.

Coca Cola and Pepsi Cola have test marketed the acrylonitrile bottles in some areas. FDA approval is needed before the bottles may be marketed for general use.

The agency said bottles still on retail shelves may be sold, an aide to Cotter said. The FDA order also permits bottles in warehouses to be sold as long as they are not in interstate commerce, the aide said.

Although the suspension would apply only to bottles used for soft drinks and beer, the FDA has said it also plans to reduce the amount of acrylonitrile permitted to leak into margarine and vegetable oil from tubs and bottles containing the chemical.

Jackson School Spending Target Of Probe By FBI

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — The FBI is looking into the way the Jackson County School District spends and accounts for federal funds, a Justice Department spokesman said Friday.

Some school officials have been questioned on the use of federal money for travel and entertainment expenses.

The investigation, which began last week, has so far turned up no evidence of wrongdoing by school officials, the federal official said.

School district comptroller Carl Eck reportedly was questioned by the FBI regarding accounting practices for the district's federal grants, which total $1 million this fiscal year.

The justice department official said the FBI is "making a preliminary inquiry to find out if there are federal laws that have been violated."

Meanwhile, the state Department of Education reportedly has warned school officials not to spend federal money for liquor or other entertainment expenses.

Supt. Richard Escott said Thursday that all purchases of alcoholic beverages with school funds had been stopped.

Last Monday, Escott suspended petty cash purchases pending an investigation into local spending practices by district officials.

The Jackson Board of Education has ordered an independent audit of the district's books. That audit now is underway.

Administrators reportedly have acknowledged spending about $7,000 this year on travel and entertainment for officials, staff members and district residents.

It appears that at least part of the money may have come from federal program funds, an official said.

Nathaniel Clay has admitted buying alcoholic beverages for a cocktail party with money from a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare grant. Clay is administrator of all federal programs in the district.

"It is my impression there was no violation of federal law," Eck said of the liquor purchases. The liquor and other entertainment expenses were requested as "in service supplies" for the district's federally-funded compensatory education program, he said.

Compensatory education is designed to upgrade the reading and arithmetic skills of about 1,300 children in kindergarten through sixth grade.

According to Clay, the district routinely holds workshops and conferences for administrators, staffers and parents who are part of the compensatory program.

"We do not condone ... the purchase of alcoholic beverages (with federal funds)," said Charles Silas, consultant on compensatory education with the State Department of Education which administers the HEW grant.

For the year ending last June 30, the district spent $397,461 for compensatory education programs. Of that, $11,867 was set aside for in-service training for staff members.

The Hungarian news agency MTI said "residents of multi-story houses ran into the streets" and factory work was halted in towns near the Romanian border.

Italian authorities said the quake shook Rome, Naples and most of central Italy, causing some tall buildings to sway. Glassware rattled and lamps swung in Vienna.

Retarded Home Probe Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate will call for a state mental health department probe into allegations of mismanagement at the Coldwater State Home for the mentally retarded.

State Sen. John R. Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, said he would offer a formal resolution next week calling for the investigation.

Otterbacher said his office has received complaints that a double standard of discipline exists for administrators and employees at the home.

"The charges warrant an investigation because they represent a potential threat to the well-being of the patients at Coldwater," Otterbacher said Friday.

Otterbacher is chairman of the Senate health committee.

Coldwater employees staged a protest near the home Wednesday. Robert Holmes, president of local 1345 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, organized the demonstration.

Holmes said five employees were suspended for several days after being accused of drinking alcohol in their office on New Year's Eve. Holmes said they were drinking only orange juice and no liquor was found.

However, Holmes said, home Supt. C. Dale Barrett was only mildly reprimanded in January when a janitor filed a complaint that he had discovered Barrett in "a compromising position" with a female administrative assistant.

State health officials said "appropriate action" was taken on the complaint, but would not elaborate.

Otterbacher said "morale is so low at Coldwater that employees feel their only recourse is to picket in mass protest."

"The probe is being placed where we hope we can see in three directions up the slopes and down the gangways," said Jack Tisdale, a MESA official. "We really don't know what we will find."

Tisdale said plans were scrapped Friday to fly a heavy drill in from Utah. Instead, a 32-inch drill was to be flown in from Ebensburg, Pa., for possible use Sunday if the television or microphones picked up signs of life.

Families of the missing waited in a chartered bus parked near the mine's entrance.

In a valley surrounded by coal-filled mountains, a funeral was held for Gary Klinger, 19. He drowned in the rush of water that apparently broke through from an abandoned mine shaft overhead.

Underneath an undertaker's tent that kept the rain off Klinger's coffin, the Rev. John R. Clough Jr. read the 23rd Psalm.

Philip Sabatino, 57, whose body was found behind a wall of debris and water Wednesday, will be buried Sunday.

Ambulance Firm Chief Says His Man Is Shoved

Benton township police said three people were injured Friday in a two-car collision that brought two ambulance firms to the scene and the alleged pushing of one firm's attendant by an attendant of another.

Patrolman Roger Spencer said a Rampart ambulance arrived at the accident scene on Napier avenue just east of Union, about 4:18 p.m. Spencer said a Medic I ambulance of Community Emergency Service arrived moments later.

Stephen Reed, president of Rampart, later alleged to Benton Sgt. Donald Watkins that Larry Biesbrouck, 21, a Rampart attendant, was pushed away by a Medic I attendant while Biesbrouck was applying a bandage to a woman injured in the collision, police said.

No arrest was made, but Reed said he would contact the manager of Medic I and decide whether to file a formal charge of assault and battery.

Rampart is a private firm. Medic I is the new municipally-owned service for Benton and 8 other communities.

The injured woman, identified as Katherine Fredrick, 65, of 1322 Wolcott avenue, St. Joseph, was treated and released from Memorial hospital. She was a passenger in an auto driven by her husband, Herman, 70, who was reported this morning in "good" condition at Memorial.

Also reported injured but seeking his own treatment was a passenger in the other auto, Bruce Closser, 25, of 104 South Maplewood, Berrien Springs. The driver of this auto, Brita L. Blomquist, 24, of 110 Meadow lane, Berrien Springs, was reported uninjured.

Spencer said Herman Fredrick, who was pulling onto Napier from a private driveway, was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. Spencer said Brita Blomquist was ticketed for not having an operator's license on her person.

Man Bound Over On Slaying Charge

Tommy L. Davis, 21, of 216 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, was bound over to Circuit court on an open charge of murder following a preliminary examination yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court.

He and two other men were charged in the death of Douglas W. Camper, 19, of 270 Urbandale avenue, Benton Harbor, who died Feb. 16 of a single stab wound in the upper chest. The stabbing allegedly occurred four days earlier during a fight involving Camper and three assailants.

The two other men charged in the murder were given jail terms yesterday after pleading to reduced charges of assault and battery during the preliminary exam.

Sammie Davis Jr., 19, brother of Tommy Davis, was sentenced to 60 days in jail after he pleaded no contest to the charge of assault and battery.

Leroy Terrell, 20, of 744 Columbus avenue, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 90 days in jail — the maximum allowable sentence — after pleading guilty to the charge.

Tommy Davis was returned to the county jail without bond pending arraignment in circuit court.

The determination on the charges came during a joint preliminary hearing for the three.

Judge Hugh W. Black ruled that the evidence presented yesterday showed that Terrell and Sammie Davis ceased fighting as soon as a knife was brandished.

"There was a concentrated effort to beat up and assault Camper, but that's a far cry from murder," Judge Black said when ruling on Terrell and Sammie Davis.

Benton Harbor police found Camper lying wounded behind a house near the intersection of Broadway and Britain avenue.

It was less than two blocks from the location of a birthday party where the fight allegedly began as a quarrel.

A kitchen knife believed used in the stabbing was turned in at police headquarters four days later by a witness, officers said.

Man Arrested Inside Office, Patrolman Says

Bobbie D. Rogers, 29, of 794 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, was booked on a charge of breaking and entering after he was arrested inside the Benton Harbor public housing commission office at 925 Buss avenue about 4:42 a.m. today, according to Patrolman Jim Hartman.

Hartman said the man was apprehended while climbing through an inside window separating offices. Hartman said a typewriter and an adding machine were found on the ground outside the building.

Hartman said he and Patrolmen Art Bell and Greg Platts went to the office after receiving a tip about an alleged burglary.

One man was arrested and another escaped during similar, but separate police chases reported yesterday and early this morning by Benton Harbor and Benton township police.

Seized in both incidents were autos reported by the owners to have been stolen.

City police at 1:56 this morning arrested Esker Bowens Jr., 19, of 932 Pearl street, who was booked on charges of unlawfully driving away an auto and fleeing and eluding police.

Patrolmen James Spalo and Jim Hartman said the owner of a 1969 Cadillac, Willie Martin of 783 Pearl, hailed the officers in the 600 block of Broadway and reported that the auto had just been driven away. Martin said he left the engine running while visiting a short time with his sister.

Police said they saw an auto that matched a description and gave chase for several blocks. The officers said the auto stopped on Pipestone, and a man fled on foot. He was apprehended on Colby street after a foot chase, it was reported.

Benton township Patrolman Michael Krugh said he was driving along Territorial road near Stevens in Benton Harbor about 11:18 a.m. Friday when an auto rounded the corner, nearly hitting the patrol car and forcing another off the road.

Krugh said he chased the vehicle several blocks to the 600 block of Thresher avenue at speeds up to between 50 and 60 miles an hour. The auto stopped and a man got out and fled on foot.

Krugh said the car was traced to its owner, Eugene Wilson, 301 Stevens. Krugh said Wilson said the auto, a 1965 Oldsmobile, was stolen. Krugh said Wilson was not the man who fled from the vehicle.

St. Joseph police at 11 a.m. Friday seized a bag of suspected marijuana reported discovered in a hallway of Memorial hospital. Police said a hospital housekeeper said she discovered the bag in the hallway between men's and women's lockers in the basement of the north wing of the hospital. No arrest was made and an investigation is continuing, police said.

Benton Harbor police received two reports of vandalism to automobiles Friday.

Beverly Kirby of Meadowbrook road, route 1, Eau Claire, said the windshield and taillight of her auto were broken and chrome trim was bent while the vehicle was parked in the lot of central junior high school, 423 Broadway. The damage was discovered about 3 p.m. Ray Session told police at 12:10 p.m. the windshield of his auto was smashed while it was parked at his home, 292 Brunson avenue.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said an empty cash register was reported stolen shortly after midnight from Ramada Inn, Ferguson drive. The cash machine was reported stolen from a basement lounge area.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were: A television set and radio, valued at $150, from the home of Ella Rice, 664 Columbus avenue; and two chairs, valued at $50, from the home of Vinner Dickerson, 419 Riford street.

U.S. Orders Ban On Plastic Bottles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plastic soft drink and beer bottles containing the chemical acrylonitrile will be banned effective March 11, a congressman says.

The office of Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., said Friday the Food and Drug Administration confirmed that the order for the ban has been signed.

Michigan health authorities recently warned against use of the bottles because of possible health risks, and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs have urged a state ban on the containers.

The FDA announced Feb. 11 it intended to suspend its approval of the bottles, which have been tested in some areas, including Southeastern Michigan, but are not in general use. A spokesman for the FDA said Friday the order has not been made public.

The problem is the possible leakage of the chemical from the bottles into soft drinks and beer. Rats which drank water heavily laced with the chemical had "significantly lowered body weight and other adverse effects" such as lesions in the central nervous system, according to an FDA study.

Coca Cola and Pepsi Cola have test marketed the acrylonitrile bottles in some areas. FDA approval is needed before the bottles may be marketed for general use.

The agency said bottles still on retail shelves may be sold, an aide to Cotter said. The FDA order also permits bottles in warehouses to be sold as long as they are not in interstate commerce, the aide said.

Although the suspension would apply only to bottles used for soft drinks and beer, the FDA has said it also plans to reduce the amount of acrylonitrile permitted to leak into margarine and vegetable oil from tubs and bottles containing the chemical.

Jackson School Spending Target Of Probe By FBI

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — The FBI is looking into the way the Jackson County School District spends and accounts for federal funds, a Justice Department spokesman said Friday.

Some school officials have been questioned on the use of federal money for travel and entertainment expenses.

The investigation, which began last week, has so far turned up "no evidence of wrongdoing by school officials, the federal official said.

School district comptroller Carl Eck reportedly was questioned by the FBI regarding accounting practices for the district's federal grants, which total $1 million this fiscal year.

The justice department official said the FBI is "making a preliminary inquiry to find out if there are federal laws that have been violated."

Meanwhile, the state Department of Education reportedly has warned school officials not to spend federal money for liquor or other entertainment expenses.

Supt. Richard Escott said Thursday that all purchases of alcoholic beverages with school funds had been stopped.

Last Monday, Escott suspended petty cash purchases pending an investigation into local spending practices by district officials.

The Jackson Board of Education has ordered an independent audit of the district's books. That audit now is underway.

Administrators reportedly have acknowledged spending about $7,000 this year on travel and entertainment for officials, staff members and district residents.

It appears that at least part of the money may have come from federal program funds, an official said.

Nathaniel Clay has admitted buying alcoholic beverages for a cocktail party with money from a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare grant. Clay is administrator of all federal programs in the district.

"It is my impression there was no violation of federal law," Eck said of the liquor purchases. The liquor and other entertainment expenses were requested as "in service supplies" for the district's federally-funded compensatory education program, he said.

Compensatory education is designed to upgrade the reading and arithmetic skills of about 1,300 children in kindergarten through sixth grade.

According to Clay, the district routinely holds workshops and conferences for administrators, staffers and parents who are part of the compensatory program.

"We do not condone ... the purchase of alcoholic beverages (with federal funds)," said Charles Silas, consultant on compensatory education with the State Department of Education which administers the HEW grant.

For the year ending last June 30, the district spent $397,461 for compensatory education programs. Of that, $11,867 was set aside for in-service training for staff members.

Pair Asks Hearing

PAW PAW — A Kalamazoo couple demanded examination yesterday in Seventh District court here on charges of breaking and entering an Antwerp township home Thursday night.

Charles Laning, 36, was lodged in Van Buren county jail after failing to post bond of $10,000. His wife, Jacqueline, 32, was also lodged in lieu of $1,200 bond. Laning pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of an unlicensed, loaded gun in a motor vehicle.

The couple was arrested Thursday night by Van Buren sheriff's deputies who said they spotted two people loading furniture from the home into a van about 10 p.m.

Chamber Meets At Three Oaks

Milliken Asks FDA To Lower PBB Level

At Least Endorse State Bills, He Urges

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has urged the Food and Drug Administration to clear the way for Michigan legislation by lowering federal tolerance guidelines for PBB in food to the "lowest reliably measurable level."

Milliken said in a telegram sent Friday to Joseph Califano, secretary of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, that the FDA should cut its level nationwide, or at least endorse pending state legislation to levels in Michigan.

The action is necessary to guard public health and restore consumer confidence in Michigan food, Milliken said.

Milliken press secretary Al Sandner said a change of heart by the FDA would "strengthen our case" in the legislature, where a bill is pending to reduce the amount of PBB allowable in food from 300 parts per billion — the FDA level — to 20 parts per billion.

"I believe this step, which I first urged nine months ago, is further justified as a precautionary step by the expanding body of scientific opinion that there could be long-term adverse health affect because of the present levels," Milliken said.

"But beyond the public health aspect, there is a growing threat to consumer confidence and the Michigan food industry that can be best met by the long-overdue decisive action of lowering levels," he said.

The FDA has consistently held that its current tolerance level for PBB in food is safe. The chemical, polybrominated biphenyl, was accidentally mixed with Michigan livestock feed in 1973, forcing the destruction of thousands of contaminated animals and raising fears that PBB-tainted food might cause human health problems.

Sandner said that if the FDA continues to insist current levels are safe, Michigan legislators faced with the prospect of making state law stricter than federal guidelines may balk and say, "What the hell? Why should we be holier than the Pope?"

In another PBB-related development, U. S. Sen. Donald Riegle announced Friday that he would hold four public hearings in Michigan late this month to study the impact of the PBB problem.

The hearings will be March 28 in Cadillac, March 29 in Grand Rapids, March 30 in Detroit and

March 31 in Lansing.

Riegle, the state's Democratic senator, is a member of the Senate Commerce Committee's subcommittee on science and space.

An aide to Milliken said the governor would direct state agencies to cooperate and believed Riegle's hearings would underscore the urgency of lowering PBB tolerance levels in food.

Berrien Official Has Surgery

Berrien County Drain Commissioner Carl F. Gnodtke was listed in "good" condition this morning in Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, after undergoing surgery Friday, according to the hospital.

A family member said Gnodtke, from Sawyer, had a toe removed. He'd injured the toe in an accident involving a pitfork several years ago, the family spokesman said.

Special Meeting Scheduled

COLOMA — The Coloma school board has scheduled a special meeting for Monday, beginning at 8 p.m., in the school administration center, according to Marshall Badt, board president.

Supt. William Barrett said one item of business is the hiring of a bookkeeper for the school system.

Farmer Says PBB Level Higher In Private Tests

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — Eight out of 10 private lab tests on Roy Tacoma's PBB-tainted cows showed higher levels than did state tests on the same animals, the Falmouth farmer testified Friday.

The Missaukee County farmer took the stand at the close of the first week of testimony in his $1 million Wexford County Circuit Court lawsuit against five firms he says are responsible for the loss of his cattle herd.

Among the firms being sued in the state's first PBB contamination trial are Michigan Chemical Co., which accidentally mixed the fire retardant into animal feed in 1973, and Michigan Farm Bureau Services, which distributed the tainted feed.

Tacoma said fat samples were taken from 10 animals on his farm last April 22. He insisted on having the samples split so he could keep half of them.

He sent his samples to the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation (WARF) and the results indicated nine of the 10 cows contained detectable levels of polybrominated biphenyl, PBB.

Eight of the privately analyzed tests showed higher amounts of PBB than those found by the state. In one instance, the levels were the same and the state found one sample with a higher level.

The largest amount of PBB in any sample was 4 parts per million (ppm) found by WARF. The state's test of that same sample showed .3 ppm, the legal limit for sale of an animal.

Tacoma spent most of Friday's court session displaying 56 color photographs of animals from his herd. The photos showed shaggy, discolored coats, deformed hooves, mucus in the eyes and nostrils, and emaciation.

In many instances, Tacoma said the animals shown were among the more than 100 he shot last July 15 because they were contaminated.

His attorney said Tacoma shot the animals because he felt guilty about having sold five animals with PBB beneath the tolerance level to a slaughterhouse. The attorney said Tacoma felt the animals should not be consumed by humans.

Tacoma also discussed other tests for PBB taken on his farm. They included milk samples with PBB as high as .28 ppm and chickens from his freezer showing .84 ppm. He also said a fat sample showing 1.58 ppm was found in one of his cows in August 1975.

The trial until Tuesday. Paul Greer, one of Tacoma's attorneys, said he expects to continue questioning his client all day Tuesday. Greer said he expects cross-examination of Tacoma to last two days beyond that. The attorney predicted it would be next Friday before the first of eight to 10 Michigan Chemical Co. employees begin testifying.

Greer said he expected said to question about eight to 10 Farm Bureau Services workers.

Hotel May Have Been Cheaper

SOUTH HAVEN — A Florida man found out yesterday a police station is not a good place to get a free nap.

City police said Arnett Robinson, 50, of Dade City, Fla., came into the station and asked for permission to sleep overnight in a jail cell.

Officers aed, but ran a routine file check and determined Robinson was sought by Niles state police on a delinquent traffic violation from February, 1971.

Robinson had told police that he was taking a bus from Florida to Benton Harbor but had slept through his stop and didn't awaken until South Haven. He decided to seek the night's refuge from police instead of getting back to Benton Harbor. Instead, he was to go to Niles today to answer the 1971 charge, police said.

Clark To Close Foundry At Buchanan Axle Plant

BUCHANAN — Clark Equipment Co. announced yesterday that the company has reached a tentative decision to close the foundry section of its axle division plant here.

The Clark announcement said about 100 workers would be affected if the foundry section is closed. Clark employs about 2,100 workers in its axle division.

The announcement was made by T.F. Sharp, axle division vice president and general manager who cited "increasing economic problems in the foundry and a steady decline of orders for the division's axle housings" as the reason for the possible closing.

Announcement of the possible closing of the foundry comes less than a year after Clark announced in July, 1976, that the company planned to build a 400,000 square foot manufacturing plant near Statesville, N.C. Plans then forecast construction completion for this year for the plant that will fabricate planetary axles for off-highway vehicles.

Currently, Clark builds its line of off-highway planetary axles in Buchanan.

In his statement, Sharp said the company finds the prospect of closing the foundry "regrettable, but we honestly believe that it is necessary in our attempt to strengthen the job security of the majority of our employees."

"Unfortunately," Sharp said, "We see no way that we can continue to operate the foundry without increasing the cost and price of our axles, an increase which we feel many of our customers would be unwilling to accept."

ANOTHER WARNED

Two Delinquent Fathers Jailed

Two fathers were given jail sentences this week in Berrien Circuit court for failing to pay child support and another father was threatened with jail unless he finds a job.

Edward Pastrick, chief investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported:

Larry Adams, of 5794 Haggar Place, Benton Harbor, received a 90-day jail sentence from Judge William S. White for $6,788 arrears for two children on ADC. He was also held in contempt of court, placed on two years probation, and ordered to find work within 60 days of his release from jail or spend four months behind bars.

Howard F. Post, of 2088 East Empire avenue, Benton

township, received a 30-weekend jail term from White for $718 arrears for one child on ADC, and was also held in contempt and placed on two years probation. White said that if Post finds work and signs a wage assignment of $6 weekly support and $4 weekly on the arrearage, the jail term can be vacated.

Connie Lee McGhee of Lansing was placed on two years probation by Judge Julian E. Hughes for $1,610 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work in 30 days and sign a wage assignment for $10 weekly support plus $5 on the arrearage per week or be brought back to court to face a jail term.

Tax Complaints Will Be Heard In Coloma Twp.

COLOMA — The Coloma township board of review will meet Tuesday through Thursday, March 8-10 at the township hall here to hear complaints regarding tax assessments.

Jack Page, township clerk, said the board will be in session 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., during each of the three days.

Utility Wants U.S. To Halt Hearings

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co. wants the federal government to halt further hearings on the construction permit for its Midland nuclear plant until the Supreme Court can review a dispute between the utility and Dow Chemical Co.

The appeal was made to the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) Friday.

It followed last week's U.S. high court decision to review an appeals court order in a dispute between Consumers Power and Dow, which was slated to be the highest customer of the nuclear plant.

NRC has been conducting a series of hearings in Chicago since last year to determine if construction of the $1.67 billion Midland plant should be continued, modified or suspended.

During the hearings, some Dow officials revealed they personally felt the plant no longer holds any advantage for their firm. In testimony, one official said he believed Dow could save money by building its own conventional power plant instead of waiting for completion of the much-delayed Consumers facility.

James B. Balabee, senior vice president of Consumers, said Friday he was confident the Supreme Court will reverse the appeals court decision.

He said, "We are prepared to continue the NRC hearings if the commission rules they should go forward but we feel it would be inappropriate and an unnecessary burden on all parties to do so in light of the Supreme Court action to review the case."

He said Consumers personnel will be in Chicago if the NRC decides to continue its hearing next Wednesday.

He pointed out that Dow was asked at one phase of the NRC hearing if it intended to fulfill its commitment to purchase steam and electricity from the Midland nuclear plant under current economics.

Dow told the NRC following a corporate review of the Midland nuclear project, "Dow's official position as a company remains unchanged."

Consumers said it has already spent $420 million on the facility which has been under construction since permits were issued in Dec. 1972.

Mercy Nurse Will Speak At Seminar

Mrs. Ernestine Rucker, R.N., nursing care coordinator at Mercy hospital in Benteleak on rehabilitation of myocardial infarction and coronary artery disease at a seminar Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital forum.

The seminar is sponsored by the Berrien County Heart Unit, which hopes to form a Southwestern Michigan Heart club composed of cardiac patients interested in helping others. Those interested in joining the club may do so following Mrs. Rucker's seminar.

The Heart Unit also plans future seminars for patients who have had open heart surgery or heart attacks. Topics include the effects of alcohol and smoking and behavior modification.

Invitations have been sent to 173 heart patients.

Food Stamps Reach Elderly In Berrien

An effort by the Berrien county department of social services to encourage handicapped and elderly persons to start using food stamps has been "quite successful," Mrs. Jan Brunetti said.

Mrs. Brunetti, the department's food stamp outreach coordinator, said the United States Department of Agriculture estimated last year that only 50 per cent of those eligible received food stamps.

The department's food stamp outreach effort began last May, and Mrs. Brunetti said many of the fixed-income persons she's spoken to have begun using the service. She said only 6 per cent of the people who use food stamps are over 64.

A person living alone can have up to $245 in monthly income and $1,500 in "resources" to qualify for food stamps, she said. Resources count interest paid on stocks or bonds or money in the bank, but do not count the value of the person's home, Mrs. Brunetti said. A two-person household can have monthly income of $322 and resources of $3,000 and still qualify, she said. Deductions are allowed for medical bills and other costs.

"Poor people must spend one-third of their income on food," she said. "Food stamps help people get a nutritionally sound diet that without food stamps they probably would not be able to have."

Milliken Asks FDA To Lower PBB Level

At Least Endorse State Bills, He Urges

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has urged the Food and Drug Administration to clear the way for Michigan legislation by lowering federal tolerance guidelines for PBB in food to the "lowest reliably measurable level."

Milliken said in a telegram sent Friday to Joseph Califano, secretary of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, that the FDA should cut its level nationwide, or at least endorse pending state legislation to levels in Michigan.

The action is necessary to guard public health and restore consumer confidence in Michigan food, Milliken said.

Milliken press secretary Al Sandner said a change of heart by the FDA would "strengthen our case" in the legislature, where a bill is pending to reduce the amount of PBB allowable in food from 300 parts per billion — the FDA level — to 20 parts per billion.

"I believe this step, which I first urged nine months ago, is further justified as a precautionary step by the expanding body of scientific opinion that there could be long-term adverse health affect because of the present levels," Milliken said. "But beyond the public health aspect, there is a growing threat to consumer confidence and the Michigan food industry that can be best met by the long-overdue decisive action of lowering levels," he said.

The FDA has consistently held that its current tolerance level for PBB in food is safe. The chemical, polybrominated biphenyl, was accidentally mixed with Michigan livestock feed in 1973, forcing the destruction of thousands of contaminated animals and raising fears that PBB-tainted food might cause human health problems.

Sandner said that if the FDA continues to insist current levels are safe, Michigan legislators faced with the prospect of making state law stricter than federal guidelines may balk and say, "What the hell? Why should we be holier than the Pope?"

In another PBB-related development, U. S. Sen. Donald Riegle announced Friday that he would hold four public hearings in Michigan late this month to study the impact of the PBB problem.

The hearings will be March 28 in Cadillac, March 29 in Grand Rapids, March 30 in Detroit and

March 31 in Lansing.

Riegle, the state's Democratic senator, is a member of the Senate Commerce Committee's subcommittee on science and space.

An aide to Milliken said the governor would direct state agencies to cooperate and believed Riegle's hearings would underscore the urgency of lowering PBB tolerance levels in food.

Berrien Official Has Surgery

Berrien County Drain Commissioner Carl F. Gnodtke was listed in "good" condition this morning in Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, after undergoing surgery Friday, according to the hospital.

A family member said Gnodtke, from Sawyer, had a toe removed. He'd injured the toe in an accident involving a pitchfork several years ago, the family spokesman said.

Special Meeting Scheduled

COLOMA — The Coloma school board has scheduled a special meeting for Monday, beginning at 8 p.m., in the school administration center, according to Marshall Badt, board president.

Supt. William Barrett said one item of business is the hiring of a bookkeeper for the school system.

Farmer Says PBB Level Higher In Private Tests

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — Eight out of 10 private lab tests on Roy Tacoma's PBB-tainted cows showed higher levels than did state tests on the same animals, the Falmouth farmer testified Friday.

The Missaukee County farmer took the stand at the close of the first week of testimony in his $1 million Wexford County Circuit Court lawsuit against five firms he says are responsible for the loss of his cattle herd.

Among the firms being sued in the state's first PBB contamination trial are Michigan Chemical Co., which accidentally mixed the fire retardant into animal feed in 1973, and Michigan Farm Bureau Services, which distributed the tainted feed.

Tacoma said fat samples were taken from 10 animals on his farm last April 22. He insisted on having the samples split so he could keep half of them.

He sent his samples to the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation (WARF) and the results indicated nine of the 10 cows contained detectable levels of polybrominated biphenyl, PBB.

Eight of the privately analyzed tests showed higher amounts of PBB than those found by the state. In one instance, the levels were the same and the state found one sample with a higher level.

The largest amount of PBB in any sample was .4 parts per million (ppm) found by WARF. The state's test of that same sample showed .3 ppm, the legal limit for sale of an animal.

Tacoma spent most of Friday's court session displaying 56 color photographs of animals from his herd. The photos showed shaggy, discolored coats, deformed hooves, mucus in the eyes and nostrils, and emaciation.

In many instances, Tacoma said the animals shown were among the more than 100 he shot last July 15 because they were contaminated.

His attorney said Tacoma shot the animals because he felt guilty about having sold five animals with PBB beneath the tolerance level to a slaughterhouse. The attorney said Tacoma felt the animals should not be consumed by humans.

Tacoma also discussed other tests for PBB taken on his farm. They included milk samples with PBB as high as .28 ppm and chickens from his freezer showing .84 ppm. He also said a fat sample showing 1.68 ppm was found in one of his cows in August 1975.

The trial until Tuesday. Paul Greer, one of Tacoma's attorneys, said he expects to continue questioning his client all day Tuesday. Greer said he expects cross-examination of Tacoma to last two days beyond that. The attorney predicted it would be next Friday before the first of eight to 10 Michigan Chemical Co. employees begin testifying.

Greer said he expected said to question about eight to 10 Farm Bureau Services workers.

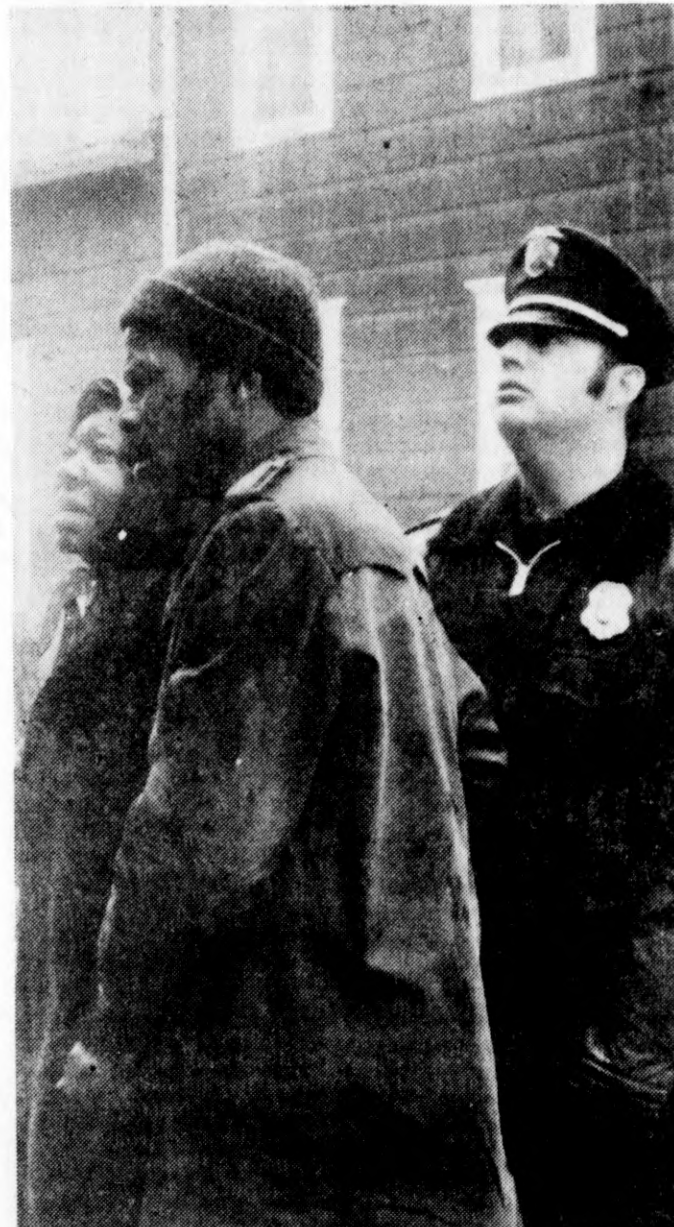

Hotel May Have Been Cheaper

SOUTH HAVEN — A Florida man found out yesterday a police station is not a good place to get a free nap.

City police said Arnett Robinson, 50, of Dade City, Fla., came into the station and asked for permission to sleep overnight in a jail cell.

Officers aed, but ran a routine file check and determined Robinson was sought by Niles state police on a delinquent traffic violation from February, 1971.

Robinson had told police that he was taking a bus from Florida to Benton Harbor but had slept through his stop and didn't awaken until South Haven. He decided to seek the night's refuge from police instead of getting back to Benton Harbor. Instead, he was to go to Niles today to answer the 1971 charge, police said.

Clark To Close Foundry At Buchanan Axle Plant

BUCHANAN — Clark Equipment Co. announced yesterday that the company has reached a tentative decision to close the foundry section of its axle division plant here.

The Clark announcement said about 100 workers would be affected if the foundry section is closed. Clark employs about 2,100 workers in its axle division.

The announcement was made by T.F. Sharp, axle division vice president and general manager who cited "increasing economic problems in the foundry and a steady decline of orders for the division's axle housings" as the reason for the possible closing.

Announcement of the possible closing of the foundry comes less than a year after Clark announced in July, 1976, that the company planned to build a 400,000 square foot manufacturing plant near Statesville, N.C. Plans then forecast construction completion for this year for the plant that will fabricate planetary axles for off-highway vehicles.

Currently, Clark builds its line of off-highway planetary axles in Buchanan.

In his statement, Sharp said the company finds the prospect of closing the foundry "regrettable, but we honestly believe that it is necessary in our attempt to strengthen the job security of the majority of our employees."

"Unfortunately," Sharp said, "We see no way that we can continue to operate the foundry without increasing the cost and price of our axles, an increase which we feel many of our customers would be unwilling to accept."

ANOTHER WARNED

Two Delinquent Fathers Jailed

Two fathers were given jail sentences this week in Berrien Circuit court for failing to pay child support and another father was threatened with jail unless he finds a job.

Edward Pastrick, chief investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported:

Larry Adams, of 5794 Hagar Place, Benton Harbor, received a 90-day jail sentence from Judge William S. White for $6,768 arrears for two children on ADC. He was also held in contempt of court, placed on two years probation, and ordered to find work within 60 days of his release from jail or spend four months behind bars.

Howard F. Post, of 2088 East Empire avenue, Benton

township, received a 10-weekend jail term from White for $718 arrears for one child on ADC, and was also held in contempt and placed on two years probation. White said that if Post finds work and signs a wage assignment of $6 weekly support and $4 weekly on the arrearage, the jail term can be vacated.

Connie Lee McGhee of Lansing was placed on two years probation by Judge Julian E. Hughes for $1,610 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work in 30 days and sign a wage assignment for $10 weekly support plus $5 on the arrearage per week or be brought back to court to face a jail term.

Utility Wants U.S. To Halt Hearings

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co. wants the federal government to halt further hearings on the construction permit for its Midland nuclear plant until the Supreme Court can review a dispute between the utility and Dow Chemical Co.

The appeal was made to the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) Friday.

It followed last week's U.S. high court decision to review an appeals court order in a dispute between Consumers Power and Dow, which was slated to be the biggest customer of the nuclear plant.

NRC has been conducting a series of hearings in Chicago since last year to determine if construction of the $1.67 billion Midland plant should be continued, modified or suspended. During the hearings, some Dow officials revealed they personally felt the plant no longer holds any advantage for their firm. In testimony, one official said he believed Dow could save money by building its own conventional power plant instead of waiting for completion of the much-delayed Consumers facility.

James B. Falahee, senior vice president of Consumers, said Friday he was confident the Supreme Court will reverse the appeals court decision.

Pistons Lose Bob Lanier For At Least Four Weeks

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons lost more than a basketball game Friday night. Shortly after their 94-92 heartbreaker at the hands of the Boston Celtics, team physicians reported the bad news: star center Bob Lanier will be out at least four weeks with a fractured bone in his right hand.

"I was driving to the hoop in the first quarter and somebody came down across my wrist," Lanier said before going for X-rays. He thought it might have been Boston's Curtis Rowe or Sidney Wicks.

Lanier stayed in for 16 minutes in the first half and 13 in the second before telling Coach Herb Brown to send in rookie Leon Douglas.

"He could rebound and block shots, but I couldn't give us nothing," moaned the big center, who has been having his best season out of seven with the National Basketball Association. Far off his season 25.5 point scoring average, Lanier managed only two shots out of 12 tries Friday.

"Bob just wanted to play," said Brown. "It shows what kind of guy he is."

Detroit also was hampered by the absence of Howard Porter and Eric Money — both out with injuries — and Marvin Barnes and Douglas were playing with slight injuries.

Boston, taking advantage of the situation, rallied from a six point deficit in the final quarter under the leadership of Kevin Stacy and JoJo White, moving ahead three times by two points before a Barnes basket with 1:49 to go tied it 88-88.

Then, in the final 90 seconds Sidney Wicks hit a basket and two free throws and Rowe a basket, offsetting Kevin Porter's basket and two free throws to give it to the Celtics.

"It was a wild and wooly game," said an elated Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn. "We won because we stopped throwing the ball away."

Boston had 22 turnovers in the first half — 13 in second quarter alone. The Celtics wound up with 36 turnovers altogether.

It was the 10th straight road game for Boston, which ends the away-from-home series 6-4.

Detroit, one of the best-shooting teams in the NBA this season with a 49 per cent average from the field, made only 40 of 101 shots Friday night, and missed 12 of 34 free throws.

Boston also made 40 shots but hit on 14 of 21 free throws and that made all the difference.

White with 21 points, Wicks, 18, and John Havlicek, 15, topped the Celtics, who by winning ended a two-game losing streak and upped their season record to 32-31.

Barnes finished with 19 points and Chris Ford 14 for the Pistons, who dropped five games behind leading Denver in the Midwest division.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Bulls

trounced the Los Angeles Lakers 114-99, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 113-101, the Golden State Warriors whipped the Phoenix Suns 101-87, the Atlanta Hawks nipped the Washington Bullets 100-99, the San Antonio Spurs walloped the New York Nets 133-121 and the Buffalo Braves downed the New Orleans Jazz 95-91.

Norm Van Lier led a 21-5 second-half blitz as the Bulls cruised to a 36-point lead with 7:47 remaining. Van Lier led the Bulls balanced attack with 21 points, followed by rookie Scott May with 18. Wilbur Holland with 17, Artis Gilmore with 16, Mickey Johnson with 15 and John Mengelt with 14. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 18 for the Lakers.

Campy Russell led Cleveland with 26 points while Fouts Walker and Bingo Smith tallied key baskets after Portland narrowed a 14-point deficit to two late in the third period. It was 85-77 heading into the fourth quarter and Cleveland built its lead to 101-82 behind the scoring of Dick Snyder and Gary Brokaw.

Phil Smith scored 34 points as the Warriors posted their fifth victory in a row and dealt the Suns their seventh consecutive loss. Phoenix crept to within one point late in the third quarter but Smith went to work and scored eight points to make it 79-73.

John Brown provided the margin of victory by canning two free throws with three seconds. Phil Chenier, who scored Washington's final six points and finished with 21, had given the Bullets a 99-98 with a jump shot. John Drew led the Hawks with 25 points and Ken Charles added 20. Elvin Hayes topped the Bullets with 24.

Larry Kenon came back to haunt his former team with 39 points and 10 rebounds. Kenon had plenty of help from Mark Olberding and Allan Bristow with 20 points apiece while Mike Gale, another ex-Nets, piled up 11 assists.

VIRGINIA WINS AGAIN

Rated Cardinals Fall

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coach Denny Crum of 10th-ranked Louisville says basketball is "a crazy game because you can pick out 100 times each year where the team that's supposed to win doesn't."

Crum faced one of those times Friday night when Georgia Tech upset the heavily-favored Cardinals 58-55 in the Metropolitan Conference tournament, using a patient offense that took Louisville out of its running game.

The victory earned Tech, 189, a spot opposite No. 14 Cincinnati, 24-4, in tonight's championship game with the winner moving into next week's NCAA Midwest Regional tournament.

Cincinnati advanced with a 68-67 triumph over Memphis State on Gary Yoder's two free throws with only four seconds left.

"Our youngsters have to play harder than most others because of their physical ability," said Tech Coach Dwane Morrison. "These are solid people."

Morrison's "solid people" were among the least likely to reach the finals of the Metro, but they did it with a patient offense that left the Cardinals frustrated. Louisville had 23 turnovers, allowing Tech to win despite its 35 per cent field goal shooting.

Tech, trailing most of the night, went in front to stay at 52-51 on an 18-foot jumper by Tico Brown and built three-point leads on two free throws by Jim Wood and a baseline jumper by Randy Foster that made it 56-53 with 1:49 left.

Rick Wilson's free throws cut it to one 48 seconds later, but Tech survived the final hectic minute to hand Louisville only its sixth setback in 27 games.

Wood led all scorers with 23 points and Wesley Cox paced the Cards with 17.

Cincinnati used a similar patient style in the nightcap to down Memphis, which lost at home for only the second time in 19 games.

Memphis State appeared to have the game in control, erasing a late four-point deficit on a 20-footer by Alvin Wright and a pair of free throws by Dexter Reed, giving the Tigers a 67-66 lead with 44 seconds left. James Bradley missed the first shot of a one-and-one situation, giving Yoder his opportunity to win the game.

Yoder led Bearcat scoring with 18 points and Wright had 23 for the losers.

One tournament championship and several other final matchups were decided in other college basketball action Friday night.

Six overtime free throws by Daryl Winston carried Kansas State to a comeback 72-67 triumph over Missouri and the championship of the Big Eight tournament at Kansas City.

Bob Stokes scored 16 points to help Virginia surprise 18th-ranked Clemson 72-60 and reach the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament against North Carolina. The sixth-ranked Tar Heels got 22 points from Walter Davis and downed North Carolina State 70-56 in the other semifinal at Greensboro, N.C.

Otis Birdsong scored 38 points and the Houston Cougars made 11 of their first 13 shots on their way to beating Texas Tech 94-83 and reaching the finals of the Southwest Conference tournament against seventh-ranked Arkansas.

Villanova moved into the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League's final playoff against Duquesne when Keith Herron scored six points in overtime to lead the Wildcats to an 83-75 triumph over West Virginia. Duquesne got 20 points from Norm Nixon to post an upset 89-82 victory over Massachusetts in the other semifinal.

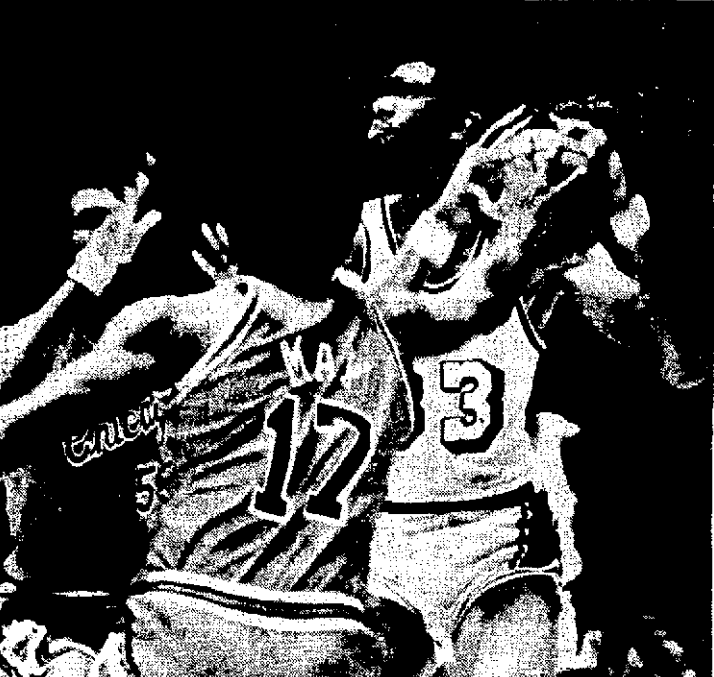

Melvin Jones amassed 29 points to pace West Texas State's 79-68 upset of Wichita State in the Missouri Valley Conference tournament. The triumph sent the Buffaloes into the finals against Southern Illinois, which is assured a berth in the NCAA regional playoffs because West Texas State is on probation and prohibited from participating in the tournament.

At Easton, Pa., freshman guard Kurt Kanaskie scored 21 points to power LaSalle past Lafayette 86-80 and into the finals of East Coast Conference tournament. Hofstra, on 21 points by John Irving, beat Temple 71-59 to gain the right to meet LaSalle.

Mark Mattos made two free throws with 22 seconds left to give Weber State a 69-68 triumph over Gonzaga, which will meet Idaho State in the finals of the Big Sky tournament. Idaho State downed Montana State 93-77.

Ralph Garner scored 22 points and Calvin Garrett 21 as Austin Peay topped Murray State 82-75 to reach the final of the Ohio Valley Conference tournament at Clarksville, Tenn. They'll meet Middle Tennessee State, which drubbed Morehead 82-70 on 24 points by Bob Martin and 23 by Lewis Mack.

And in a President's Athletic Conference game, Carroll University's Blue Streaks gave Coach Ed Janka a farewell gift by beating Washington and Jefferson 76-60. Janka announced his resignation before the game.

Rated Prep Cage Teams Continue Winning Ways

From ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Rated teams continued their surge toward championship showdowns Friday, as a number of Michigan high school district titles were wrapped up across the state.

But what had to be one of the most breath-stopping games came between a pair of Detroit Class B teams that didn't make the polls, as DeLaSalle pulled from behind in the last 28 seconds to defeat Austin, 55-54.

The last minute surge began when senior Pete Wollston sank a one-for-one. Five seconds later, junior Ed Korman did the same, giving DeLaSalle its one-point margin that held up when an inbound Austin pass failed and the clock ran out.

Another close one came in Class A competition as Davison downed Port Huron Northern 75-74 in overtime. Regulation time ended with a 64-64 tie. With 17 seconds left in overtime, senior forward Bruce Peters made it 75-72 for Davison on a pair of free throws.

Larry Gunter dumped in a two-pointer with three seconds left, but it wasn't quite enough for Northern.

Also in Class A, second-ranked Pontiac Central defeated fourth-ranked Pontiac Northern, 66-63, but took three overtimes to do it.

Other rated Class A teams emerging victorious Friday were Detroit Catholic Central, 78-60 over Detroit Martin Luther King; Birmingham Brother Rice, 39-35 over Detroit Central; and Saginaw downing Saginaw Arthur Hill, 64-58.

In Class B, seventh-ranked Muskegon Heights topped Muskegon Catholic 83-62. Fifth-rated Class C Norway defeated Stephenson, 78-54.

Yankees Eye Cuban Trip

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees are awaiting Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's approval to play exhibition games in Cuba next month on an indirect invitation from Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

"We're ready and willing, but no club can go over there without the commissioner's approval," Yankee President Gabe Paul said Friday at the team's training camp here.

"He (Kuhn) has other ideas. He wants an all-star team to go, not individual clubs. Until he changes his mind we can't get clearance."

In a news conference Friday in Washington, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said he supports Castro's proposal that the countries exchange athletic teams.

That put official approval on the Yankees and also for a combined 10-man basketball team from the South Dakota and South Dakota State universities. The Yankees want to visit the island April 1-3.

Asked if the Yankees

specifically requested Kuhn's permission, Paul said: "Let's put it this way—he has approached us."

In New York, Kuhn said: "Our interest in Cuba continues, but that's as far as we can go. I will not and cannot make any further statements at this time."

Castro's first feeler to the Yankees was extended before Christmas through David LeFevre, a New York-based lawyer with contacts in Cuba. LeFevre said he has been in frequent contact about the matter with Cuban officials and Kuhn's office.

The Yankees already are scheduled to play exhibition games April 1-3 against the Baltimore Orioles, the University of North Carolina and the Detroit Tigers. Paul said any conflict could be ironed out if permission is granted for the trip to Cuba.

In other spring training camps:

—The Philadelphia Phillies signed third baseman Mike Schmidt, the major league home run leader, to a six-year contract for around $2 million.

Asked if the long-term pact could tone down some of his incentive, Schmidt said: "I made $120,000 last year and never thought about it one time while I was on the field. I tried to carry the same personality out on the field and just play ball."

—Dave Kingman of the New York Mets, runner-up to Schmidt in the home run derby, remained unsigned and called the Mets' front office "conserverative."

—The Cleveland Indians signed star pitcher Dennis Eekersley for three years and rookie hurler Tom McGough for one.

Illinois took an early team lead with 10 points, followed by Indiana with seven, Michigan State six, Michigan five, and Minnesota and Ohio State's two each.

The meet wraps up with today's finals.

Spartans' Lindsay Wins Big 10 Two-Mile Title

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — For Illinois' Chraleton Ehizuelen, it was the same old story. For Michigan State's Herb Lindsay, the plot took a new twist.

Ehizuelen won his fourth straight high jump crown and Lindsay took his first two-mile title in finals action of the Big Ten's indoor track and field championships Friday.

"I couldn't believe it," Ehizuelen said. "I predicted this morning that I would jump 25-9. But I went one-quarter inch past."

"I could have had a 26-footer, but I tucked in right at the end because the pit is a little short," Ehizuelen said.

Lindsay also qualified for today's quick mile field, which

His jump set a new field house record surpassing the 24-3/4 mark set by runnerup James Henry of Michigan earlier this year.

Ehizuelen also qualified for today's 60-yard dash finals, and will defend his triple jump title.

Lindsay, benefitting from the absence of defending two-mile champion Craig Virgin of Illinois, outran Indiana's Dan Visscher, 8:43.97 to 8:44.22.

Virgin opted to run only today's three-mile this year.

"I was just lucky to win," a tired Lindsay said. "I didn't know I had it until I looked back on the last straightaway. It was by no means easy."

Lindsay also qualified for today's quick mile field, which

Marc Schlatter second, followed by Iowa's Mike Hurley.

The Indiana 200 freestyle relay team of Madruga, Hersey, Montgomery and Ken Keim took first at 6:45.03. Michigan placed second and Michigan State third.

In team scoring going into today's finals, Indiana had 449 while second place Wisconsin had 309. Michigan was third with 246.5, Michigan State had 243, Ohio State 226, Iowa 159.5, Illinois 152, Purdue 92, Minnesota 87, and Northwestern 83.

Pistons Lose Bob Lanier For At Least Four Weeks

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons lost more than a basketball game Friday night.

Shortly after their 94-92 heartbreaker at the hands of the Boston Celtics, team physicians reported the bad news: star center Bob Lanier will be out at least four weeks with a fractured bone in his right hand.

"I was driving to the hoop in the first quarter and somebody came down across my wrist," Lanier said before going for X-rays. He thought it might have been Boston's Curtis Rowe or Sidney Wicks.

Lanier stayed in for 16 minutes in the first half and 13 in the second before telling Coach Herb Brown to send in rookie Leon Douglas.

"He could rebound and block shots, but I couldn't give up nothing," moaned the big center, who has been having his best season out of seven with the National Basketball Association. Far off his season 25.5 point scoring average, Lanier managed only two shots out of 12 tries Friday.

"Bob just wanted to play," said Brown. "It shows what kind of guy he is."

Detroit also was hampered by the absence of Howard Porter and Eric Money — both out with injuries — and Marvin Barnes and Douglas were playing with slight injuries.

Boston, taking advantage of the situation, rallied from a six point deficit in the final quarter under the leadership of Kevin Stacum and JoJo White, moving ahead three times by two points before a Barnes basket with 1:49 to go tied it 88-88.

Then, in the final 90 seconds Sidney Wicks hit a basket and two free throws and Rowe a basket, offsetting Kevin Porter's basket and two freethrows to give it to the Celtics.

"It was a wild and wooly game," said an elated Boston Coach Tommy Heinsoun. "We won because we stopped throwing the ball away."

Boston had 22 turnovers in the first half — 14 in second quarter alone. The Celtics wound up with 36 turnovers altogether.

It was the 10th straight road game for Boston, which ends the away-from-home series 6-4.

Detroit, one of the best-shooting teams in the NBA this season with a 49 per cent average from the field, made only 40 of 101 shots Friday night, and missed 12 of 24 free throws.

Boston also made 40 shots but hit on 14 of 21 free throws and that made all the difference.

White with 21 points, Wicks, 18, and John Havlicek, 15, topped the Celtics, who by winning ended a two-game losing streak and upped their season record to 32-31.

Barnes finished with 19 points and Chris Ford 14 for the Pistons, who dropped five games behind leading Denver in the Midwest division.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Bulls

trounced the Los Angeles Lakers 114-99, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 113-101, the Golden State Warriors whipped the Phoenix Suns 101-87, the Atlanta Hawks nipped the Washington Bullets 100-99, the San Antonio Spurs walloped the New York Nets 135-121 and the Buffalo Braves downed the New Orleans Jazz 95-91.

Norm Van Lier led a 21-5 second-half blitz as the Bulls cruised to a 36-point lead with 7:47 remaining. Van Lier led the Bulls balanced attack with 21 points, followed by rookie Scott May with 18, Wilbur Holland with 17, Artis Gilmore with 16, Mickey Johnson with 15 and John Mengelt with 14. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 18 for the Lakers.

Campy Russell led Cleveland with 26 points while Fouts Walker and Bingo Smith tallied key baskets after Portland narrowed a 14-point deficit to two late in the third period. It was 85-77 heading into the fourth quarter and Cleveland built its lead to 101-82 behind the scoring of Dick Snyder and Gary Brokaw.

Phil Smith scored 34 points as the Warriors posted their fifth victory in a row and dealt the Suns their seventh consecutive loss. Phoenix crept to within one point late in the third quarter but Smith went to work and scored eight points to make it 79-73.

John Brown provided the margin of victory by canning two free throws with three seconds. Phil Chenier, who scored Washington's final six points and finished with 21, had given the Bullets a 99-98 with a jump shot. John Drew led the Hawks with 29 points and Ken Charles added 20. Elvin Hayes topped the Bullets with 24.

Larry Kenon came back to haunt his former team with 39 points and 10 rebounds. Kenon had plenty of help from Mark Olberding and Allan Bristow with 20 points apiece while Mike Gale, another ex-Net, piled up 11 assists.

VIRGINIA WINS AGAIN Rated Cardinals Fall

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coach Denny Crum of 10th-ranked Louisville says basketball is "a crazy game because you can pick out 100 times each year where the team that's supposed to win doesn't."

Crum faced one of those times Friday night when Georgia Tech upset the heavily-favored Cardinals 56-55 in the Metropolitan Conference tournament, using a patient offense that took Louisville out of its running game.

The victory earned Tech, 189, a spot opposite No. 14 Cincinnati, 24-4, in tonight's championship game with the winner moving into next week's NCAA Midwest Regional tournament.

Cincinnati advanced with a 68-67 triumph over Memphis State on Gary Yoder's two free throws with only four seconds left.

"Our youngsters have to play harder than most others because of their physical ability," said Tech Coach Dwane Morrison. "These are solid people."

Morrison's "solid people" were among the least likely to reach the finals of the Metro, but they did it with a patient offense that left the Cardinals frustrated. Louisville had 23 turnovers, allowing Tech to win despite its 35 per cent field goal shooting.

Tech, trailing most of the night, went in front to stay at 52-51 on an 18-foot jumper by Tico Brown and built three-point leads on two free throws by Jim Wood and a baseline jumper by Randy Foster that made it 56-53 with 1:49 left.

Rick Wilson's free throws cut it to one 48 seconds later, but Tech survived the final hectic minute to hand Louisville only its sixth setback in 27 games.

Wood led all scorers with 23 points and Wesley Cox paced the Cards with 17.

Cincinnati used a similar patient style in the nightcap to down Memphis, which lost at home for only the second time in 19 games.

Memphis State appeared to have the game in control, erasing a late four-point deficit on a 20-footer by Alvin Wright and a pair of free throws by Dexter Reed, giving the Tigers a 67-66 lead with 44 seconds left. James Bradley missed the first shot of a one-and-one situation, giving Yoder his opportunity to win the game.

Yoder led Bearcat scoring with 18 points and Wright had 23 for the losers.

One tournament championship and several other final matchups were decided in other college basketball action Friday night.

Six overtime free throws by Daryl Winston carried Kansas State to a comeback 72-67 triumph over Missouri and the championship of the Big Eight tournament at Kansas City.

Bob Stokes scored 16 points to help Virginia surprise 18th-ranked Clemson 72-60 and reach the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament against North Carolina. The sixth-ranked Tar Heels got 22 points from Walter Davis and downed North Carolina State 70-56 in the other semifinal at Greensboro, N.C.

Otis Birdsong scored 38 points and the Houston Cougars made 11 of their first 13 shots on their way to beating Texas Tech 94-83 and reaching the finals of the Southwest Conference tournament against seventh-ranked Arkansas.

Villanova moved into the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League's final playoff against Duquesne when Keith Herron scored six points in overtime to lead the Wildcats to an 83-75 triumph over West Virginia. Duquesne got 20 points from Norm Nixon to post an upset 89-82 victory over Massachusetts in the other semifinal.

Melvin Jones amassed 29 points to pace West Texas State's 79-68 upset of Wichita State in the Missouri Valley Conference tournament. The triumph sent the Buffaloes into the finals against Southern Illinois, which is assured a berth in the NCAA regional playoffs because West Texas State is on probation and prohibited from participating in the tournament.

At Easton, Pa., freshman guard Kurt Kanskies scored 21 points to power LaSalle past Lafayette 86-80 and into the finals of East Coast Conference tournament. Hofstra, on 21 points by John Irving, beat Temple 71-58 to gain the right to meet LaSalle.

Mark Matlos made two free throws with 22 seconds left to give Weber State a 69-68 triumph over Gonzaga, which will meet Idaho State in the finals of the Big Sky tournament. Idaho State downed Montana State 93-77.

Ralph Garner scored 22 points and Calvin Garrett 21 as Austin Peay topped Murray State 82-75 to reach the final of the Ohio Valley Conference tournament at Clarksville, Tenn. They'll meet Middle Tennessee State, which drubbed Morehead 92-70 on 24 points by Bob Martin and 23 by Lewis Mack.

And in a President's Athletic Conference game, Carroll University's Blue Streaks gave Coach Ed Janka a farewell gift by beating Washington and Jefferson 76-60. Janka announced his resignation before the game.

Yankees Eye Cuban Trip

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees are awaiting Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's approval to play exhibition games in Cuba next month on an indirect invitation from Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

"We're ready and willing, but no club can go over there without the commissioner's approval," Yankee President Gabe Paul said Friday at the team's training camp here.

"He (Kuhn) has other ideas. He wants an all-star team to go, not individual clubs. Until he changes his mind we can't get clearance."

In a news conference Friday in Washington, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said he supports the Yankees' proposal that the countries exchange athletic teams.

That put official approval on the Yankees and also for a combined 10-man basketball team from the South Dakota and South Dakota State universities. The Yankees want to visit the island April 1-3.

Asked if the Yankees

specifically requested Kuhn's permission, Paul said: "Let's put it this way—he has approached us."

Rated Prep Cage Teams Continue Winning Ways

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rated teams continued their surge toward championship showdowns Friday, as a number of Michigan high school district titles were wrapped up across the state.

But what had to be one of the most breath-stopping games came between a pair of Detroit Class B teams that didn't make the polls, as DeLaSalle pulled from behind in the last 28 seconds to defeat Austin, 55-54.

The last minute surge began when senior Pete Wollston sank a one-for-one. Five seconds later, junior Ed Kornas did the same, giving DeLaSalle its one-point margin that held up when an inbound Austin pass failed and the clock ran out.

Another close one came in Class A competition as Davison downed Port Huron Northern 75-74 in overtime. Regulation time ended with a 64-64 tie. With 17 seconds left in overtime, senior forward Bruce Peters made it 75-72 for Davison on a pair of free throws.

Larry Gunter dumped in a two-pointer with three seconds left, but it wasn't quite enough for Northern.

Also in Class A, second-ranked Pontiac Central defeated fourth-ranked Pontiac Northern, 68-63, but took three overtimes to do it.

Other rated Class A teams emerging victorious Friday were Detroit Catholic Central, 78-60 over Detroit Martin Luther King; Birmingham Brother Rice, 59-55 over Detroit Central; and Saginaw downing Saginaw Arthur Hill, 64-58.

In Class B, seventh-ranked Muskegon Heights toppled Muskegon Catholic 83-62. Fifth-ranked Class C Norway defeated Stephenson, 78-54.

Finley Claims Kuhn Exceeded Authority

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley, awaiting a ruling in his $3.5 million suit against baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, says in court papers that Kuhn exceeded his authority and broke with past practice in voiding the sale of three Oakland stars.

He claims Kuhn's action last June 18 "was capricious, discriminatory, directly contrary to historical precedent, baseball tradition and prior rulings and actions of the Commissioner of Baseball."

The statements are in Finley's proposed "Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law" filed with Judge Frank J. McGarr of U.S. District Court. Copies of Finley's findings and post-trial brief were obtained Friday night.

McGarr heard testimony on Finley's suit against Kuhn. The A's owner sued after Kuhn disapproved the sales June 15 of Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million and Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi to Boston for $1 million each.

The 15-day trial ended in mid-January. Lawyers for Finley and Kuhn filed briefs and proposed findings of facts on Monday, when Kuhn's documents were released. McGarr is not expected to rule before mid-March.

Finley's lawyers described the sales as "purely commercial transactions." They said Kuhn's action was the first time since his office was established 55 years earlier that a commissioner had blocked a deal which did not violate or attempt to circumvent any rules or did not involve moral turpitude or dishonesty.

McGarr has said his main concern was not what the best interests of baseball were but whether Kuhn had the power to void the deals as being not in the best interests of baseball.

In their brief, lawyers for Kuhn argued that 1964 amendments to the Major League Agreement gave Kuhn that power.

But Finley's lawyers said the agreement lists five actions a commissioner can take against developments that are not in the best interests of the game, and voiding a transaction is not one of them.

They added: "Defendant Kuhn abruptly changed the well-established policy of perfunctory approval of assignments which comply with the major league rules and retroactively applied this change of policy to disapprove the sales of Rudi, Fingers and Blue. The defendant's new policy was diametrically opposed to the established assignment practice."

In voiding the deals, Kuhn said they would upset the competitive balance in the American League by strengthening Boston and New York and weakening Oakland. Finley's lawyers retorted that Kuhn knew that the A's owner intended to use the $3.5 million to sign contracts with his other free agents and to obtain free agents after the season.

Citrus Leader Bob Zender Seeking First Tour Title

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Bob Zender was rapidly becoming established, back in 1971, as a 28-year-old Chicago stockbroker, saving a little money, playing a little golf.

The golf got a little better, and he was winning a flock of amateur titles, including three consecutive Illinois state titles and was second in a U.S. Amateur. He decided, at that rather advanced age, to turn pro.

"I have no regrets about waiting that long," said Zender. "Everybody's hindsight is 20-20. I really didn't think I was good enough. But I decided then that if I was going to do it, I'd better do it now."

He led his class in the PGA qualifying school and appeared on his way. But he hasn't made expenses since then, winning less than $80,000 in five years. The hard-hitting, 210-pound Zender, however, used his powerful drives to best advantage Friday, setting up the rest of his game for a five-under-par 67 that slaked him to a one-stroke lead after two rounds of the $200,000 Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

Zender is seeking his first tour title after compiling a two-round total of 136, eight under par on the 6,928-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course.

Just one shot back at 137 were chipper Joe Imman, who had a 89 despite a double bogey seven on his sixth hole, and first round leader Bill Rogers, who slipped to a 71.

Veteran Ken Still, with a second consecutive 69, and Bob Criss were tied at 138. Criss, a 36-year-old teaching pro at a driving range in Pompano Beach, Fla., didn't make a bogey on his way to a four-under-par 68.

The group at 139, five under par and only three shots out of the lead, included Australian Graham Marsh. Danny Edwards, Gary Koch and Mike Reid. Reid shot a 68, Marsh and Koch had 69s and Edwards a 70.

Arnold Palmer matched par 73 and was tied at 143, seven strokes behind, with defending champion Hale Irwin who had a 71. Lee Trevino shot a 72 in only his second start since back surgery last year and had a 145 total.

Soviet Pair Champions

TOKYO (AP) — A Soviet pair whose artistry won near perfect marks captured the ice dancing gold medal Friday night and another Russian led the field into the men's final program in the World Figure Skating Championships.

The Americans, already retaining the women's world skating title, still were in a position to challenge for top men's medals, too, when the five-day competition winds up tonight with the men's free skating.

After the compulsory figures and Friday's short program of required maneuvers, which together count for half the score, Charles Tickner, 23, of Littleton, Colo., stood third and David Santos, 19, Park Ridge, Ill., stood fourth in the 18-man field.

The leader was Soviet skater Vladimir Kozlov, second in the world the last two years, with 10 ordinals and 85.64 points. East German, 1974 world champion, who narrowly placed first ahead of Kozlov in Friday's short program. He had 17 ordinals and 83.56 points.

Tickner, the U.S. champion, had 36.5 ordinals and 80.08 points and Santee had 37.5 ordinals and 79.96 points.

The third U.S. skater, Scott Cramer, 18, of Colorado Springs, was ninth with 81 ordinals and 75.80 points.

So far, Linda Fratianne, 16, of Northridge, Calif., who bounced back from a fall in free skating and won the women's championship Thursday night, has made the only dent in Soviet domination of the meet.

And in the free skating section, she was second to 13-year-old Russian Yelena Vodorezova.

Finley Claims Kuhn Exceeded Authority

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley, awaiting a ruling in his $3.5 million suit against baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, says in court papers that Kuhn exceeded his authority and broke with past practice in voiding the sale of three Oakland stars.

He claims Kuhn's action last June 18 "was capricious, discriminatory, directly contrary to historical precedent, baseball tradition and prior rulings and actions of the Commissioner of Baseball."

The statements are in Finley's proposed "Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law" filed with Judge Frank J. McGarr of U.S. District Court. Copies of Finley's findings and post-trial brief were obtained Friday night.

McGarr heard testimony on Finley's suit against Kuhn. The A's owner sued after Kuhn disapproved the sales June 15 of Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million and Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi to Boston for $1 million each.

The 15-day trial ended in mid-January. Lawyers for Finley and Kuhn filed briefs and proposed findings of facts on Monday, when Kuhn's documents were released. McGarr is not expected to rule before mid-March.

Finley's lawyers described the sales as "purely commercial transactions." They said Kuhn's action was the first time since his office was established 55 years earlier that a commissioner had blocked a deal which did not violate or attempt to circumvent any rules or did not involve moral turpitude or dishonesty.

McGarr has said his main concern was not what the best interests of baseball were but whether Kuhn had the power to void the deals as being not in the best interests of baseball.

In their brief, lawyers for Kuhn argued that 1964 amendments to the Major League Agreement gave Kuhn that power.

But Finley's lawyers said the agreement lists five actions a commissioner can take against developments that are not in the best interests of the game, and voiding a transaction is not one of them.

They added: "Defendant Kuhn abruptly changed the well-established policy of perfunctory approval of assignments which comply with the major league rules and retroactively applied this change of policy to disapprove the sales of Rudi, Fingers and Blue. The defendant's new policy was diametrically opposed to the established assignment practice."

In voiding the deals, Kuhn said they would upset the competitive balance in the American League by strengthening Boston and New York and weakening Oakland.

Finley's lawyers retorted that Kuhn knew that the A's owner intended to use the $3.5 million to sign contracts with his other free agents and to obtain free agents after the season.

SOUTH HAVEN TEAM IN FIRST

Area bowlers continue to turn in sparkling efforts in the Michigan State Bowling Association Men's State Tournament at Muskegon.

The Precision Machine team from South Haven became the latest area leader by taking over first in the team handicap division last week Sunday. The fivesome top the standings with 3382, a 45-pin lead over Tip's Motel of Detroit.

The Precision team also moved into third spot in team actual with 3004. Tip's Motel leads with 3112.

The squad, which rolls in the Semi Classic league on Wednesday nights at Melody Lanes in South Haven, were sparked by Bob Schlipp's 649 actual series. Captain Glenn Pulliam shot 603. Don Allen 602, Gordon Hoag 585 and Jerry Covey 565.

"We really didn't realize we were bowling that well," commented Pulliam. "We bowled against a good team. We were only 10 pins up going into the last game. We were more interested in beating them...that made us really bowl well."

The Precision team posted games of 937-1038-1029.

Team averages this season include 183 by Schlipp, Hoag 182, Pulliam 180, Allen 179 and Covey 171. Greg Hoag and Jim Mears round out the seven-member team, which won the first half of the league championship and currently tops the second-half standings.

Stan Kettelhut of Benton Harbor continues to hold down first in the all-events handicap division of the tournament, which runs into May. Kettelhut, who tossed actual series of 552, 550 and 534, leads with 2104.

Red Jaffke, also of Benton Harbor and a teammate of Kettelhut's, fell from a first place tie in singles handicap to a deadlock for third with his 749. Jerry Colling of Pontiac tops the division with 760.

Area women chalked up three more 600's this week, headed by Shirley DeMorrow's 624 series. Shirley, who had a 600 Dec. 23, socked games of 236-188-200 for her 624 in the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Theo's. Shirley carries a 174 average in the league.

Estelle Bailey came up with a 618 series, sparked by a 234 game, in the Benton Harbor Bowling Senate league at Blossom Lanes.

Sherie Jeffery got off to a slow start with a 144 game but then caught fire with games of 237 and 224 to notch 605, her first career 600. Sherie averages 151 in the Mixed Fellowship league at Gersonde's.

Jerry Hyland rifled a 182 triplicate and Shirley Young a 109 triplicate this week. Robert Vinson had an all-spare game of 186 while Chuck McAnally earned a Dutch 200. Nan Pollard posted a century patch for her 254 game.

Robbery Suspects Demand Hearings

Three men accused of robbing the Arco station on Napier avenue near I-94 Thursday demanded preliminary examinations when arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday on charges of armed robbery.

Demanding hearings were Steve L. Bailey, 18, of 718 Lions Park drive, St. Joseph; Wendall O. Wyatt, 20, of 529 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor; and Thomas P. Moore, 19, of Medford, Mass.

Both Bailey and Moore were reported to be absent without leave from the USS Almsworth of New York, according to state police.

All three were jailed under bonds of $25,000 each set by Judge John T. Hammond.

According to Police accounts, the Arco station was robbed about 3:25 a.m. by a man who walked in and pulled a sawed-off shotgun from under his coat.

The robber demanded money and escaped on foot with about $125.

Moore was arrested Thursday night by state police who were looking for a man who was reported AWOL from the Navy. Within six hours of that arrest, the other two men were rounded up by area police and a shotgun and $94 were seized.

Others demanding examinations yesterday were:

Sidney Duncan, 35, of 2197 Lawrence drive, Benton township, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. He was accused of assaulting Lee Esther Duncan with a knife at their residence Friday.

Stanley D. Smith, 26, of Dekalb, Ill., $15 or five days for transporting open intoxicants and $100 or 30 days for use of marijuana.

Monroe and Smith were identified as juvenile officers for the Illinois Department of Corrections, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies. They and a third man were arrested early Friday in a parked car on Red Arrow highway near Bridgman.

Reduced Regulation May Cut Air Fare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air travelers may save some money under President Carter's call for less government control over the airline industry.

"Regulation, once designed to serve the interests of the public, now stifles competition," Carter said Friday.

The General Accounting Office has said air fares are between 22 per cent and 32 per cent higher than they would be without regulation.

Carter urged Congress to allow airlines to raise or lower prices, within limits, and to add or drop routes without approval beforehand of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Without submitting his own legislation, Carter urged Congress "to enact, without delay, regulatory reform of domestic commercial aviation." Carter said he hoped it would be effective by this summer.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams said he expected the recommendations to lower consumer prices and change the type of airline service available. For instance, some airlines may choose to cut down on "frills" like movies and free drinks to reduce the ticket price.

In a message to Capitol Hill, Carter said legislation on airline deregulation should:

— Permit airlines to set competitive prices, limited only by regulation necessary "to prevent predatory, below-cost pricing."

— Allow airlines to expand routes, within limits, without CAB approval.

— Make it easier for "new, innovative companies" to enter the industry.

— Allow airlines to be governed "by competitive market forces, not the decisions of a government bureaucracy" as much as possible.

Adams said several plans were being considered to allow airlines to change their fares without prior federal approval. Specifics will be disclosed in testimony by administration officials.

It now costs $350 for an economy class seat one way from coast to coast. World Airlines, which has no scheduled flights now, has applied for a route that would cost less than $100.

"Whether or not they can do that and stay alive I don't know," Adams said.

Asked if he thought some airlines would go broke with less federal regulation, Adams replied: "I hope not. I don't know. I do care."

Former President Gerald R. Ford tried unsuccessfully to deregulate the airline industry in 1975. He wanted greater deregulation than current legislation proposed by Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate aviation subcommittee, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Airline-related labor unions and major carriers generally oppose deregulation because it would increase competition. Since 1950, none of the 80 applications to the CAB to begin new airlines has been approved.

A White House aide said the deregulation plan would bring "a healthier industry because you won't see half-empty planes in the skies with all the frills we see now."

Airline safety regulations would not be affected by the proposal.

Vance Says U.S. Will Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who says the United States is willing to open talks with Cuba on a broad range of issues, is approving a renewal of "ping pong" diplomacy to allow U.S. sports teams to play in Cuba. The U.S. is willing to talk directly with Cuba "without any preconditions" on a new fishing boundary and on renewing an anti-hijacking agreement, Vance told a news conference. The two countries have not held direct talks in years. They have not engaged in any substantive negotiations since the anti-hijacking agreement was worked out in 1973 with the help of intermediaries. Vance said he supports Castro's recent proposal for the exchange of athletic teams between the two countries.

Nun Is Acquitted Of Asphyxiating Her Newborn Son

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The head of an order of Roman Catholic nuns says it's "too soon" to predict the future for Sister Maureen Murphy, acquitted of charges that she deliberately killed her newborn son by stuffing clothing in his mouth.

"A serious matter such as this is bound to have profound consequences for all involved," said Sister Jamesine Riley, superior general of the Sisters of St. Joseph which Sister Maureen joined 19 years ago. "But today, so close to the legal conclusion of the event, it is too soon to make any further comment."

Sister Maureen, 37, born Carol A. Murphy, heard Monroe County Judge Hyman T. Maas pronounce her innocent Friday of first-degree manslaughter. The judge also cleared her of lesser charges of second-degree manslaughter and criminally negligent homicide.

Maas presided at a 10-day nonjury trial for Sister Maureen, who before her arrest had been principal of the Trinity Montessori School for very young children in nearby Pittsford. Neither the judge nor Sister Maureen was available for comment after the verdicts were announced.

The prosecution charged that after giving birth alone in a bathroom at Our Lady of Lourdes convent in suburban Brighton last April, Sister Maureen carried the infant to her room and asphyxiated him.

The father has not been publicly identified, and the question was not brought up at the trial.

Sister Maureen was found by other nuns who said she was bleeding profusely. Two nuns testified that after she was taken to a hospital they discovered the baby dead in a basket behind a bookcase in her room.

The defense contended Sister Maureen could not have killed the baby intentionally because she was so emotionally disturbed about her pregnancy and so weakened by the loss of blood.

It also argued the prosecution failed to prove the baby died of asphyxiation and suggested he could have died of natural causes before birth.

Trial Is Pending For Sen. Brown

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Sen. Basil Brown, hospitalized following an auto accident last week, faces a May 31 court date here on a 1973 drunk driving charge.

Brown's case was returned to East Lansing municipal court in January by the state Court of Appeals, which rejected Brown's appeal to suppress results of a breathalyzer test. The trial date was set Friday.

The trial in East Lansing is not related to Brown's accident last Wednesday, in which his car collided with a tanker truck on Interstate 96 in South Lyon. He remained under intensive care Friday, which hospital officials said routinely carried a "critical condition" listing.

According to Senate Majority Leader William Faust, Brown suffered a broken right knee, broken ribs, collapsed lung and facial cuts in the early-morning accident. The hospital refused to disclose the extent of his injuries, and said his prognosis was "guarded."

Brown, the chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee, was arrested Dec. 14, 1973 for driving under the influence of liquor. He also had been found guilty of a drunk driving charge in 1966, and his license suspended for three years.

According to the secretary of state's office, Brown's license was also suspended briefly in 1970 and 1972-73 for failure to appear in court. But it said Brown has no "points" on his license now, and that it was not suspended when he was arrested in 1973.

A second conviction for drunk driving would result in automatic loss of his license. However, he could file suit in circuit court to get it back, and a state department official said that is often successful.

Police said there was no evidence Brown had been drinking before his accident Wednesday.

Brown is the longest-serving member of the Senate, first elected in 1956. He was also arrested two years ago in Eaton County on a charge of possession of marijuana, and pleaded no contest in the case.

But he later won a fight to suppress as evidence a small amount of marijuana reportedly found in the car by police. That followed a Court of Appeals ruling that the odor of marijuana is not sufficient to permit a search of a car — and the search of Brown's car was ruled improper.

The solution, city officials concede, for the time being cannot include federal government help. NYC Rejects Banks' Offers

By LEE MITGANG

AP Urban Affairs Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City is just a week away from its latest bankruptcy deadline and city banks have offered to help. But city officials say absolutely "no," that the banks' plan would end the city's political sovereignty.

In exchange for marketing new city securities and postponing payment on bonds they now hold, the banks proposed nine sets of controls on city budgeting, spending and borrowing.

The one that most ranked the city would establish a state-appointed "review board" with power to approve or change future city budgets and borrowings, city contracts and financial planning. And if city officials were caught willfully defying the board's wishes, they could be held criminally responsible.

"It flies in the face of the democratic processes upon which our nation and our concepts of home rule are based," Mayor Abraham D. Beame angrily said after a Friday night meeting of bankers, city officials and union leaders.

The meeting had lasted only 45 minutes when city officials and the unions decided the banks' 40-page proposals for curing New York's latest billion-dollar problem were unacceptable.

Three months ago, a state appeals court told the city it no longer could delay payment on $1 billion worth of notes placed in a three-year moratorium as part of an emergency financial plan.

Since then, negotiations between banks, unions and the city on how to come up with that cash have been fruitless. Banks for months have demanded sharp outside budget and spending controls and, if anything, Friday night's proposals were the toughest yet. Unions demand an end to the controls.

And with banks, unions and the federal government all refusing to give the city another dime until the billion-dollar debt problem is solved, the city is caught in the middle, with money running out.

The third man, Edward L. Thomas, 25, of 518 Broadway, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to $35 or five days for transporting open intoxicants and $81 or 10 days for disorderly person, exciting a disturbance.

Warren K. West, 19, Coloma, $100 for cashing an insufficient fund check ($50) at Hilltop Foods, Coloma, last October.

Andrew W. Killin III, 17, of 346 Eagle street, New Buffalo, 60 days for disorderly person — resisting and obstructing a police officer — in New Buffalo township Jan. 13.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Disorderly person (resisting arrest) — Russell W. Downs, 25, of 2708 Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph, $200; Eddie G. Jackson, 24, of 670 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, $200; and James L. Parker, 38, of 349 Brunson avenue, Benton Harbor, $200. All three offenses occurred Jan. 10 in Benton Harbor.

Petty larceny — Minnie Davis, 32, of 666 East Vineyard street, Benton Harbor, 90 days; David L. Clements, 17, of Coloma, $75; and Robert J. McKinney, 28, of 1244 Blossom lane, Benton township, 30 days.

Use of marijuana — Jeffery A. Prib, 18, of 5516 Sioux court, Stevensville, $100 and six months probation.

Trial Is Pending For Sen. Brown

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Sen. Basil Brown, hospitalized following an auto accident last week, faces a May 31 court date here on a 1973 drunk driving charges.

Brown's case was returned to East Lansing municipal court in January by the state Court of Appeals, which rejected Brown's appeal to suppress results of a breathalyzer test. The trial date was set Friday.

The trial in East Lansing is not related to Brown's accident last Wednesday, in which his car collided with a tanker truck on Interstate 96 in South Lyon. He remained under intensive care Friday, which hospital officials said routinely carried a "critical condition" listing.

According to Senate Majority Leader William Faust, Brown suffered a broken right knee, broken ribs, collapsed lung and facial cuts in the early-morning accident. The hospital refused to disclose the extent of his injuries, and said his prognosis was "guarded."

Brown, the chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee, was arrested Dec. 14, 1973 for driving under the influence of liquor. He also had been found guilty of a drunk driving charge in 1966, and his license suspended for three years.

According to the secretary of state's office, Brown's license was also suspended briefly in 1970 and 1972-73 for failure to appear in court. But it said Brown has no "points" on his license now, and that it was not suspended when he was arrested in 1973.

A second conviction for drunk driving would result in automatic loss of his license. However, he could file suit in circuit court to get it back, and a state department official said that is often successful.

Police said there was no evidence Brown had been drinking before his accident Wednesday.

Brown is the longest-serving member of the Senate, first elected in 1956. He was also arrested two years ago in Eaton County on a charge of possession of marijuana, and pleaded no contest in the case.

But he later won a fight to suppress as evidence a small amount of marijuana reportedly found in the car by police. That followed a Court of Appeals ruling that the odor of marijuana is not sufficient to permit a search of a car — and the search of Brown's car was ruled improper.

NYC Rejects Banks' Offers

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — New York City is just a week away from its latest bankruptcy deadline and city banks have offered to help. But city officials say absolutely "no," that the banks' plan would end the city's political sovereignty.

In exchange for marketing new city securities and postponing payment on bonds they now hold, the banks proposed nine sets of controls on city budgeting, spending and borrowing.

The one that most rankled the city would establish a state-appointed "review board" with power to approve or change future city budgets and borrowings, city contracts and financial planning. And if city officials were caught willfully defying the board's wishes, they could be held criminally responsible.

"It flies in the face of the democratic processes upon which our nation and our concepts of home rule are based," Mayor Abraham D. Beame angrily said after a Friday night meeting of bankers, city officials and union leaders.

The meeting had lasted only 45 minutes when city officials and the unions decided the banks' 40-page proposals for curing New York's latest billion-dollar problem were unacceptable.

Three months ago, a state appeals court told the city it no longer could delay payment on $1 billion worth of notes placed in a three-year moratorium as part of an emergency financial plan.

Since then, negotiations between banks, unions and the city on how to come up with that cash have been fruitless. Banks for months have demanded sharp outside budget and spending controls and, if anything, Friday night's proposals were the toughest yet. Unions demand an end to the controls.

And with banks, unions and the federal government all refusing to give the city another dime until the billion-dollar debt problem is solved, the city is caught in the middle, with money running out.

For the first time, Beame hinted Friday night that the city would solve its problems "with the banks or without the banks." He said the stalled negotiations would continue in the next few days.

City Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin told reporters that even in the most optimistic circumstances, the city faces possible default next Friday and almost certain bankruptcy the following Monday.

The solution, city officials concede, for the time being cannot include federal government help. Under a law passed 15 months ago entitling the city up to $2.3 billion a year in federal loans through 1978, federal officials have to be convinced the loans will be repaid promptly. Both President Carter and Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal said last week they weren't convinced, and won't be until the city's billion dollar debt problem is solved.

Reduced Regulation May Cut Air Fare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air travelers may save some money under President Carter's call for less government control over the airline industry.

"Regulation, once designed to serve the interests of the public, now stifles competition," Carter said Friday.

The General Accounting Office has said air fares are between 22 per cent and 52 per cent higher than they would be without regulation.

Carter urged Congress to allow airlines to raise or lower prices, within limits, and to add or drop routes without approval beforehand of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Without submitting his own legislation, Carter urged Congress "to enact, without delay, regulatory reform of domestic commercial aviation." Carter said he hoped it would be effective by this summer.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams said he expected the recommendations to lower consumer prices and change the type of airline service available. For instance, some airlines may choose to cut down on "frills" like movies and free drinks to reduce the ticket price.

In a message to Capitol Hill, Carter said legislation on airline deregulation should:

—Permit airlines to set competitive prices, limited only by regulation necessary "to prevent predatory, below-cost pricing."

—Allow airlines to expand routes, within limits, without CAB approval.

—Make it easier for "new, innovative companies" to enter the industry.

—Allow airlines to be governed "by competitive market forces, not the decisions of a government bureaucracy" as much as possible.

Adams said several plans were being considered to allow airlines to change their fares without prior federal approval. Specifics will be disclosed in testimony by administration officials.

It now costs $350 for an economy class seat one way from coast to coast. World Airlines, which has no scheduled flights now, has applied for a route that would cost less than $100.

"Whether or not they can do that and stay alive I don't know," Adams said.

Asked if he thought some airlines would go broke with less federal regulation, Adams replied: "I hope not. I don't know. I do care."

Former President Gerald R. Ford tried unsuccessfully to deregulate the airline industry in 1975. He wanted greater deregulation than current legislation proposed by Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate aviation subcommittee, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Airline-related labor unions and major carriers generally oppose deregulation because it would increase competition. Since 1950, none of the 80 applications to the CAB to begin new airlines has been approved.

A White House aide said the deregulation plan would bring "a healthier industry because you won't see half-empty planes in the skies with all the frills we see now."

Airline safety regulations would not be affected by the proposal.

Vance Says U.S. Will Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who says the United States is willing to open talks with Cuba on a broad range of issues, is approving a renewal of "ping pong" diplomacy to allow U.S. sports teams to play in Cuba. The U.S. is willing to talk directly with Cuba "without any preconditions" on a new fishing boundary and on renewing an anti-hijacking agreement, Vance told a news conference. The two countries have not held direct talks in years, and have not engaged in any substantive negotiations since the anti-hijacking agreement was worked out in 1973 with the help of intermediaries. Vance said he supports Castro's recent proposal for the exchange of athletic teams between the two countries.

Eight-Year Terms

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gladys Beckwith of Lansing and David Diehl of Danville have been named to eight-year terms on the State Board of Public Community and Junior Colleges, the state Board of Education announced. The eight-member board advises the state Board of Education on the supervision and planning for community colleges.

Nun Is Acquitted Of Asphyxiating Her Newborn Son

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The head of an order of Roman Catholic nuns says it's "too soon" to predict the future for Sister Maureen Murphy, acquitted of charges that she deliberately killed her newborn son by stuffing clothing in his mouth.

"A serious matter such as this is bound to have profound consequences for all involved," said Sister Jamesine Riley, superior general of the Sisters of St. Joseph which Sister Maureen joined 19 years ago. "But today, so close to the legal conclusion of the event, it is too soon to make any further comment."

Sister Maureen, 37, born Carol A. Murphy, heard Monroe County Judge Hyman T. Maas pronounce her innocent Friday of first-degree manslaughter. The judge also cleared her of lesser charges of second-degree manslaughter and criminally negligent homicide.

Maas presided at a 10-day nonjury trial for Sister Maureen, who before her arrest had been principal of the Trinity Montessori School for very young children in nearby Pittsford.

Neither the judge nor Sister Maureen was available for comment after the verdicts were announced.

The prosecution charged that after giving birth alone in a bathroom at Our Lady of Lourdes convent in suburban Brighton last April, Sister Maureen carried the infant to her room and asphyxiated him.

The father has not been publicly identified, and the question was not brought up at the trial.

Sister Maureen was found by other nuns who said she was bleeding profusely. Two nuns testified that after she was taken to a hospital they discovered the baby dead in a basket behind a bookcase in her room.

The defense contended Sister Maureen could not have killed the baby intentionally because she was so emotionally disturbed about her pregnancy and so weakened by the loss of blood.

It also argued the prosecution failed to prove the baby died of asphyxiation and suggested he could have died of natural causes before birth.

Coloma Date Is Changed

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission will conduct its first of two meetings this month one week earlier than usual, according to City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley.

Mrs. Beezley announced the commission will meet Monday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m., in the city hall chambers, instead of March 14, because the regular meeting night would have fallen on the same meeting time for the city's board of review.

The commission's second meeting this month, Monday, March 28, will be held as normally scheduled.

Still No Jury In Nurses' Trial

DETROIT (AP) — Jury selection in the murder trial of two Filipino nurses accused of multiple slayings at a Veterans Administration hospital was expected to end sometime next week after going into its fifth day Friday.

Fifteen prospective jurors, nine women and five men, had been seated tentatively in federal court. All are subject to peremptory challenges next week, which means they can be disqualified without cause.

The two nurses, Filipina Narciso, 30, and Lennora Perez, 32, are accused of murdering two patients and poisoning seven others at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor in the summer of 1975. The two also face a conspiracy charge.

Each of the original 35-member jury pool was questioned closely regarding possible racial prejudice against the two nurses. They also were asked about their attitudes towards the federal government, the FBI and other agencies.

Court officials said selection of the 12-person jury should be completed next week, along with selection of four alternates.

The nurses have denied government charges they injected some of their patients with Pavulon, a powerful muscle relaxant.

Deficits Reported By 59 Districts

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A total of 59 Michigan school districts had deficit budgets last school year, the state Board of Education said Friday.

At the end of the 1975-76 school year, the deficits of the 59 districts totaled more than $7.2 million, an increase from 41 districts with a combined deficit of nearly $5 million the year before.

The board said, however, that projected revenues for the current year indicate the number of districts in the red could drop to 24 with a total deficit of nearly $3.2 million by the end of June.

During the 1975-76 school year, 16 districts moved into the black while 34 went into the red.

Warrant Issued For Channing

BALTIMORE (AP) — A judge here issued a bench warrant for the arrest of actress Carol Channing after she failed to show up in court to testify about the December theft of her $30,000 eggshell-white mink coat.

City Court Judge James A. Perrott said Friday that Miss Channing, who is currently working in Los Angeles, "is a great lady and great performer but she is not above the law."

Big Steam Locomotive Going Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — The huge steam locomotive No. 449, one of a vanishing breed, will pull an Amtrak train on a sentimental journey back home to Portland, Ore., beginning April 13.

The locomotive, owned by the city of Portland, powered the American Freedom Train for the past two years.

The 3,855-mile excursion will begin in Birmingham, Ala., and travel through Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California and Oregon on its 19-day trip.

A steam train fan may purchase a ticket for the whole route for $200 or can buy a ride on one or more segments of the journey.

Big Steam Locomotive Going Home

WASHINGTON (AP) - The huge steam locomotive No. 449, one of a vanishing breed, will pull an Amtrak train on a sentimental journey back home to Portland, Ore., beginning April 13.

The locomotive, owned by the city of Portland, powered the American Freedom Train for the past two years.

The 3,655-mile excursion will begin in Birmingham, Ala., and travel through Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California and Oregon on its 19-day trip.

A steam train fan may purchase a ticket for the whole route for $299 or can buy a ride on one or more segments of the journey.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Upsurge May Be Lasting

By RHONDA SEEGAL
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With a sluggish shiver, the stock market shook the snow from its shoes and put the bad winter behind it this past week.

"My impression is that we have seen the worst in the market for a while," observed Newton Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 stocks turned in its best weekly gain of the year, up 20.03 points from the previous week's 8.81-point setback, and closed at 853.46.

"The market had to digest a lot of adverse economic statistics, most impacted by the weather, and it has absorbed the news well," Zinder said.

During the week, the government reported the index of leading economic indicators was down 1.2 per cent during January, supposedly foreshadowing a bad month ahead.

And unemployment for February was 7.5 per cent, up from 7.3 per cent the previous month.

There also was a report that January factory orders slipped by 2.1 per cent and shipments declined 1.3 per cent.

Despite it all, stock prices bounced several times and wound up higher.

They started late Monday, carried through Tuesday, fizzled somewhat Wednesday and then picked up again at the end of the week.

"You are still in the midst of a technical rally, unaccompanied by substantial volume," cautioned Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. "But the cold snap is over and the near-term outlook is improving."

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 1.72 to 101.20, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index of all listed common stocks gained .88 at 54.98.

Big Board volume averaged 18.04 million shares a day, too light, analysts felt, to support a sustained rally.

Yet brokers said there was a firm undertone, an indication the market was headed up for a while.

"It certainly is not coming forward with any great buying, it's just a relaxation of selling pressures," Gordon said.

Playboy Enterprises generated a lot of interest at the end of the week, winning approval for a 600-room hotel in Atlantic City, N.J. The approval carries a provision for a gambling casino in the complex. Playboy stock closed up 3/4 at 87 1/2 on Friday, following a 1 1/4 gain the day before.

The weekly tally of NYSE issues showed 1,258 gainers to 588 losers among the 2,097 traded.

Highs for 1976-77 numbered 91 against only 2 lows.

The American Stock Exchange market value index, recovering from last week's 1.67-point deficit, rose 89 to 111.47.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was ahead 1.1 to 327.6.

Insurance Hike Hits Counties

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A whopping hike in insurance premiums is troubling Michigan's county road commissions, the County Road Association of Michigan reported Friday. The association said liability insurance premiums have gone up 300 per cent in one year, and 700 per cent since 1974, based on a survey in 22 counties.

Liability cost the 22 counties $1.4 million this year, or nearly 3 per cent of total annual motor vehicle fund receipts by which the commissions are funded, the association said. It said insurers are refusing to bid for contracts and are cancelling some policies when they expire.

Fennville Names Leading Scholars

FENNVILLE — Two girls have been named the top academic students in Fennville high school's senior class this year.

Donna Nye has been named valedictorian and Pamela Smith the salutatorian for the 1977 senior class, according to Albert Truesdell, school principal.

Miss Nye, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nye, Route 2, Fennville. She compiled a 3.9 grade point average.

Miss Smith, also 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Route 3, Fennville. She achieved a 3.84 grade point average.

According to the school, Miss Nye has been a member of the high school band for four years, served on the student council for two years and has been active in high school dramatics. She was the school's Girls' State representative in 1976.

In the announcement, the school said Miss Nye's plans include going to Calvin college to study medical technology.

Miss Smith plans to enter Michigan State university after graduation and major in pre-veterinary medicine. She is in the school's co-op program and works for Dr. William Brown, a veterinarian in Allegan.

During her four years in high school, she has been active in 4-H, was treasurer of her sophomore class and has shown Appaloosa horses extensively.

In 1976, Miss Smith was selected the Great Lakes Appaloosa Teen queen.

In addition to the top two students, the school announced the other eight students in the

Coffee Situation Worsens

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — More bad news for coffee lovers who thought things couldn't get worse:

Brazil says its 1976-1977 coffee harvest will be a fraction of the average yield in the days before coffee prices soared.

The reason, the Brazilian Coffee Institute (IBC) said Friday, is that the crop has still not recovered from the 1975 frost that destroyed 70 per cent of the country's coffee trees and drove up world coffee prices.

An IBC spokesman said it will take four years for trees planted after the frost to reach maturity, so the country's coffee production will not return to normal until the 1978-1979 harvest.

The spokesman said this year's harvest is estimated at 6 million sacks, down 400,000 from its own previous estimates and far below the pre-1975 annual average of 21 million sacks. Each sack contains 132 pounds.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated the crop would be more than 9 million sacks.

Stolen Car Importation Plot Cracked, Police Say

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A plot involving importation of stolen luxury cars from Germany has been uncovered in an investigation started by Phoenix police officers said.

Officers in Suffolk County, N.Y., arrested Reginald Iodo Giese, 38, on Thursday after Mercedes Benz autos and 13 engines were found at his house, police said Friday.

Later, another five Mercedes and Porsche cars were seized at New York's LaGuardia Airport, detectives said.

When the investigation began last summer, 21 other such vehicles were found at Giese's residence, they said. Such cars have turned up in California and Texas, and there are indications that some arrived in Arizona, investigators said.

Detectives James Giordano and Jack Hachworth said the first lead came from a man who telephoned Phoenix police last summer after overhearing a conversation between pilots at Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport. Police said Giese was one of those pilots and worked for an airline until late last year.

Quantities of forged and fake documents, including registration papers, were found at Giese's home when he was arrested, along with altered or counterfeited vehicle identification plates, authorities said.

The investigation indicates that thieves in Germany bought wrecked cars cheaply, then stole similar vehicles and switched the identification plates, investigators said. The stolen cars could then be exported.

The scheme worked because each employee of the airline for which Giese worked is allowed to import one vehicle per year at a low rate, Hachworth said. The cars were imported as used vehicles, reducing the duty and tax payments.

Giordano said witnesses told investigators that Giese approached other airline employees and offered to buy autos for them during trips to Germany.

"He'd approach a guy, maybe a mechanic, and the guy would say, sure, if he could get him something for a couple of thousand dollars that would be fine," Giordano said. When Giese turned up with the car it would be a $7,000 Mercedes or Porsche, and he'd say that was all he was able to get.

Three Oaks Hires Hauch To Assess

THREE OAKS — Former Lincoln Township Supervisor Ernest Hauch has been hired by Three Oaks township to review and sign the township's 1977 tax roll.

The hiring of Hauch, a certified assessor, became necessary when state tax commission officials said the township had to have a certified assessor review assessments and sign the tax rolls or the state would perform the job at the township's expense, according to township Clerk Marjorie Drier.

Township Supervisor Robert Todd is taking but has not completed an assessor's course and missed a deadline for getting state permission for conditional authority to sign the roll.

Hauch, who said he has been working on assessments for the township for the past two weeks, said that according to agreement he is to receive $800 plus mileage expenses for the job.

His duties will include sitting with the board of review and helping answer questions about property assessments, Hauch said.

Hauch was elected Lincoln township supervisor in 1970 but did not seek re-election to the post in 1976.

New No-Flat Tire Might Oust Spares

DETROIT (AP) — How would you like to eliminate your spare tire?

B.F. Goodrich engineers think they can help you with the one in the trunk of your car, not the one around your waist — although the principle is the same.

Goodrich engineers have developed a new radial passenger tire which the company says never goes completely flat. Potentially, according to engineer director Paul James, the tire could eliminate the need for a spare.

Development of the "self-supporting" tire is the result of Goodrich's efforts to assist the auto industry in reducing passenger car weight and conserving space, James said today.

James told a technical session at the 1977 Society of Automotive Engineers International Engineering Congress that the tire's development could open a new era of design freedom for the automotive engineer that ultimately would benefit the consumer.

The new tire, which is not yet being marketed, supports itself by means of its internal structure, James said. In the event of air loss, the tire structure itself carries the entire load.

The firm is aiming for an inflated mobility of at least 25 miles per hour, he said.

Goodrich has been working on the "no flat" concept since 1973, James said, and has patented several aspects of its development.

The project is "more than just a tire," James said, calling it part of an entire system.

"Our current objective is to continue refining this concept until it is fully compatible in inflated performance to conventional radial tires," James said.

When inflation pressure of a conventional tire is lost, the tire goes completely flat, tends to come off the rim, and develops tremendous heat.

When inflation of Goodrich's "self-supporting" tire is lost, James said, the entire load is supported within the tire structure. It remains firmly on the rim and does not generate excess heat, he said.

In ride tests with the new tire inflated, James said, the tires were "surprisingly good." He noted, however, the harshness of the tire is increased somewhat due to increases in the spring rate of the tire.

"Progress is being made," James said. "It is felt that this problem (of harshness) can be substantially overcome."

Generally, he said, other ride characteristics were unaffected.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Upsurge May Be Lasting

By RHONDA SEEGAL
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — With a sluggish shiver, the stock market shook the snow from its shoes and put the bad winter behind it this past week.

"My impression is that we have seen the worst in the market for a while," observed Newton Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 stocks turned in its best weekly gain of the year, up 20.03 points from the previous week's 6.81-point setback, and closed at 953.46.

"The market had to digest a lot of adverse economic statistics, most impacted by the weather, and it has absorbed the news well," Zinder said.

During the week, the government reported the index of leading economic indicators was down 1.2 per cent during January, supposedly foreshadowing a bad month ahead.

And unemployment for February was 7.5 per cent, up from 7.3 per cent the previous month.

There also was a report that January factory orders slipped by 2.1 per cent and shipments declined 1.3 per cent.

Despite it all, stock prices bounced several times and wound up higher.

ally started late Monday, carried through Tuesday, fizzled somewhat Wednesday and then picked up again at the end of the week.

"You are still in the midst of a technical rally, unaccompanied by substantial volume," cautioned Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. "But the cold snap is over and the near-term outlook is improving."

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 1.72 to 101.20, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index of all listed common stocks gained .89 at 54.98.

Big Board volume averaged 18.04 million shares a day, too light, analysts felt, to support a sustained rally.

Yet brokers said there was a firm undertone, an indication the market was headed up for a while.

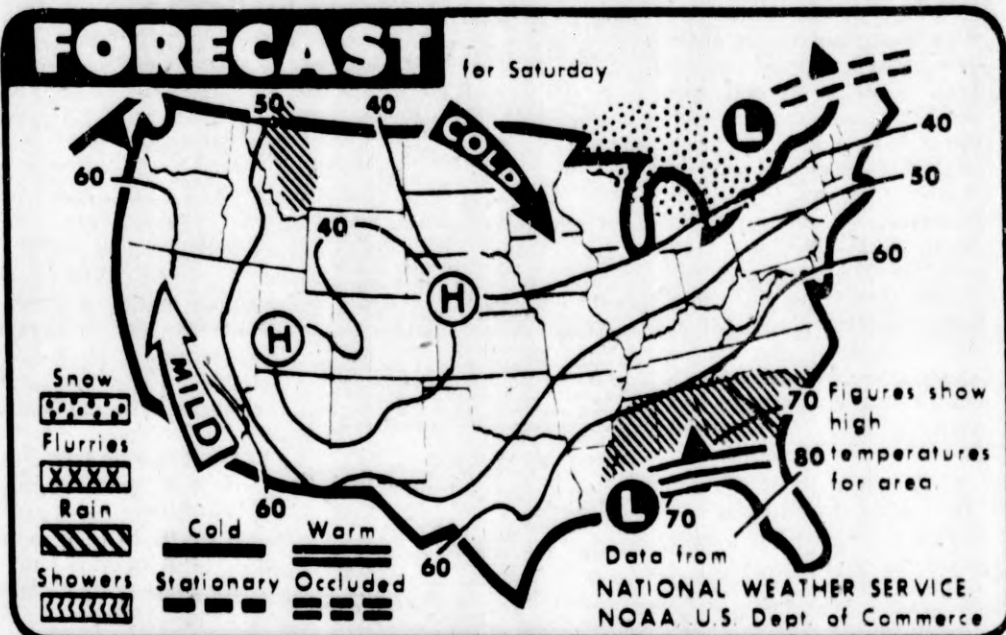

"It certainly is not coming forward with any great buying, it's just a relaxation of selling pressures," Gordon said.

Playboy Enterprises generated a lot of interest at the end of the week, winning approval for a 660-room hotel in Atlantic City, N.J. The approval carries a provision for a gambling casino in the complex. Playboy stock closed up 3/4 at 8 1/2 on Friday, following a 1 1/4 gain the day before.

The weekly tally of NYSE issues showed 1,258 gainers to 588 losers among the 2,097 traded. Highs for 1976-77 numbered 91 against only 2 lows.

The American Stock Exchange market value index, recovering from last week's 1.67-point deficit, rose 89 to 111.47.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was ahead 1.1 to 327.6.

Insurance Hike Hits Counties

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A whopping hike in insurance premiums is troubling Michigan's county road commissions, the County Road Association of Michigan reported Friday. The association said liability insurance premiums have gone up 300 per cent in one year, and 700 per cent since 1974, based on a survey in 22 counties. Liability cost the 22 counties $1.4 million this year, or nearly 3 per cent of total annual motor vehicle fund receipts by which the commissions are funded, the association said. It said insurers are refusing to bid for contracts and are cancelling some policies when they expire.

Fennville Names Leading Scholars

FENNVILLE — Two girls have been named the top academic students in Fennville high school's senior class this year.

Donna Nye has been named valedictorian and Pamela Smith the salutatorian for the 1977 senior class, according to Albert Truesdell, school principal.

Miss Nye, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nye, Route 2, Fennville. She completed a 3.9 grade point average.

Miss Smith, also 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Route 3, Fennville. She achieved a 3.84 grade point average.

According to the school, Miss Nye has been a member of the high school band for four years, served on the student council for two years and has been active in high school dramatics. She was the school's Girls State representative in 1976.

In the announcement, the school said Miss Nye's plans include going to Calvin college to study medical technology.

Miss Smith plans to enter Michigan State university after graduation and major in pre-veterinary medicine. She is in the school's co-op program and works for Dr. William Brown, a veterinarian in Allegan.

During her four years in high school, she has been active in 4-H, was treasurer of her sophomore class and has shown Appaloosa horses extensively.

In 1976, Miss Smith was selected the Great Lakes Appaloosa Teen queen.

In addition to the top two students, the school announced the other eight students in the top 10 academically. They are Joseph Bolis, Timothy Breed, Richard Clark, Bridgette Edholm, Kelly Hanulcik, Adrienne Hentemann, Michael Shields and Marlene Sovo.

Coffee Situation Worsens

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — More bad news for coffee lovers who thought things couldn't get worse:

Brazil says its 1976-1977 coffee harvest will be a fraction of the average yield in the days before coffee prices soared.

The reason, the Brazilian Coffee Institute (IBC) said Friday, is that the crop has still not recovered from the 1975 frost that destroyed 70 per cent of the country's coffee trees and drove up world coffee prices.

An IBC spokesman said it will take four years for trees planted after the frost to reach maturity, so the country's coffee production will not return to normal until the 1978-1979 harvest.

The spokesman said this year's harvest is estimated at 6 million sacks, down 400,000 from its own previous estimates and far below the pre-1975 annual average of 21 million sacks. Each sack contains 132 pounds.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated the crop would be more than 9 million sacks.

Stolen Car Importation Plot Cracked, Police Say

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A plot involving importation of stolen luxury cars from Germany has been uncovered in an investigation started by Phoenix police, officers said.

Officers in Suffolk County, N.Y., arrested Reginald Bodo Giese, 39, on Thursday after Mercedes Benz autos and 13 engines were found at his house, police said Friday.

Later, another five Mercedes and Porsche cars were seized at New York's LaGuardia Airport, detectives said.

When the investigation began last summer, 21 other such vehicles were found at Giese's residence, they said. Such cars have turned up in California and Texas, and there are indications that some arrived in Arizona, investigators said.

Detectives James Giordano and Jack Hackworth said the first lead came from a man who telephoned Phoenix police last summer after overhearing a conversation between pilots at Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport. Police said Giese was one of those pilots and worked for an airline until late last year.

Quantities of forged and fake documents, including registration papers, were found at Giese's home when he was arrested, along with altered or counterfeit vehicle identification plates, authorities said.

The investigation indicates that thieves in Germany bought wrecked cars cheaply, then stole similar vehicles and switched the identification plates, investigators said. The stolen cars could then be exported.

The scheme worked because each employee of the airline for which Giese worked is allowed to import one vehicle per year at a low rate, Hackworth said. The cars were imported as used vehicles, reducing the duty and tax payments.

Giordano said witnesses told investigators that Giese approached other airline employees and offered to buy autos for them during trips to Germany.

"He'd approach a guy, maybe a mechanic, and the guy would say, sure, if he could get him something for a couple of thousand dollars that would be fine," Giordano said. When Giese turned up with the car it would be a $7,000 Mercedes or Porsche, and he'd say that was all he was able to get.

The list suggests that LMC has only 1/3 to 1/4 the number of faculty members it should have to educate the number of students currently enrolled.

LMC may claim that it supplements its staff with part-time "community resources", but, they need about 150 to 200 teachers to fill the gap. Cast in the light of all other junior colleges, LMC may be able to claim a "miracle of management".

Unfortunately, the truth is that the faculty lost, but LMC won. These figures show only the tip of the iceberg that drove us out the door. I am sad that Berrien County must continue to live with these facts, but glad that I do not.

Wendell H. Yale, Vienna, Va.

Editor's Note: The Lake Michigan college faculty, in addition to 38 full-time teachers, includes over 200 part-time instructors. Student enrollment in fall semester was 3,487, consisting of some 1,300 full-time students and the remainder part-time students, according to LMC President James Lehman.

SAYS HOSPITAL CONTRACT SHOULD BE LOCAL

Editor:

To the Watervliet Hospital board:

Employment in our community and county means that when schools need more millage to operate or to expand the workers are able to support them.

It also means that when a hospital, charity, or special community project needs funding the money is in the area to be donated.

When people need or want an automobile, appliance, recreational enjoyment, home repairs or savings account, they can afford to purchase these.

When the time comes to award the contracts to build the new hospital, let's keep them in our area so our people supporting their communities will not be disappointed by seeing five million dollars, some donated by them and local industry, paid to out of area workers who have no interest in our local areas.

Please remember that unemployment doesn't benefit our community or county. Local unemployment only purchases the bare necessities! Everyone is affected, as must of us know.

A concerned citizen of Berrien county and Watervliet.

SAYS YOUTH ARE EXPOSED TO MANY EVILS

Editor:

On February 26 the Herald-Palladium again featured the heart breaking chilling report of Miss Armstrong's death and the accused murderer David Fighis.

I have always been a believer that every person is responsible for their own actions and a just recompense for the crime is in order. Being a father of a 13-year-old son one tries to sympathize and relate to the parents of both the victim and the criminal, but quickly realizes that it is impossible to fully understand the agony, suffering and frustration that would surround such an event.

Having a job that is geared to accident and crime prevention, I asked myself what must be done to prevent a recurrence.

Let's take a look at what our youth are exposed to. A flick of the TV switch brings into our home murder for the sake of murder, homosexuality as a normal way of life, sex stimulating scenes on every program even those that were meant for family viewing. Only a few short years ago we would have blushed, flinched and objected at the scenes that have become a way of life. Our merchants stock a large amount of magazines such as Hustler, Play Boy, Play Girl, Penthouse, etc., and our youth drinks in this filth at a very early age. This very paper advertises for a Triple XXX adult book store that is situated in our community. We are a community and a nation sowing the seeds of corruption and when we begin to reap the harvest we are astounded.

The scripture in Gal. 6:7 says "Be not deceived God is not mocked for whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap". Romans 6:23 "The wages of sin is death." If we want to prevent the shedding of blood, the raping, and the increase in crime we will have to first reduce the vast exposure. Let's write our Congressmen, the TV sponsors, the city councils and let our objections be known. Let's back up our police force and put forth every effort to stop this moral decay...before it's too late.

college of comparable enrollment. Following is a list from the Almanac with students first, then teachers:

Adirondacks, Glen Falls, N.Y., 1,565, 55; Austin, Minn., 852, 55; Brunswick Junior, Brunswick, Ga., 1,068, 54; Chesapeake, Wye Mills, Md., 917, 54; Crowder, Neosho, Mo., 960, 53; Dyersburg State, Dyersburg, Tenn., 944, 53; Ellisworth, Iowa Falls, Ia., 776, 55; Finger Lakes, Canandaigua, N.Y., 1,796, 54; Florida Keys, Key West, Fla., 1,267, 55; Frank Phillips, Borger, Texas, 767, 55; Jackson, Jackson, Mich., 4,043, 211; Kauai, Lihue, Ha., 1,128, 54; Lake Michigan, Benton Harbor, Mich., 2,800, 60; Mineral Area, Flat River, Mo., 917, 53; North Florida, Madison, Fla., 870, 53; Pratt, Pratt, Kan., 688, 53; Sanford D. Bishop, Mobile, Ala., 1,068, 53; Somerset, Somerset, Ky., 661, 54; Theodore Alfred Lawson, Birmingham, Ala., 1,388, 54; Wesley, Dover, Del., 934, 55.

The list suggests that LMC has only 1/3 to 1/4 the number of faculty members it should have to educate the number of students currently enrolled. LMC may claim that it supplements its staff with part-time "community resources", but, they need about 150 to 200 teachers to fill the gap. Cast in the light of all other junior colleges, LMC may be able to claim a "miracle of management".

Unfortunately, the truth is that the faculty lost, but LMC won. These figures show only the tip of the iceberg that drove us out the door. I am sad that Berrien County must continue to live with these facts, but glad that I do not.

Editor's Note: The Lake Michigan college faculty, in addition to 58 full-time teachers, includes over 200 part-time instructors. Student enrollment in fall semester was 3,487, consisting of some 1,300 full-time students and the remainder part-time students, according to LMC President James Lehman.

SAYS HOSPITAL CONTRACT SHOULD BE LOCAL

Editor.
To the Watervliet Hospital board:

Employment in our community and county means that when schools need more millage to operate or to expand the workers are able to support them.

It also means that when a hospital, charity, or special community project needs funding the money is in the area to be donated.

When people need or want an automobile, appliance, recreational enjoyment, home repairs or savings account, they can afford to purchase these.

When the time comes to award the contracts to build the new hospital, let's keep them in our area so our people supporting their communities will not be disappointed by seeing five million dollars, some donated by them and local industry, paid to out of area workers who have no interest in our local areas.

Please remember that unemployment doesn't benefit our community or county. Local unemployment only purchases the bare necessities! Everyone is affected, as most of us know.

A concerned citizen of Berrien county and Watervliet.

SAYS YOUTHS ARE EXPOSED TO MANY EVILS

Editor.

On February 26 the Herald-Palladium again featured the heart breaking chilling report of Miss Armstrong's death and the accused murderer David Figue.

I have always been a believer that every person is responsible for their own actions and a just recompense for the crime is in order. Being a father of a 15-year-old son one tries to sympathize and relate to the parents of both the victim and the criminal, but quickly realizes that it is impossible to fully understand the agony, suffering and frustration that would surround such an event.

Having a job that is geared to accident and crime prevention, I asked myself what must be done to prevent a recurrence.

Let's take a look at what our youth are exposed to. A flick of the TV switch brings into our home murder for the sake of murder, homosexuality as a normal way of life, sex stimulating scenes on every program even those that were meant for family viewing. Only a few short years ago we would have blushed, flinched and objected at the scenes that have become a way of life. Our merchants stock a large amount of magazines such as Hustler, Play Boy, Play Girl, Penthouse, etc., and our youth drinks in this filth at a very early age. This very paper advertises for a Triple XXX adult book store that is situated in our community. We are a community and a nation sowing the seeds of corruption and when we begin to reap the harvest we act astonished.

The scripture in Gal. 6:7 says "Be not deceived God is not mocked for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap". Romans 6:23 "The wages of sin is death." If we want to prevent the shedding of blood, the raping, and the increase in crime we will have to first reduce tax exposure. Let's write our Congressmen, the TV sponsors, the city councils and let our objections be known. Let's back up our police force and put forth every effort to stop this moral decay...before it's too late.

FOR LYNN REDGRAVE, actress

I know you've always had trouble with weight. How are you keeping it down?—D.P., Chattanooga, Tenn.

● I think I've tried every fad diet under the sun—and they worked. But the moment I went off of them, I gained it all back. (At my peak, I was 168 pounds.) A few years ago I devised my own personal diet, and this is how I stay around 137: I eat only one meal a day, at night—steak or lamb chops, spinach, fresh fruit. For breakfast I have a cup of black coffee. Another cup at lunch. If I get ravenous during the day, I'll sneak an apple.

FOR THE MOST REV. FULTON J. SHEEN

How would the discovery of life in outer space affect religion?—Greg Reitner, Combined Locks, Wis.

● Nonhuman life would not affect it in the least. Human life may stand in need of redemption. If humans were not sinful, they would not need redemption. "Those who are well need not a physician." If they were sinful, as we are, they would need the Passion of Christ. Has anyone who asks a question of this kind ever asked himself what, if Divine Life ever came to this planet, he would do about it?

FOR THOMAS E. MORGAN,

retired U.S. Representative

How do you justify the trips you took at Government expense?—Lois Dietz, Baxter Springs, Kan.

● My mission to the Far East in November dealt with matters of both current and future concern to the Congress. I had a State Department request to conduct a mission in that area, and I was carrying out several prior commitments. In addition, other members of the mission felt it was aided by my position and extensive experience as Chairman of the International Relations Committee.

FOR JESSICA LANGE, star of King Kong

How has your lifestyle changed since you went from an unknown to an overnight star?—J.T., Hollywood, Calif.

● I bought a house on a Wisconsin lake, where my retired parents live. Otherwise, I haven't gone on a spending spree—no clothes, diamonds, furs. Socially, things are the same, too. I avoid the party scene. In terms of film publicity, I do what is demanded of me by the film company. I prefer privacy. I went into movies because I wanted to act, not for all the ballyhoo.

FOR JESSAMYN WEST,

author of The Woman Said Yes

Your book told of your sister's suicide after suffering from cancer. Were you concerned about legal action due to your help?—Carolyn Beers, West Lafayette, Ind.

● I was never concerned about legal action. I was willing to suffer anything to end my brave sister's suffering. She made the decision not to prolong a hopeless struggle. All she asked was, "Stand by me." Who could say no to that? My book brought me the most beautiful and the most denunciatory letters I have ever received.

FOR MICK JAGGER, rock singer

How do you feel about those reports of The Rolling Stones breaking up?—J.B., Royalton, Ill.

● I don't. That sort of thing has been said about every duo and group since Adam and Eve. When we decide to stop, we'll come right out and say so. When the Beatles broke up, they didn't exactly fade out of sight, but they disappointed lots of people. We're not yet ready to do that—either to others or to ourselves.

FOR EDWARD HERRMANN, star of March 13 ABC-telecast of Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years

I saw you in Eleanor and Franklin last year, and now you're playing FDR again next week. I'm wondering how you researched the part?—G.V., Rapid City, S.D.

● I spent several months in libraries and archives, reading books, old newspapers, poring over vintage photos. There were trips to Hyde Park; I wanted to try and capture FDR as a young man as well as President. I picked up his walk and posture by studying home movies of FDR.

FOR ROBYN SMITH, jockey

As a lover of horses, I'm wondering if cruelty to them exists on our tracks?—S.T., Troy, N.Y.

● I'm not aware of any mistreatment of horses on race-tracks. In fact, some thoroughbreds get better care than some human beings! Race horses love to run, but in order for them to win they must have top care, and since owners and trainers love to win, their animals get the best care possible.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Can you tell me something about the young pop group just named National Youth Ambassadors for the March of Dimes?—M.B., Miami Beach, Fla.

● They're The Sylvers (right), eight brothers and sisters from 14 to 25. Although they've been around since the early 60's, when the four oldest were on TV and toured as The Little Angels, it wasn't until Oct. 1975, when Capitol Records signed the family, that they began making a name for themselves. They've now got a bunch of awards, including "Cash Box" Best New Vocal Group of 1976.

FOR JACKIE COOPER, actor

How did you get the scar on your right cheek?—Mrs. Antoinette Patrick, Richlands, Va.

● I got it in 1954. I was in a New York City department store and inadvertently went through a large window. A lot of people think I got it in a car-racing accident, since I was very active in sportscar racing from 1950 to 1955. Fortunately, I never had a racing accident.

PRO AND CON

Will The Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) Actually Restrict Women's Rights?

PRO Andrea Fordham teams with her husband on writing projects. Their latest book is Assault on the Sexes (Arlington).

Yes. The problem with this apparently simple amendment is that it is so vague nobody can really predict the effects it will have on virtually thousands of laws bearing on marriage, family, property, employment and public accommodations. The amendment may well be used to advance the whole feminist program—abolishment of sex roles, devaluation of marriage and family, free universal day care, abortion on demand and teaching of feminist objectives and values in day-care centers and schools. I don't think people favor these things.

CON Gloria Schaffer, Connecticut Secretary of State

No! Passage of the ERA would not force every woman out of the house and into a "paying job." It will not destroy femininity! Nor will it threaten the choice of lifestyles of American women. If anything, passage of the ERA would re-emphasize the importance and value of childrearing and homemaking by making these roles matters of choice rather than inevitable lifestyles. The ERA recognizes that while women are undoubtedly different from men, that does not afford any rational basis for denying women equal protection.

CHRONIC PAIN: NOW DOCTORS ARE LEARNING TO DEAL WITH IT

For those who are plagued by constant pain there is good news—a number of new medical techniques that can help relieve (and sometimes even cure) their suffering.

Several mechanical devices are used to treat pain. Above, Dr. Ann Groce of Duke University operates a transcutaneous stimulator, which produces a tingling sensation and helps to suppress pain. Nerve blocks, drugs, acupuncture and hypnosis are other methods that are utilized in chronic pain treatment. Alleviation of pain through radio waves was pioneered at The Pain Center in La Crosse, Wis.

By Cima Star

Steve Landen lies face down on the sofa in a comfortable office at a Midwestern pain clinic, one of a growing number of institutions devoted to the study and treatment of chronic pain. Four wires extend from points on his back to a mechanical box, which sends off beep-like tones from time to time. Landen closes his eyes, concentrating on increasing the beeps, not thinking about the agony that has plagued him for nearly 15 years since an accident in which his lower back was injured.

A new technique called biofeedback is helping Landen to train his mind to control his body. Biofeedback means the electronic amplification of biological signals, such as breathing, heart rate or muscle relaxation. Small metal electrodes, each about the size of a button, are "glued" to the skin and hooked up to a box. Relaxation in his back muscles is translated into the beep tones. The more relaxed and pain-free the muscles, the clearer and steadier the beeps.

"Neither the patient nor the medical profession really understands yet how this works," says Boston University professor Dr. David Mostofsky, a behavioral psychologist in attendance at Children's Hospital in Boston. "All we know is that once a person can see or hear the result of what is going on inside, physically, he can change it."

Pain has baffled traditional medicine since Hippocrates' time. Now, professionals at some 17 pain clinics nationwide, and at pain units in many hospitals, are delving into its mysteries.

One thing that needs to be made clear—don't confuse chronic pain with acute pain. Acute pain, such as that from a fractured bone or a knife wound, can be unbearably intense, but once its cause is treated, the pain goes away. Chronic pain is endless, seemingly untreatable, lingering long after its original cause has vanished. One example is the phenomenon of "phantom limb pain." The victim of an amputated arm who feels pain in fingertips that no longer exist is not, as one might think, imagining the pain. It is there. It is real, and it is physical. The reason is that certain nerves end at the fingertips. The thin nerve filaments wind their way through the body to the brain. Somewhere along the line the nerve has been damaged, and it hurts. The brain, however, can sense the pain only at the tip of the nerve, even when that tip no longer exists.

Chronic pain is a national health problem. It costs society an estimated $50 billion a year in medical expenses, lost wages and worker-compensation benefits, according to Dr. John J. Bonica, President of the newly founded International Association for the Study of Pain. Chronic back pain alone, the most common problem, disables seven million people annually and is responsible for nearly 19 million visits to doctors each year.

Most dolorologists (pain specialists) agree that, with rare exceptions, there is both an emotional and a physical component to pain. "Nearly everyone who comes to our clinic," says Dr. Steven F. Brena of the Emory Pain Control Center in Atlanta, "suffers pain that began with an organic condition. Many show some personality maladjustment. Those who have longstanding emotional problems learned in childhood to use pain as an escape route."

At Emory, the psychological factor is emphasized by its 70-percent success rate in treatment—except when money, in the form of workers' compensation enters the picture. Then, the success rate drops to 40 percent.

Another pain specialist, Massachusetts General Hospital neurologist Dr. Nathaniel R. Hollister, finds that "Pain is something more than a response by a person to injury to his body. Pain is actually a learned form of behavior."

Studies back up this theory. In Vietnam, when both soldiers and civilians were injured by shrapnel, soldiers were more likely to feel little pain because an injury was the ticket home. Civilians, who were not sent home due to injury, felt intense pain.

One group of pain clinics uses a multidisciplinary approach, utilizing specialists in different fields to treat different aspects of suffering simultaneously. These clinics often attempt to get at the underlying emotions of pain.

The other major group of clinics uses the holistic, or total, approach. Here, all of their professionals are dolorologists, specializing only in pain. They emphasize behavioral modification, believing that if you change a person's "pain behavior" to "well behavior," the pain itself will subside.

"Well behavior" means acting as though the pain were not there, which may at first seem difficult and terrifying. As long as the victim suffered, no one expected him to work, carry out the garbage or exert himself. He was "rewarded" with sympathy for being in pain. Now his family is taught to lavish affection on him when he acts well, but to ignore his suffering. One technique at some pain centers is to confine a patient who has an attack of pain to his room and to deny him all privileges.

Dr. Gerald M. Aronoff, director of the Pain Unit at Massachusetts Rehabilitation Hospital, uses the multidisciplinary approach with a health-care team comprising many specialists—from neurosurgeons to physical therapists to behavioral psychologists.

"We look at life stresses and try to understand why the patient has not gotten well," says Dr. Aronoff. He has found that pain stems from childhood problems that have caused emotional difficulties. Once the underlying emotional problems are cleared up, the clinic uses behavioral techniques to teach new "well behavior," or biofeedback and/or muscle relaxation to reduce the physical pain.

One common biofeedback technique is used for migraine headache sufferers. One woman at a headache clinic dramatically improved after training that consisted of having electrodes pasted to her hands while she watched a needle on a screen register the temperature of her skin. As with most migraine sufferers, her hands became cold with each headache. As she learned to raise her skin temperature, the pain vanished. Within six weeks she was able to raise her hand temperature without the biofeedback machinery, simply by concentrating on her hands and the sensation of warming them.

One therapist recalls a man who had suffered for years from chronic pain in his toes. In psychotherapy, he had revealed a longstanding fear of a bullying brother. Then, he was encouraged to kick at a pillow, screaming out his rage at the brother. "I want you out of my life," he shouted, as he bashed the pillow. The pain subsided.

Aronoff offers the same advice to his patients that he does to everyone of us who hurts from time to time: "You must spend half an hour a day on yourself. Spend it on relaxation and introspection. Relax those muscles. Get in tune with yourself. Try to understand better what is going on, emotionally, inside you. And keep trying."

The New 810

Datsun introduces the family cars with a 240-Z engine.

Fuel injected response.

Finally, an economical family car that doesn't skimp on performance. Because the six-cylinder, overhead cam engine gives you all the get-up-and-go you've been missing. Plus the power you need to go up hills and get onto highways.

Suddenly, there's a family car that performs and handles like a 240 Z.

Sedan or station wagon.

Both give you the economy and durability you expect from a Datsun. The famous 240-Z engine has been proven time after time against the toughest competition. The all-steel unibody is welded for quiet strength. And the fully independent suspension in the sedan assures you extra smoothness and stability.

Suddenly, a new car with a built-in reputation for durability and long life.

Comfort of a mid-size car.

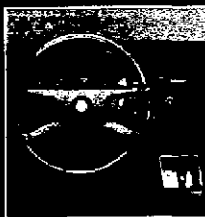

Comfort you can feel. In the lush interior, tilt steering wheel, six-way adjustable driver's seat, plush cut-pile carpeting that goes all the way through the trunk. And the soothing sound of the AM-FM stereo radio.

Comfort for your peace of mind. Thanks to steel belted radials, fully appointed dash. And automatic maintenance warning system.

And comforts you can opt for. Like automatic transmission, power steering and air conditioning.

All at a comfortable price. Compared to the six-cylinder Volvo or BMW, for example, you could save at least $2,000.

The new Datsun 810. Suddenly comfort and performance come together in an economical family car.

WISE BUYING By Marilyn Hansen

HOW TO SAVE MONEY WHEN BUYING FOOD

If you follow these tips before you buy food, you'll see real savings at the checkout counter.

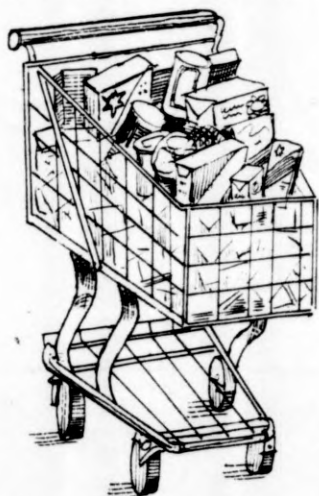

advertisement

If you want to cut down on food costs and time spent shopping—and who doesn't—it will require some retraining and rethinking on your part. Here's what to do.

First, analyze your food-spending habits. Write down all your food expenditures for one week. Note the name of the store, the day of the week you went shopping, the time you went in, the time you left, the total money spent. Also, record exactly what items were bought and at what price.

How much time did you spend? Are you spending extra time because you go marketing at the busiest hours? At most markets, busiest times are late afternoons on week days and all-day Saturday.

Did you have a shopping list? If you had one, did you stick to it? Did you know just what you wanted to buy before you went in the store, or did you decide there?

Spending Categories: Milk

Did you buy the most economical size for your family?

You also should consider buying powdered skim milk, loose in the carton, and reconstituting it. It's cheaper and is excellent for many cooking purposes. To cut down on the cost of fluid milk for drinking, mix $\frac{1}{2}$ reconstituted skim milk with $\frac{1}{2}$ liquid whole milk. Serve ice cold. Reconstituted evaporated milk also can be economically used in cooking.

IF YOU HAVE IRON POOR BLOOD ALL THE VITAMINS IN THE WORLD WON'T HELP

Iron poor blood is the most widespread nutritional ailment in America today. And taking vitamins can't help, because vitamins don't contain iron.

What you need is Geritol, every day. Geritol is so rich in iron, just one tablet contains more iron than even a pound of calf's liver. Plus vitamins important to your health.

Geritol's iron can actually build your blood day by day. That's what makes it different from vitamin pills—and so important to you.

on yogurt is to buy it unflavored in 1-qt. containers and add your own honey, fruits and jams as desired.

Juice

Juices are an important part of the family budget, especially in a home with children. Buy full-strength juice, either frozen or canned, and add your own water at home. Juice drinks have water and sugar added already.

Oil, Cereals, Canned Foods

Buy the most economical sizes for your family needs. Note prices and compare products before you buy, and buy only six-month supplies to avoid possible spoilage.

Stock-Up Items

Soaps and detergents, along with foods, are frequently on sale. The old rule still applies: nothing is a bargain unless you can use it.

Toiletries

Shampoos, deodorants, toothpaste, creams and so on are in the supermarket as a convenience for the shopper. These personal items are generally cheaper in discount stores. You'll have to check.

Meat, Poultry

Do you buy specials or on impulse? Take the time to notice at your supermarket meat counter the range of prices of what is available.

Certainly veal cutlet from the leg, Italian-style at $2.89 per-lb., is in the high range, as are boneless club steaks from the beef rib at $2.29 per-lb. A $1.09 per-lb. price on chuck roast, bottom beef, semi-boneless is in the middle range. A price offering of $.49 per-lb. on fresh whole frying chickens is a really good buy.

If you are aware of prices and their fluctuations from week to week, you will recognize good buys.

Second, if you generally buy around the middle-price range or lower, you will know that you are saving money.

Also important to consider when buying meat is the serv-ing per pound. Look carefully at meat before you buy. The amount of fat and bone present takes away from the edible portion.

Something you never thought about, perhaps, is the labor cost of meat-cutting. Each cut the butcher makes in a piece of meat takes time, and time is money.

So next time you want to make beef stew, don't automatically reach for the pack of stewing beef. Look first at the pot roasts; you may well find them lower in price than the cubed meat. If so, cut the meat at home yourself.

Other cuts lend themselves well to the cut-it yourself method. For example, buy a large roast of top sirloin or an eye round and cut off some slices and use as steaks. Buy a whole loin of pork on special, cut into one or two roasts and cut the remaining loin into chops.

Whole chickens always are sold cheaper than the cut-up kind. It would pay for you to learn how to cut them up yourself with a sharp knife, cleaver or poultry shears.

Of course, don't neglect the bony cuts altogether. Meat contains protein and bones contain calcium, which is needed for protein utilization in the body. Calcium is available in milk, cheese and other dairy products. However, the calcium available in bones is cheaper. Use bony cuts in soups, preferably combined with protein-rich legumes, and you will have an excellent food value.

THE REIGNING QUEEN OF THE SOAP OPERAS

Mary Stuart has been on television longer than anyone else in the business — and she's only getting started.

Once she drove a pickup truck to auditions that flopped. But Mary Stuart's been riding high now for 25 years.

By Mary Long

At somewhere past 45 years of age, television actress Mary Stuart is entrenched in her 25th consecutive year on-the-air in Search for Tomorrow. And that, according to those who keep track of such things, is an honest-to-goodness TV record.

Every weekday she enters homes across America as Joanne Vincent, a perfect person in a house that never needs cleaning. It amazes many people that in so sophisticated and skeptical an age, a show like Search should continue to command the devotion of millions and millions of fans. It doesn't amaze Mary Stuart.

"The soap opera has come out of the closet," crows the pro. "It's a relief, I'll tell you. I knew people were watching all along, but it's nice they're finally admitting it. In our supercool age, with everybody scared silly to show his feelings, soap operas can't help but flourish. They're a public service. We show tears and screams and kisses. Marvelous and horrible scenes. We're all a little lonesome these days, and I think it helps to see all that wild emotion."

The twice-divorced lady with the beautiful round eyes and the throaty croak of a voice knows a lot about being lonesome. She grew up poor, without a mother, in Tulsa, Okla. One day, she read in a newspaper that people in New York were able to work just a few hours a week talking on radio shows and earn $500. Mary Stuart thought that would be a swell way to make a living and headed for the big city. She ended up a hungry, part-time hat-check girl. But within a year, movie producer Joe Pasternak checked his hat, and that, as they say, was that. He took a look at the blonde beauty, signed her to a movie contract, and Mary Stuart was off to Hollywood with a new title: "starlet."

"You know what a starlet is?" She laughs. "A starlet is one of those yellow sugar roses you pop around the edges of a cake. Just being a starlet is bad enough, but I was probably the worst starlet in history. They were constantly screen-testing me for sexy roles. I wasn't sexy. I had braces on my teeth, I drove a Ford pickup truck to the studio, and there always seemed to be a ton of dirt under my fingernails. I did two auditions—both flops. Once I was trying for the role of Jane in a Tarzan movie, and I had to keep reading 'uga uga uga' over and over again. I thought that was very amusing, and I couldn't stop laughing, so the producer threw me out."

In 1951 she was spotted by the producer of another show—the soon-to-be-televised Search for Tomorrow. When they offered the actress the leading role, she said yes, went on the air the next week and has been there ever since.

Mary Stuart says she likes Joanne Vincent. "She's a lovely lady. And her horizons have really broadened over the years. She started out as an innocent little girl, and she's grown into a woman. I hope she's interesting. In the beginning, she was never out of her apron and now, look," she says, indicating her tailored brown slacks and matching sweater. "This is what I wore on the show today."

She believes that her Joanne, tied to an apron or not, has had a pervasive influence on women. "I think the explosion into the women's movement over the last few years is due in part to the soap operas. Women have had a chance to fantasize along with the show—to think about what it would be like to be a woman doctor or lawyer or heiress or whatever. You've got to have that fantasy first, whether you ever make the move to independence or not. And, everyday, millions of women play these parts along with us. I've had lots of women from poor families tell me that they grew up watching the show and dreaming. 'You got me out of that house,' they'll say. But, of course, it wasn't me—it was that perfect lady I play."

Grass Seed Is For The Birds! Zoysia Saves Time, Work, Money

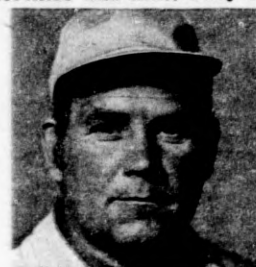

Amazon is the T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office for our Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass.

By Mike Sandin
Agronomist

Every year I see people pour more and more money into their lawns. They dig, fertilize and lime. They rake it all in. They scatter their seed and roll and water it.

Birds love it! Seeds which aren't washed away by rain give them a feast. But some seed grows, and soon it's time to weed, water and mow, mow . . .

until summer comes to burn the lawn into hay, or crabgrass and diseases infest it.

That's what happens to ordinary grass, but not to Amazon Zoysia.

"MOWED IT 2 TIMES," WRITES WOMAN

For example, Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn ". . . is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays as green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in . . . Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing, we never have to pull any weeds — it's just wonderful!"

And from Iowa came word that the state's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn — nearly perfect" in its area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August!

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money

Your deep-rooted, established Amazon lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement . . . ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS

Thick rich, luxurious Amazon grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring — a true perennial!

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots

End erosion of slopes with Amazon. Perfect answer for hard-to-cover spots, play-worn areas.

Your Own Supply of Plug Transplants

Established Amazon gives you Zoysia plugs to plant in other areas as desired!

NO SEED, NO SOD!

There's no seed that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass brings with it the problems of seed, like weeds, diseases, burning out, other ills.

Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass Was Perfected by U.S. Govt.: Released In Cooperation With U.S. Golf Assoc. as a superior grass.

Order guaranteed Amazon now, get your bonus plugs FREE. Your order will be delivered at earliest correct time for planting in your area.

We ship all orders the same day grass is taken from the soil, shipping charge collect via most economical means.

PATENTED STEP-ON PLUGGER IS . . . FREE WITH ORDERS OF 600 PLUGS OR MORE

Amazon exclusive! No one else can offer you this patented 2-way plugger. Saves bending, time, work. Light, rugged, invaluable for transplanting. Cuts away competing growth as it digs plug holes

Every Plug Guaranteed to Grow In Your Area • In Your Soil

- AMAZOY WON'T WINTER KILL—has survived temperatures 30° below zero!
- AMAZOY WON'T HEAT KILL—when other grasses burn out, Amazon remains green and lovely!

Plug Amazon into an entire lawn or problem areas. Plug it into poor soil, "builder's soil," clay or even sandy, sandy beach areas. I guarantee every plug to grow . . . from part shade to full sun! Any plug failing to grow in 45 days replaced FREE. Since we're hardly in business for the fun of it, you know we're 100% sure of our product.

If it isn't Amazon, you're not getting the plugs that made Zoysia famous.

It's easy to see why those who don't grow Zoysia, would try to put it down. But Zoysia, a tough grass from Siberia, just won't be put down. That's why people are switching to it border to border, coast to coast.

THE TALL SHIPS®

The Official Commemorative Print of the Historic 1976 Gathering of Tall Ships

Two years in the painting and meticulously accurate in nautical detail, this high fidelity lithograph will delight all those who admire fine art. Painted by the renowned marine artist, Kipp Soldwedel (Tall Ships Artist of Record), this official commemorative print is reproduced in magnificent color, 21 x 28 inches.

Depicted here in misty nautical splendor are the Blue Nose (Canada), Danmark (Denmark), Segres (Portugal), Christian Radich (Norway) and the Gorch Foch II (Germany), winner of the International Trans Atlantic race.

THE REIGNING QUEEN OF THE SOAP OPERAS

Mary Stuart has been on television longer than anyone else in the business—and she's only getting started.

Once she drove a pickup truck to auditions that flopped. But Mary Stuart's been riding high now for 26 years.

By Mary Long

At somewhere past 45 years of age, television actress Mary Stuart is entrenched in her 25th consecutive year on-the-air in Search for Tomorrow. And that, according to those who keep track of such things, is an honest-to-goodness TV record.

Every weekday she enters homes across America as Joanne Vincent, a perfect person in a house that never needs cleaning. It amazes many people that in so sophisticated and skeptical an age, a show like Search should continue to command the devotion of millions and millions of fans. It doesn't amaze Mary Stuart.

"The soap opera has come out of the closet," crows the pro. "It's a relief, I'll tell you. I knew people were watching all along, but it's nice they're finally admitting it. In our supercool age, with everybody scared silly to show his feelings, soap operas can't help but flourish. They're a public service. We show tears and screams and kisses. Marvelous and horrible scenes. We're all a little lonesome these days, and I think it helps to see all that wild emotion."

The twice-divorced lady with the beautiful round eyes and the throaty croak of a voice knows a lot about being lonesome. She grew up poor, without a mother, in Tulsa, Okla. One day, she read in a newspaper that people in New York were able to work just a few hours a week talking on radio shows and earn $500. Mary Stuart thought that would be a swell way to make a living and headed for the big city. She ended up a hungry, part-time hat-check girl. But within a year, movie producer Joe Pasternak checked his hat, and that, as they say, was that. He took a look at the blonde beauty, signed her to a movie contract, and Mary Stuart was off to Hollywood with a new title: "starlet."

"You know what a starlet is?" She laughs. "A starlet is one of those yellow sugar roses you pop around the edges of a cake. Just being a starlet is bad enough, but I was probably the worst starlet in history. They were constantly screen-testing me for sexy roles. I wasn't sexy. I had braces on my teeth, I drove a Ford pickup truck to the studio, and there always seemed to be a ton of dirt under my fingernails. I did two auditions—both flops. Once I was trying for the role of Jane in a Tarzan movie, and I had to keep reading 'uga uga uga' over and over again. I thought that was very amusing, and I couldn't stop laughing, so the producer threw me out."

In 1951 she was spotted by the producer of another show—the soon-to-be-televized Search for Tomorrow. When they offered the actress the leading role, she said yes, went on the air the next week and has been there ever since.

Mary Stuart says she likes Joanne Vincent. "She's a lovely lady. And her horizons have really broadened over the years. She started out as an innocent little girl, and she's grown into a woman. I hope she's interesting. In the beginning, she was never out of her apron and now, look," she says, indicating her tailored brown slacks and matching sweater. "This is what I wore on the show today."

She believes that her Joanne, tied to an apron or not, has had a pervasive influence on women. "I think the explosion into the women's movement over the last few years is due in part to the soap operas. Women have had a chance to fantasize along with the show—to think about what it would be like to be a woman doctor or lawyer or heiress or whatever. You've got to have that fantasy first, whether you ever make the move to independence or not. And, everyday, millions of women play these parts along with us. I've had lots of women from poor families tell me that they grew up watching the show and dreaming. 'You got me out of that house,' they'll say. But, of course, it wasn't me—it was that perfect lady I play."

Grass Seed Is For The Birds! Zoysia Saves Time, Work, Money

By Mike Sandin
Agreement

Every year I see people pour more and more money into their lawns. They dig, fertilize and lime. They rake it all in. They scatter their seed and roll and water it.

Birds love it! Seeds which aren't washed away by rain give them a feast. But some seed grows, and soon it's time to weed, water and mow, mow...

until summer comes to burn the lawn into hay, or crabgrass and diseases infest it. That's what happens to ordinary grass, but not to Amazoy Zoysia.

"MOWED IT 2 TIMES," WRITES WOMAN

For example, Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn "... is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays as green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in. Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing, we never have to pull any weeds—it's just wonderful!"

And from Iowa came word that the state's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn—nearly perfect" in its area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August!

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money
Your deep-rooted, established Amazoy lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement... ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS
Thick rich, luxurious Amazoy grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring—a true perennial!

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots
End erosion of slopes with Amazoy. Perfect answer for hard-to-cover spots, play-worn areas.

Your Own Supply of Plug Transplants
Established Amazoy gives you Zoysia plugs to plant in other areas as desired!

NO SEED, NO SOD!
There's no need that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass brings with it the problems of seed, like weeds, diseases, burning out, other ills.

Meyer Zoysia Grass Was Perfected by U.S. Gov't. Released in Cooperation With U.S. Golf Assoc. as a superior grass.

Order guaranteed Amazoy now, get your bonus plugs FREE. Your order will be delivered at earliest correct time for planting in your area.

We ship off orders the same day prices in tables from the seed, shipping charge collect via most economical means.

DROUGHT AND WEAR RESISTANT
Amazoy lawns take cookouts and parties—children playing on it won't hurt it, or themselves! Stays green right thru scorching heat and drought!

NO NEED TO RIP OUT PRESENT GRASS PLUG AMAZOY INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

Just set Amazoy plugs into holes in ground like a cork in a bottle. Plant 1 foot apart, checkerboard style. Every plug 3 sq. inches.

When planted in existing lawn areas plugs will spread to drive out old, unwanted growth, including weeds. Easy planting instructions with order.

FREE WITH ORDERS OF 200 PLUGS OR MORE
Amazoy exclusive! No one else can offer you this patented 2-way plugger. Saves bending, time, work. Light, rugged, invaluable for transplanting. Cuts away competing growth as it digs plug holes.

Every Plug Guaranteed to Grow In Your Area • In Your Soil
• AMAZOY WON'T WINTER KILL...has survived temperatures 20° below zero!
• AMAZOY WON'T HEAT KILL...when other grasses burn out, Amazoy remains green and healthy!
Plug Amazoy into an entire lawn or problem areas. Plug it into poor soil, "builder's soil," clay or even sandy, sandy beach areas. I guarantee every plug to grow...from bare shade to full sun! Any plug failing to grow in 45 days replaced FREE. Since we're hardly in business for the fun of it, you know we're 100% sure of our product.

If it isn't Amazoy, you're not getting the plugs that made Zoysia famous.

It's easy to see why those who don't grow Zoysia would try to put it down. But Zoysia, a tough grass from Siberia, just won't be put down. That's why people are switching to it border to border, coast to coast.

DECORATING WITH 3 BUDGETS STYLES/SHOPPING

periment with different arrangements. You also can achieve the same results by using doll furniture and graph paper purchased from a stationery store.

Speaking of decorators, many large department and furnishings stores offer the services of professional interior designers. While this service often is tied to purchases, many stores will offer some free initial advice as a measure of good will.

Once you've formulated a rough decorating plan, shop for the best prices and styles. Don't buy on impulse. Check furniture warehouses and clearance centers. You also might wait for semiannual furniture sales. But remember that quality still pays off in the long run. To check on good craftsmanship in wood furnishings, for example, see that drawers are hand-fitted and can be closed easily with a touch from either side. They also should feature sturdy glides and bottoms and be constructed with smoothly sanded interiors.

In both upholstered furniture and carpets, look for fiber guarantees and stain-repellent finishes, qualities that will insure what you purchase today will still look lovely a year from now.

When it comes to walls and floors, if you are the average home decorator on a budget, you may choose to spend time rather than money. (Even with money to spare, you may prefer to invest in upgraded quality while still doing it yourself.) Wood paneling, for instance, can range from wood-veneered thin plywood to solid oak or redwood. Plastic laminate paneling in simulated wood grain as well as solid colors and prints also are available for less-expensive wall treatments. If you haven't tried your hand at paneling before, remember that plywood and hardwood panels can be applied directly to plaster walls with a specially designed adhesive. The walls must be in good condition; if not, furring strips should be used to build a frame onto which the panels can be attached. Gluing panels is less time-consuming than the second method, which is to nail or to staple-gun each panel to studs or furred-out walls. (You ought to use a plumb line to insure that panels are correctly aligned.) Lumberyards and home-decorating centers have a good selection of paneling.

Stenciling kits have been around for years now, but they are still a fresh way to liven up plain walls with bright borders or all-over designs the way our colonial ancestors did. Wood moldings or wainscot kits can be purchased to create a chair rail around the room. Another idea that still provides a lot of

Home is our castle, or should be. But many of today's shrunken interiors, barren of architectural detail, could use some help. How do you surround yourself with comfort and beauty?

Rule one is that decorating a room should be an enjoyable experience. So relax. Sit down and think about what you would like your living room to look like. After all, it's the primary place in which you, your family and friends will be spending a lot of time. It also should be a room that comfortably reflects your own living habits.

Begin by focusing on the dollars you have to spend. Furniture probably will take up the largest chunk of your decorating pie. For example, on a $1,500 budget we spent close to $1,000 on furniture, $200 on a rug and the remainder on walls and accents. While in the rustic room, on a $2,300 budget, clever shopping unearthed a ready-to-assemble sofa and pair of lounge chairs for under $500.

Will you choose colonial, country casual or modern? We've elected to go colonial on a low budget, country casual on a moderate level and contemporary at the high end. Take your pick of ideas. Modern homes can accommodate colonial or traditional designs as gracefully as an Old World abode can house contemporary styling. But arrangement and the proportion of furniture are the keys to any successful room scheme.

Borrow a trick from professional decorators who plan furniture arrangements with little kits consisting of graph paper and cut-out patterns that represent tables, chairs, etc. (Kits are advertised in decorating publications.) Carefully measure your room and indicate exact positions and dimensions of door and wall breaks, such as windows, chimney or alcoves. Measure the width of windows and doors from the outer edge of the frame. Then draw your plan on graph paper with each square representing one foot. (Indicate details such as radiators, the swing of doors, electric outlets, etc.) Then cut out your furniture pieces and ex-styling mileage is lightweight, plastic beams, simulating wood. Great for Country French or Tudor effects.

Hardwood paneling or mirrors also are dramatic when used above a fireplace. Mirroring a single wall can provide impact and serve to visually expand a small room or to brighten a dark one by reflecting light. And don't forget that paneling provides for good acoustics and heating insulation.

Flooring can lay the groundwork for a really smashing room. You can run the gamut from sisal mats to stained wood floors to area rugs to lush wall-to-wall broadloom.

To redo old wood floors, you can rent sanding equipment from a home-remodeling center, including vacuum attachments to suck up fine wood-dust residue.

Many people prefer the look of a fine area rug, either over wall-to-wall carpet or wood floors. While antique Orientals and expensive wovens may be limited to higher budgets, modern technology has provided us with precise reproductions of costly classic designs. Today rich colors and patterns are being applied to tufted carpet surfaces via ingenious new computer-injection systems to create beautiful designs with surprisingly low price tags.

Soft wall-to-wall broadloom is also useful to expand space and to create unity in a modest-sized living area. Today's third-generation synthetic carpets not only have greater durability and soil resistance but often boast permanent, built-in antistatic properties to eliminate shock. Many come with written wear guarantees.

For many of us, living rooms serve several functions—dining room, guest room, family room. One of the most effective ways to achieve the necessary flexibility is with dual-purpose furniture. In addition to the customary sofa-bed or a sideboard that extends to seat 12, consider the idea of keeping on hand a big round plywood top for entertaining and using it to enlarge the surface of a small dining table. A pretty tablecloth will conceal its humble lumberyard origins. Or you may prefer to add a wall unit with a fold-down top that doubles as a desk and auxiliary buffet table. Hutches and breakfronts often come in two parts and can be moved into different rooms when you feel like a change of scenery. The lower cabinet can line an entrance foyer, while the upper portion can perch atop a bedroom dresser. Versatile seating arrangements are possible via the new modular units, with ottomans, armless chairs and sofa sections that can be regrouped to suit.

No room is complete, however, without the most important element—proper lighting. Light highlights individual components in your room. Dark corners are made inviting with the addition of a table, chair and reading lamp. Soft muted lights are all that's needed if you only use your living room for occasional entertaining. But if the family is there at all hours, plan for diffused overhead illumination and concentrated lighting for areas where special activity takes place. A good decorative reading lamp to counter eyestrain is a must. Consider experimenting with track lighting, which provides great flexibility. The tracks are attached to runners on the ceiling and can be swiveled or turned to illuminate any area you wish. On a lower budget, overhead illumination can be achieved through do-it-yourself lighting kits with a fixture suspended low over end tables or hung from the traditional center living-room ceiling outlet.

How intact a decorating scheme remains depends on whether you fall into the "little is enough" or "there's never enough" category. If you are an incurable collector, you will continually add pictures, plants, bowls and baskets to your never-finished room. If you are a purist, one or two carefully selected pieces will suffice.

A fence can bring neighbors closer together.

Sometimes it's the small things that cause the biggest problems between neighbors.

In my case the bone of contention was the one Mrs. Parker found buried in her prize begonias. So I built this fence from plans I got at the Help Center. And you know something, good fences make good neighbors.

It works the other way 'round too. I got all the free help I needed from Jim Clark, my Georgia-Pacific Registered Dealer. His Help Center is loaded with remodeling ideas, building projects, and helpful hints for do-it-yourselfers.

Take the free Projects Booklet. It's got simple, step-by-step plans for 20 interesting and useful home projects. And all of them as easy to build as my fence. There's a whole section of the Help Center that's filled with exciting new ideas on remodeling with wall paneling. And another with helpful free booklets that show you how to choose and use building materials like a pro.

The Help Center at your neighborhood Georgia-Pacific Registered Dealer has all the help you need. And it's free. But isn't that what good neighbors are for?

To check on good craftsmanship in wood furnishings, for example, see that drawers are hand-fitted and can be closed easily with a touch from either side. They also should feature sturdy glides and bottoms and be constructed with smoothly sanded interiors.

In both upholstered furniture and carpets, look for fiber guarantees and stain-repellent finishes, qualities that will insure what you purchase today will still look lovely a year from now.

When it comes to walls and floors, if you are the average home decorator on a budget, you may choose to spend time rather than money. (Even with money to spare, you may prefer to invest in upgraded quality while still doing it yourself.) Wood paneling, for instance, can range from wood-veneered thin plywood to solid oak or redwood. Plastic laminate paneling in simulated wood grain as well as solid colors and prints also are available for less-expensive wall treatments. If you haven't tried your hand at paneling before, remember that plywood and hardwood panels can be applied directly to plaster walls with a specially designed adhesive. The walls must be in good condition; if not, furring strips should be used to build a frame onto which the panels can be attached. Gluing panels is less time-consuming than the second method, which is to nail or to staple-gun each panel to studs or furred-out walls. (You ought to use a plumb line to insure that panels are correctly aligned.) Lumberyards and home-decorating centers have a good selection of paneling.

Stenciling kits have been around for years now, but they are still a fresh way to liven up plain walls with bright borders or all over designs the way our colonial ancestors did. Wood moldings or wainscot kits can be purchased to create a chair rail around the room. Another idea that still provides a lot of

DECORATING WITH 3 BUDGETS ACCESSORIES

Accessories are the vital touch that pull a room together. Generally, certain objects "belong" with certain periods. Early American dictates the use of brass candlesticks, pewter plates or pie-shaped tables. Indian-motif baskets, rugs and pottery are of the casual Southwest idiom. Chrome, brass, glass and lucite are more at home in contemporary interiors. The objects you surround yourself with are personal and may reflect your own tastes and interests more than anything else in a room. Essentially, they're the decorative objects you gather through the years spontaneously or collect with a careful plan in mind. Since tastes, like furniture styles, change, so should the accessories you have around you. Keep this in mind: accessories are not just for the living room or dining room; the family room—even the kitchen and bathroom—need decorative objects to enhance their appearance.

Here are the most-asked questions and answers on this important decorating element:
Q. How much of a room's budget should be devoted to accessories?

A. Starting from scratch, you should figure about 20 percent. In other words, if you plan to spend $4,000 to decorate your living room, plan to spend $800 of that for accessories, including lamps, clocks, wall decor, tabletop items, occasional tables, throw pillows, area rugs and whatever else strikes your fancy. (As one decorator puts it, "If you spend only 10 percent, you get a 10-percent look!")

Q. Should accessories be scattered or displayed in groups?

A. Accessories grouped together make interesting and colorful statements. Separately, single items tend to get lost, except on shelves where they can be mingled with books.

Q. How do you decide just where to put things?

A. First, assemble all of your accessories on the floor or on a table. Group similar items: put all folk-art objects together, all of the silver or pewter, all the paintings or graphics or mirrors. Next, go through the house and decide where each group would look best. What you can't find space for, put away for six months. Then, you might regroup accessories for a fresh new look.

Q. Is it better to use a lot of accessories or to decorate with a select few?

A. That's a matter of taste. The tendency today is to fill up a room, but if you possess a few very fine objects—for example, a sculpture collection—you certainly don't want the budget-priced to compete with the rare. Also, there's the matter of a room's size; a small room obviously requires a minimum of accessories, preferably small in scale. Or you can use one or two dominant pieces. In a large room, you can be more expansive and include a wider variety of types and materials.

Q. What are some good tabletop items to display?

A. To name a few: porcelain birds, glass or wood obelisks, mineral rocks in their natural state, marble eggs, seashells or coral, snuffboxes, paperweights, well-framed photographs, candlesticks.

Q. Are wall groupings still popular?

A. Wall-hung objects will probably never go out of style—but there are new ideas in wall decor. For example: prints that come in abstract segments to be hung in changing arrangements, frameless sculptured mirrors (like stalactites) and mirrors that incorporate graphics.

Q. What are the best buys in accessories?

A. Marjorie Laurich, a buyer who selects accessories for a number of the country's best stores, advises: "The good buys are those most readily available. In other words, what's 'in' is usually the best-priced. Since it's pleasant to live with a certain amount of change, why not buy a sample of what appeals to you among the 'in' things?" Ms. Laurich cites baskets and macramé hangings as two of today's best buys "because everywhere you look you can find them."

No man knows the rewards of owning the best like the man who rides the Deere.

A John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor is an investment that'll pay dividends for years to come. It's available with 10-, 12-, or 14-hp engine. And its 4-speed transmission has a variable-speed drive that lets you change travel speed without clutching or shifting. Or without reducing the working speed of the mower or tiller attached. And because it's a John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor, it's "human engineered."

Controls are clustered, within easy reach; color-coded for quick identification. The seat is cushioned, and high-backed for support.

The operator's platform is wide and roomy. A triple-safe, starting system prevents accidental starts when the mower is engaged, or the transmission is in gear. And besides mowers, we can provide a dozen other John Deere attachments matched to the tractor size. So you have a versatile workhorse that pays you back in time and work saved year after year.

styling mileage is lightweight, plastic beams, simulating wood. Great for Country French or Tudor effects.

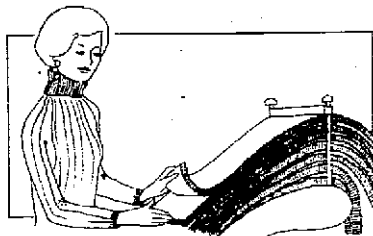

Hardwood paneling or mirrors also are dramatic when used above a fireplace. Mirroring a single wall can provide impact and serve to visually expand a small room or to brighten a dark one by reflecting light. And don't forget that paneling provides for good acoustics and heating insulation.

Flooring can lay the groundwork for a really smashing room. You can run the gamut from sisal mats to stained wood floors to area rugs to lush wall-to-wall broadloom.

To redo old wood floors, you can rent sanding equipment from a home-remodeling center, including vacuum attachments to suck up fine wood-dust residue.

Many people prefer the look of a fine area rug, either over wall-to-wall carpet or wood floors. While antique Orientals and expensive wovens may be limited to higher budgets, modern technology has provided us with precise reproductions of costly classic designs. Today rich colors and patterns are being applied to tufted carpet surfaces via ingenious new computer-injection systems to create beautiful designs with surprisingly low price tags.

Soft wall-to-wall broadloom is also useful to expand space and to create unity in a modest-sized living area. Today's third-generation synthetic carpets not only have greater durability and soil resistance but often boast permanent, built-in antistatic properties to eliminate shock. Many come with written wear guarantees.

For many of us, living rooms serve several functions—dining room, guest room, family room. One of the most effective ways to achieve the necessary flexibility is with dual-purpose furniture. In addition to the customary sofa-bed or a sideboard that extends to seat 12, consider the idea of keeping on hand a big round plywood top for entertaining and using it to enlarge the surface of a small dining table. A pretty tablecloth will conceal its humble lumberyard origins. Or you may prefer to add a wall unit with a fold-down top that doubles as a desk and auxiliary buffet table. Hatches and breakfronts often come in two parts and can be moved into different rooms when you feel like a change of scenery. The lower cabinet can line an entrance foyer, while the upper portion can perch atop a bedroom dresser. Versatile seating arrangements are possible via the new modular units, with ottomans, armless chairs and sofa sections that can be re-grouped to suit.

No room is complete, however, without the most important element—proper lighting. Light highlights individual components in your room. Dark corners are made inviting with the addition of a table, chair and reading lamp. Soft muted lights are all that's needed if you only use your living room for occasional entertaining. But if the family is there at all hours, plan for diffused overhead illumination and concentrated lighting for areas where special activity takes place. A good decorative reading lamp to counter eyestrain is a must. Consider experimenting with track lighting, which provides great flexibility. The tracks are attached to runners on the ceiling and can be swiveled or turned to illuminate any area you wish. On a lower budget, overhead illumination can be achieved through do-it-yourself lighting kits with a fixture suspended low over end tables or hung from the traditional center living-room ceiling outlet.

How intact a decorating scheme remains depends on whether you fall into the "little is enough" or "there's never enough" category. If you are an incurable collector, you will continually add pictures, plants, bowls and baskets to your never-finished room. If you are a purist, one or two carefully selected pieces will suffice.

THE RICE DIET

You can shed weight in just 72 hours on The Rice Diet or it costs you nothing. Prove it to yourself by ordering our new, comprehensive diet manual, The Rice Diet, now. It discloses the secret of how you can lose weight like people who report losses of up to 100 pounds and more in a brief time without hunger.

I'm proud of my boyfriend! I wanted you to see him too. This was on our trip to Florida.

"YOU WON'T BELIEVE IT WHEN YOU LOSE WEIGHT LIKE I DID"

"I couldn't believe it when I lost 25 pounds the first month after I started on The Rice Diet. I wasn't hungry at all, and the weight just seemed to disappear. This is amazing when you realize that I have always been fat — even as a child. Our doctor put me on weight loss pills, but they didn't work. He said there was no hope for me.

"Now that I've gone from 227 pounds to a slim 125 pounds — my whole outlook on life has changed. Before, I was an extreme introvert, hiding from people, afraid of being seen and laughed at. When I had my picture taken, I would try to conceal my body by pulling my knees up in front of me. Clothes didn't fit right, and I never wore a bathing suit before. I had no energy, and it was an effort to do anything. Now, I'm on the go all the time; I've seen and done things I never dreamed of doing as a 'fatty.' I now consider myself a beautiful person inside and out."

IT'S A HEALING DIET AS WELL AS A REDUCING DIET

The famous Rice Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet. And heal it does.

IT CONTAINS LITTLE CHOLESTEROL

Medical Research has acclaimed a low-fat diet as being of paramount aid in the treatment of certain heart and kidney conditions. Scientists also advocate this program as the basis of a general reducing diet.

The health value of this diet is founded upon the fact that it contains little cholesterol — which many doctors believe dangerous to the heart, kidneys, and blood circulation.

THE DIET REVERSES MUCH DAMAGE DONE BY HEART DISORDERS

Our medical establishment was extremely skeptical of the startling discovery that the Rice Diet reverses much of the damage done by blood vessel, eye, heart, and kidney disorders. Without any medication other than a prolonged diet largely composed of rice, some enlarged hearts grew smaller, blood pressures and blood sugar dropped.

CLAIMS FOR THE RICE DIET VERIFIED

Teams of doctors from leading institutions around the world investigated the diet. They thought that they would scoff at the claims, but they applauded instead. "The question now," concluded a report in one eminent medical journal, "is not 'Does the diet work?' The question is 'How does it work?'"

FAMOUS PEOPLE HAVE ENDORSED THE RESULTS OF RICE DIETING

"I truly would have died if I hadn't gone" on a program of rice dieting, says the wife of a former state governor. "I was seriously ill and weighed 230 pounds." She dropped 80 pounds in 19 weeks, and her blood sugar plummeted as well. (Since the diet is largely carbohydrate, this is one of the mysteries of it.)

A famous singer and movie actor, on the other hand, got hooked on the taste of the diet and lost 80 pounds, too. He still follows the diet every day. Before the Rice Diet, he had been on a high-protein diet for ten years or so: "I used to have to put down a pound of steak before recording," he says. "Now, I can eat a little rice and sing like a bird."

HERE'S WHAT THE RICE DIET DID FOR OTHERS.

"May I say this is a very tasty diet. I liked all the menus except one."

"NOTHING WORKED UNTIL I TRIED RICE"

"I was a victim of multiple food allergies. I tried everything but nothing worked until I tried rice. It was the only thing I could tolerate.

"WEIGHT FELL OFF ME"

"Naturally, the weight FELL off me. Within 5 or 6 weeks, I had lost 35 pounds. I have held that weight pretty well. I am a believer in rice! Thank heaven for rice. Perhaps my experience will help others. I well imagine rice will play a great part in the remainder of my life."

—Mrs. Grace Quintal, Stockton, Cal.

"LOST 10 POUNDS IN 2 WEEKS"

"I used your diet and lost 10 pounds in two weeks. I want my daughter-in-law to have one."

—Mrs. S., St. Joseph, Mo.

"LOST 1/2 POUND A DAY"

"Thanks to your rice diet, my husband's weight is almost back to where it should be. He went on your diet in January and has averaged a loss of 1/2 pound a day."

—Mrs. F.W.W., Truckee, Cal.

PERMANENT WEIGHT-LOSS

Your body has an appetite control center or appetat. If you are fat, it's because your appetat is set too high from eating the wrong kind of food. When you change the kind of food you eat by going on The Rice Diet, your body's appetat should soon adjust to a lower setting that won't compel you to overeat. Then you will be able to reach and maintain a normal weight without much effort —

It's that easy.

A famous medical research group says: "Weight loss can occur permanently only if the appetat is readjusted to a lower level."

Observations

Dollars and sense. Americans are increasing their oil consumption again, but the nation's oil fields are producing 1.3 million barrels a day less than they did four years ago. The result: a growing reliance on imports. In fact, the bill for foreign oil last year came to about $160 for every man, woman, and child in the U.S. What to do? America needs a national energy policy that will encourage off-shore drilling for oil and gas, the use of coal, and, to the extent it's safe and environmentally sound, the development of new nuclear generating plants. Down the road are oil shale, solar energy, and synthetic fuels. But energy policy remains the first step.

Now the good news. Most Americans agree with the need for an energy policy. In a recent Roper Organization poll of more than 2,000 people, a federal energy policy was given high priority. About 90 percent of those interviewed said the U.S. needs a "plan to conserve present energy sources and develop new energy sources so we will not be dependent on foreign countries for energy." If the people recognize the nation's needs, maybe the government won't be too far behind.

"WE CAN COVER YOU AGAINST FIRE, FLOOD AND MANDALISM.
BUT, NO, WE HAVEN'T ANY ENERGY POLICY IF YOUR FURNACE RUNS DRY."

If he's so wise, why didn't he stay home? We're talking about a burrowing owl who found himself on Long Island when his natural habitat, according to the experts, is southern Florida. A friendly and knowledgeable human put the wandering bird on a jet for home, but the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service bumped him from the plane. It seems the law protects him from being "kidnapped" wherever he is found, even if it's the wrong place, with the wrong climate. Happily, this time the red tape was quickly cut, the owl got his plane ride after all, and presumably lived happily ever after.

Race to the pole. When Roald Amundsen and his party left Oslo in 1910, the world thought he was bound for the Arctic. But Amundsen secretly planned a race in the other direction, to become the first person to set foot on the South Pole. His story, filmed in the snowy wasteland beyond the Arctic Circle in Norway, is the concluding episode of Ten Who Dared, the "Mobil Showcase" series on great explorers. Check your local TV listings next week for time and station. And, to keep the series fresh in mind, you'll want to own the beautiful 336-page book, Ten Who Dared, about these and other explorers. You can by sending a check or money order for $14.95, plus applicable state and local taxes, to: Ten Who Dared, P. O. Box 1934, Kansas City, Missouri 64140.

PEOPLE QUIZ/ By John E. Gibson

What part of the day is the safest time to drive? Do bad drivers share certain personality characteristics?

TEST HOW PRONE YOU ARE TO CAR ACCIDENTS

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Your street-crossing behavior not only reveals your chances of becoming an accident statistic but tells a lot about your personality and attitude.
2. Driving a new car increases your chances of having an accident.
3. A quarrel or disagreement with someone can later be the reason behind a serious traffic accident.
4. The people who cause most auto accidents, ranging from fender-bending to fatal injuries, tend to have certain personality characteristics in common.
5. The safest time to drive is in the wee hours of morning when there are few cars.

ANSWERS

1. True. Investigators from the University of Massachusetts and Wayne State University conducted a fascinating study of street-crossing behavior at the corner of a major downtown traffic artery in a leading city. In the study, "observers classified the pedestrian's behavior as soon as the street-crossing was completed, and then approached the pedestrian for a brief on-the-spot interview." The 125 participants were classified as safe-crossers (who waited till the light changed in their favor; checked traffic in all directions before and during the crossing) and as unsafe-crossers (who stepped out from some location other than the corner; from between parked cars; with the traffic light against them or without looking in either direction). In the interviews, the unsafe-crossers revealed themselves as having markedly different personalities from the safe-crossers, being much more subject to feelings of frustration and periods of depression. Significantly, when asked, "To what age do you expect to live?" the safe pedestrians "expected to reach a more advanced age than the risky pedestrians — a 14-year difference between the extremes." A further finding: the safer pedestrians were "more married" and "less single" — the odds being about three to one that the careless street-crosser is single.
2. True. According to a study sponsored by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, driving a car new to you — whether it be a used car or one just off the showroom floor — increases your chance of an accident. It's emphasized that driving any car you are not completely familiar with — which may handle somewhat differently, whose controls are in different places — has an immediate effect on how you will fare in any driving situation requiring split-second control of the vehicle. The pleasure of piloting a new automobile ranks high on the list of personal satisfactions, but it's recommended that whenever you purchase another car, you take time out on a driving course free from hazardous traffic to completely familiarize yourself with the way the car responds to the controls and the various ways in which it may differ from the car you're used to driving.

3. True. In a Highway Safety Research Institute survey, studies are cited showing stress — often resulting from quarrels or disagreements with another person — to be one of the chief villains in traffic accidents. It was found that "of a broad range of possible indicators, personal difficulties leading to stress best predicted who would have the most accidents." Other studies also have shown that drivers who cause serious accidents are likely to have experienced stress situations previously, and they tend to react with rash and impulsive behavior, exposing themselves to traffic situations beyond their control.
4. True. A study, at the Psychological Institute of Biel, Switzerland, of the personality profiles of traffic offenders whose driving resulted in frequent accidents, found that the majority of bad drivers demonstrated the following characteristics: 1) masochistic tendencies (deriving excitement and satisfaction from being subjected to pain), 2) social inadequacy, (uncomfortable in interpersonal relationships), 3) repressed aggression (hostility toward others, which is kept under restraint), 4) weak ego (lacking in self-confidence and self-esteem).
5. False. Fewer cars are on the road, but more of them are likely to be driven by drunk drivers. In a University of Michigan study of highway safety, "A high proportion of the early-morning drivers was found to have been drinking."

"VERY TASTY DIET"

—Mrs. M.S., Lawrenceburg, Ind.

I'm Jan Schrader, and these are photos of me before I went on The Rice Diet. Read below about how I lost 102 pounds, and then get your copy of The Rice Diet by sending in the coupon.

"May I say this is a very tasty diet. I liked all the menus except one."

"NOTHING WORKED UNTIL I TRIED RICE"

"I was a victim of multiple food allergies. I tried everything but nothing worked until I tried rice. It was the only thing I could tolerate.

"WEIGHT FELL OFF ME"

"Naturally, the weight FELL off me. Within 5 or 6 weeks, I had lost 35 pounds. I have held that weight pretty well. I am a believer in rice! Thank heaven for rice. Perhaps my experience will help others. I well imagine rice will play a great part in the remainder of my life."

—Mrs. Grace Quintal, Stockton, Cal.

"LOST 10 POUNDS IN 2 WEEKS"

"I used your diet and lost 10 pounds in two weeks. I want my daughter-in-law to have one."

—Mrs. S., St. Joseph, Mo.

"LOST 1/2 POUND A DAY"

"Thanks to your rice diet, my husband's weight is almost back to where it should be. He went on your diet in January and has averaged a loss of 1/2 pound a day."

—Mrs. F.W.W., Truckee, Cal.

PERMANENT WEIGHT-LOSS

Your body has an appetite control center or appostat. If you are fat, it's because your appostat is set too high from eating the wrong kind of food. When you change the kind of food you eat by going on The Rice Diet, your body's appostat should soon adjust to a lower setting that won't compel you to overeat. Then you will be able to reach and maintain a normal weight without much effort —

It's that easy.

A famous medical research group says: "Weight loss can occur permanently only if the appostat is readjusted to a lower level."

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO LOSE WEIGHT

- 1) A sure-fire way to adjust your diet to lose exactly as much weight as you want.
- 2) Dozens of delicious menus and recipes like: Chicken & Rice Casserole; Rice & Lamb Casserole; Veal Marengo; Broiled Pork Chops; Canteloupe; Cottage Cheese and Tomato Salad; Rice Pudding.
- 3) A section on rice and Chinese medicine.
- 4) Why you shouldn't be troubled by hunger.

Observations

Dollars and sense. Americans are increasing their oil consumption again, but the nation's oil fields are producing 1.3 million barrels a day less than they did four years ago. The result: a growing reliance on imports. In fact, the bill for foreign oil last year came to about $160 for every man, woman, and child in the U.S. What to do? America needs a national energy policy that will encourage off-shore drilling for oil and gas, the use of coal, and, to the extent it's safe and environmentally sound, the development of new nuclear generating plants. Down the road are oil shale, solar energy, and synthetic fuels. But energy policy remains the first step.

Now the good news. Most Americans agree with the need for an energy policy. In a recent Roper Organization poll of more than 2,000 people, a federal energy policy was given high priority. About 90 percent of those interviewed said the U.S. needs a "plan to conserve present energy sources and develop new energy sources so we will not be dependent on foreign countries for energy." If the people recognize the nation's needs, maybe the government won't be too far behind.

"WE CAN COVER YOU AGAINST FIRE, FLOOD AND THUNDER.
BUT, NO, WE HAVEN'T ANY ENERGY POLICY IF YOUR FURNACE RUNS OUT."

If he's so wise, why didn't he stay home? We're talking about a burrowing owl who found himself on Long Island when his natural habitat, according to the experts, is southern Florida. A friendly and knowledgeable human put the wandering bird on a jet for home, but the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service bumped him from the plane. It seems the law protects him from being "kidnapped" wherever he is found, even if it's the wrong place, with the wrong climate. Happily, this time the red tape was quickly cut, the owl got his plane ride after all, and presumably lived happily ever after.

story, filmed in the snowy wasteland beyond the Arctic Circle in Norway, is the concluding episode of Ten Who Dared, the "Mobil Showcase" series on great explorers. Check your local TV listings next week for time and station. And, to keep the series fresh in mind, you'll want to own the beautiful 336-page book, Ten Who Dared, about these and other explorers. You can by sending a check or money order for $14.95, plus applicable state and local taxes, to: Ten Who Dared, P. O. Box 1934, Kansas City, Missouri 64140.

PEOPLE QUIZ/ By John E. Gibson

What part of the day is the safest time to drive? Do bad drivers share certain personality characteristics?

TEST HOW PRONE YOU ARE TO CAR ACCIDENTS

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Your street-crossing behavior not only reveals your chances of becoming an accident statistic but tells a lot about your personality and attitude.
2. Driving a new car increases your chances of having an accident.
3. A quarrel or disagreement with someone can later be the reason behind a serious traffic accident.
4. The people who cause most auto accidents, ranging from fender-bending to fatal injuries, tend to have certain personality characteristics in common.
5. The safest time to drive is in the wee hours of morning when there are few cars.

ANSWERS

1. True. Investigators from the University of Massachusetts and Wayne State University conducted a fascinating study of street-crossing behavior at the corner of a major downtown traffic artery in a leading city. In the study, "observers classified the pedestrian's behavior as soon as the street-crossing was completed, and then approached the pedestrian for a brief on-the-spot interview." The 125 participants were classified as safe-crossers (who waited till the light changed in their favor; checked traffic in all directions before and during the crossing) and as unsafe-crossers (who stepped out from some location other than the corner; from between parked cars; with the traffic light against them or without looking in either direction). In the interviews, the unsafe-crossers revealed themselves as having markedly different personalities from the safe-crossers, being much more subject to feelings of frustration and periods of depression. Significantly, when asked, "To what age do you expect to live?" the safe pedestrians "expected to reach a more advanced age than the risky pedestrians — a 14-year difference between the extremes." A further finding: the safer pedestrians were "more married" and "less single" — the odds being about three to one that the careless street-crosser is single.
2. True. According to a study sponsored by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, driving a car new to you — whether it be a used car or one just off the showroom floor — increases your chance of an accident. It's emphasized that driving any car you are not completely familiar with — which may handle somewhat differently, whose controls are in different places — has an immediate effect on how you will fare in any driving situation requiring split-second control of the vehicle. The pleasure of piloting a new automobile ranks high on the list of personal satisfactions, but it's recommended that whenever you purchase another car, you take time out on a driving course free from hazardous traffic to completely familiarize yourself with the way the car responds to the controls and the various ways in which it may differ from the car you're used to driving.

3. True. In a Highway Safety Research Institute survey, studies are cited showing stress — often resulting from quarrels or disagreements with another person — to be one of the chief villains in traffic accidents. It was found that "of a broad range of possible indicators, personal difficulties leading to stress best predicted who would have the most accidents." Other studies also have shown that drivers who cause serious accidents are likely to have experienced stress situations previously, and they tend to react with rash and impulsive behavior, exposing themselves to traffic situations beyond their control.

4. True. A study, at the Psychological Institute of Biel, Switzerland, of the personality profiles of traffic offenders whose driving resulted in frequent accidents, found that the majority of bad drivers demonstrated the following characteristics: 1) masochistic tendencies (deriving excitement and satisfaction from being subjected to pain), 2) social inadequacy, (uncomfortable in interpersonal relationships), 3) repressed aggression (hostility toward others, which is kept under restraint), 4) weak ego (lacking in self-confidence and self-esteem).

5. False. Fewer cars are on the road, but more of them are likely to be driven by drunk drivers. In a University of Michigan study of highway safety, "A high proportion of the early-morning drivers was found to have been drinking."

SUGAR MAPLE
(acer saccharum)

The largest of all maples, and its beautiful array of yellow and orange hues make it a sight to remember due to the foliage thickness — A very hardy northern and southern tree and will grow up to 60 feet. (shipped at 3 to 5 feet).

E. WHITE BIRCH
(betula verrucosa)

This beautiful tree has very delicate foliage with snowy white bark, and a compact form—It can be seen growing in all different climates and the multi-trunk (clump) effect can be obtained by planting two or more trees next to one another. It is also a rapid grower. (shipped at 3 to 5 feet).

RED MAPLE
(acer rubrum)

This is one of the most beautiful of all shade trees. Besides having brilliant scarlet red leaves in the fall of the year, it has another excellent trait—it is an extremely fast grower. It is very easily transplanted and many experts agree it will grow practically anywhere in the U.S.A. Grows to 60 feet. (shipped at 3 to 5 feet).

WEeping WILLOW
(salix babylonica)

This tree is the hardiest of all willows, and has clear golden yellow and green leaves. The leaves appear early in Spring and one of the last trees to lose its leaves. A "super fast" growing tree at the rate of 5 to 6 feet per year. An excellent buy. (shipped at 3 to 5 feet).

GREEN ASH
(fraxinus pennsylvanica)

This tree like the maple has no equal when it comes to its ability to survive hot and cold temperatures. A real rapid grower and matures into a fine, compact tree with beautiful dense green foliage. Grows to 40 feet. (shipped at 3 to 5 feet).

AMERICA'S GREATEST TREE SALE "EVER"

NORWAY SPRUCE
(Abies nordmanniana)

The largest of all spruces, and its beautiful array of yellow and orange - reds make it a sight to remember due to its foliage thickness. A very hardy northern and southern tree and will grow up to 60 feet. (shipped at 3 to 5 feet).

WHITE BIRCH
(Betula papyrifera)

The beautiful, very distinctive bark and white flowers make this tree a favorite. It can be used growing in all other soil conditions and the trunk shows a characteristic "peeling" effect. (Check) When planted two or more trees next to one another it is also a rapid grower. (shipped at 3 to 5 feet).

RED MAPLE
(Acer rubrum)

This is one of the most beautiful of all shade trees. Besides having brilliant scarlet red leaves in the fall of the year, it has another excellent trait - it is an extremely fast grower. WEeping WILLOW

A drunk was hunched over the bar, toothpick in hand, spearing futilely at the olive in his drink. A dozen times the olive eluded him. Finally, another patron who had been watching intently from the next stool became exasperated and grabbed the toothpick. "Here. This is how you do it," he said, as he easily skewered the olive. "Big deal," muttered the drunk. "I already had him so tired he couldn't get away."

As my four-year-old niece climbed into the car to go shopping with her grandmother and me, she was told that she needed a sweater. After she said, "No, I don't," her grandmother replied, "I'll get it for you." As she opened the door and started into the house, my niece observed sadly, "Granny doesn't mind very well, does she?"

My Feet Were Killing Me...Until I Discovered the Miracle of Hamburg!

It was the European trip I had always dreamed about. I had the time and money to go where I wanted—see what I wanted. But I soon learned that money and time don't mean much when your feet hurt too much to walk. After a few days of sight-seeing my feet were killing me.

Oh, I tried to keep going. In Paris I limped through Notre Dame and along the Champs-Elysees. And I went up in the Eiffel Tower although I can't honestly say I remember the view. My feet were so tired and sore my whole body ached. While everybody else was having a great time, I was in my hotel room. I didn't even feel like sitting in a sidewalk cafe.

The whole trip was like that until I got to Hamburg, Germany. There, by accident, I happened to hear about an exciting breakthrough for anyone who suffers from sore, aching feet and legs.

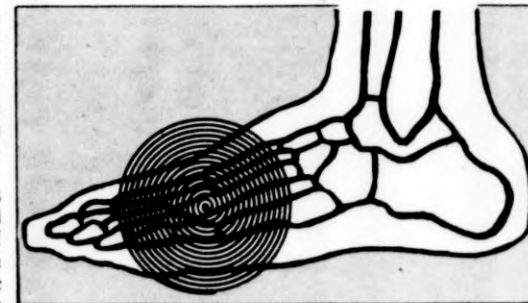

This wonderful invention was a custom-made foot support called Flexible Featherspring. When I got a pair and slipped them into my shoes my pain disappeared almost instantly. The flexible shock absorbing support they gave my feet was like cradling them on a cushion of air. I could walk, stand, even run. The relief was truly a miracle.

And just one pair was all I needed. I learned that women also can wear them—even with sandals and open backed shoes. They're completely invisible.

Imagine how dumbfounded I was to discover that these miraculous devices were sold only in Europe. Right then I determined that I would share the miracle I discovered in Hamburg with my own countrymen.

Today thousands of Americans of all ages—many with foot problems far more severe than mine—have experienced this blessed relief for themselves.

© Featherspring International Corp. 1976

Here's why Feathersprings work for them and why they can work for you. These supports are like nothing you've ever seen before. They are custom fitted and made for your feet alone! Unlike conventional devices, they actually imitate the youthful elastic support that Nature originally intended your feet to have.

Whatever your problem—corns, calluses, pain in the balls of your feet, burning nerve ends, painful ankles, old injuries, backaches or just generally sore, aching feet. Flexible Feathersprings will bring you guaranteed relief with every step you take.

Don't suffer pain and discomfort needlessly. If your feet hurt, the miracle of Hamburg can help you. Write for more detailed information. There is no obligation whatsoever. Just fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

Does Weather Affect Your Behavior?

A professor studying the effects of weather on human behavior says an approaching cold front makes people more likely to be involved in accidents. This conclusion is part of a study being conducted by Dr. Earl Sargent, a professor at the University of Tulsa. Some of his other findings:

- People are more likely to become ill just before a cold front moves through an area.
- Civil-service test scores are higher in the autumn and spring, lower in the summer months.
- There are more crimes against people in the late summer than at any other time of the year.

Sargent says there are three factors in the weather—the temperature, the humidity and the pressure. Experiments suggest the humidity and pressure are the two variables that affect human behavior.

First Woman Episcopal Priest

She calls herself "Jackie." She's a high-school dropout. She's married to an Indianapolis truck driver. And she was raised a Roman Catholic. She's the Rev. Mrs. Jacqueline Means, 40, the nation's first regularly ordained woman Episcopal priest. She didn't graduate from high school until 1968, but she became a licensed practical nurse, attended a comptometer school and Indiana University. She did so because injuries suffered by her husband convinced her she should be able to support herself: "I have a Roman Catholic background. I started saying about 12 years ago I wanted to become a priest. People said I was crazy." Now she feels her role is "kinda heavy. I don't have anybody to model after. The thought of women modeling themselves after me is pretty scary." Because she obviously can't be called "Father," she'll simply be known as Mrs. Means, the Rev. Mrs. Means or simply "Jackie." But just for fun, she sometimes sports a T-shirt inscribed "Mother Means."

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

Ladies Who Lift Weights Get Much Better Shapes

Women are discovering what men have known for years—weightlifting is great for conditioning and losing weight. Two years ago, there were only a few hundred women interested in the sport, but now there are about 10,000 in the U.S. According to Dale Adrian, diet and fitness instructor for the Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA), women need not worry about losing their feminine curves because no matter how many weights they lift, they will never develop the dimensions of musclemen. "Women lack the male hormone, testosterone, which is responsible for those dimensions," Adrian says. "All weightlifting can do for women is contour their bodies—give them a firmer waist and bust and better muscle tone."

Soap Operas As Substitute Teachers

Every day, millions of South Americans whip out their handkerchiefs and get ready for a good cry—soap operas south of the border now rival soccer games for keeping audiences glued to TV sets. In Brazil, an estimated 40 million persons in a population of 110 million gather around their TV sets nightly at 8:00 to watch the new "soaps." Meanwhile, the Mexican Government is trying to capitalize on the popularity of the soap operas as vehicles to teach illiterate viewers the value of books and to give them some basic concepts of geography, history and mathematics.

Uncle Sam Sets His Pace

Gordon McNiven's heart belongs to Uncle Sam. And if the atomic energy that keeps it beating should no longer be needed, he must return it. McNiven, 27, was picked to try a new pacemaker with atomic power. Pacemakers with batteries have kept hearts beating for 15 years. McNiven's will run on a pellet of plutonium and could last for 25 years or more. The plutonium belongs to the Federal Government, however, and so it isn't his to keep. The Government is controlling development of nuclear pacemakers, and it allows manufacturers to release just a few each month.

Quick Takes

For those of us who feel there are not enough commercials on TV, the networks are considering adding another minute of commercials to each half-hour prime-time program. . . . College football and basketball players have poorer vision than any other group of young people, reports the American Optometric Association. . . . A former law-enforcement officer who began bulletproofing automobiles in San Antonio as a sideline says the demand is so great he is going to begin full-time production this month. . . . Children's allowances in the U.S. amount to a staggering $2.3 billion a year, reports Professor Bellur Venkatakrishna of Ball State University. The estimated average weekly allowance per child is $1.40, and the children's most frequently mentioned purchased item was gum. . . . A prisoner escaped from the city jail in Fort Worth, Texas, recently by picking up a broom and sweeping his way out of the building. Experts called it "a clean getaway." . . . The most popular paint color for the interior of homes is a sunny shade of yellow, and the number-one choice for the exterior color of American homes is dark brown, reports one company that made a study. . . . School students will not be given Saturdays off in France, the Education Ministry has announced. Education Minister René Haby said that a whole weekend off would be "hard" on the pupils. (French youngsters get Wednesday afternoons off and attend class Saturdays.) Haby said that scientific studies have shown that long weekends "often have a disastrous effect on schooling."

My Feet Were Killing Me...Until I Discovered the Miracle of Hamburg!

It was the European trip I had always dreamed about. I had the time and money to go where I wanted—see what I wanted. But I soon learned that money and time don't mean much when your feet hurt too much to walk. After a few days of sight-seeing my feet were killing me.

Oh, I tried to keep going. In Paris I limped through Notre Dame and along the Champs-Élysées. And I went up in the Eiffel Tower although I can't honestly say I remember the view. My feet were so tired and sore my whole body ached. While everybody else was having a great time, I was in my hotel room. I didn't even feel like sitting in a sidewalk cafe.

The whole trip was like that until I got to Hamburg, Germany. There, by accident, I happened to hear about an exciting breakthrough for anyone who suffers from sore, aching feet and legs.

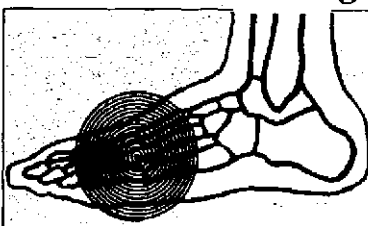

This wonderful invention was a custom-made foot support called Flexible Featherspring. When I got a pair and slipped them into my shoes my pain disappeared almost instantly. The flexible shock absorbing support they gave my feet was like cradling them on a cushion of air. I could walk, stand, even run. The relief was truly a miracle.

And just one pair was all I needed. I learned that women also can wear them—even with sandals and open backed shoes. They're completely invisible.

Imagine how dumbfounded I was to discover that these miraculous devices were sold only in Europe. Right then I determined that I would share the miracle I discovered in Hamburg with my own countrymen.

Today thousands of Americans of all ages—many with foot problems far more severe than mine—have experienced this blessed relief for themselves.

© Featherspring International Corp. 1976

Here's why Feathersprings work for them and why they can work for you. These supports are like nothing you've ever seen before. They are custom fitted and made for your feet alone! Unlike conventional devices, they actually imitate the youthful elastic support that Nature originally intended your feet to have.

Whatever your problem—corns, calluses, pain in the balls of your feet, burning nerve ends, painful ankles, old injuries, backaches or just generally sore, aching feet. Flexible Feathersprings will bring you guaranteed relief with every step you take.

Don't suffer pain and discomfort needlessly. If your feet hurt, the miracle of Hamburg can help you. Write for more detailed information. There is no obligation whatsoever. Just fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

Does Weather Affect Your Behavior?

A professor studying the effects of weather on human behavior says an approaching cold front makes people more likely to be involved in accidents. This conclusion is part of a study being conducted by Dr. Earl Sargent, a professor at the University of Tulsa. Some of his other findings:

- People are more likely to become ill just before a cold front moves through an area.
 - Civil-service test scores are higher in the autumn and spring, lower in the summer months.
 - There are more crimes against people in the late summer than at any other time of the year.
- Sargent says there are three factors in the weather—the temperature, the humidity and the pressure. Experiments suggest the humidity and pressure are the two variables that affect human behavior.

First Woman Episcopal Priest

She calls herself "Jackie." She's a high-school dropout. She's married to an Indianapolis truck driver. And she was raised a Roman Catholic. She's the Rev. Mrs. Jacqueline Means, 40, the nation's first regularly ordained woman Episcopal priest. She didn't graduate from high school until 1968, but she became a licensed practical nurse, attended a comptometer school and Indiana University. She did so because injuries suffered by her husband convinced her she should be able to support herself: "I have a Roman Catholic background. I started saying about 12 years ago I wanted to become a priest. People said I was crazy." Now she feels her role is "kinda heavy. I don't have anybody to model after. The thought of women modeling themselves after me is pretty scary." Because she obviously can't be called "Father," she'll simply be known as Mrs. Means, the Rev. Mrs. Means or simply "Jackie." But just for fun, she sometimes sports a T-shirt inscribed "Mother Means."

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

Ladies Who Lift Weights Get Much Better Shapes

Women are discovering what men have known for years—weightlifting is great for conditioning and losing weight. Two years ago, there were only a few hundred women interested in the sport, but now there are about 10,000 in the U.S. According to Dale Adrian, diet and fitness instructor for the Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA), women need not worry about losing their feminine curves because no matter how many weights they lift, they will never develop the dimensions of musclemen. "Women lack the male hormone, testosterone, which is responsible for those dimensions," Adrian says. "All weightlifting can do for women is contour their bodies—give them a firmer waist and bust and better muscle tone."

Soap Operas As Substitute Teachers

Every day, millions of South Americans whip out their handkerchiefs and get ready for a good cry—soap operas south of the border now rival soccer games for keeping audiences glued to TV sets. In Brazil, an estimated 40 million persons in a population of 110 million gather around their TV sets nightly at 8:00 to watch the new "soaps." Meanwhile, the Mexican Government is trying to capitalize on the popularity of the soap operas as vehicles to teach illiterate viewers the value of books and to give them some basic concepts of geography, history and mathematics.

Uncle Sam Sets His Pace

Gordon McNiven's heart belongs to Uncle Sam. And if the atomic energy that keeps it beating should no longer be needed, he must return it. McNiven, 27, was picked to try a new pacemaker with atomic power. Pacemakers with batteries have kept hearts beating for 15 years. McNiven's will run on a pellet of plutonium and could last for 25 years or more. The plutonium belongs to the Federal Government, however, and so it isn't his to keep. The Government is controlling development of nuclear pacemakers, and it allows manufacturers to release just a few each month.

Quick Takes

For those of us who feel there are not enough commercials on TV, the networks are considering adding another minute of commercials to each half-hour prime-time program. . . . College football and basketball players have poorer vision than any other group of young people, reports the American Optometric Association. . . . A former law-enforcement officer who began bulletproofing automobiles in San Antonio as a sideline says the demand is so great he is going to begin full-time production this month. . . . Children's allowances in the U.S. amount to a staggering $2.3 billion a year, reports Professor Bellur Venkatakrishna of Ball State University. The estimated average weekly allowance per child is $1.40, and the children's most frequently mentioned purchased item was gum. . . . A prisoner escaped from the city jail in Fort Worth, Texas, recently by picking up a broom and sweeping his way out of the building. Experts called it "a clean getaway." . . . The most popular paint color for the interior of homes is a sunny shade of yellow, and the number-one choice for the exterior color of American homes is dark brown, reports one company that made a study. . . . School students will not be given Saturdays off in France, the Education Ministry has announced. Education Minister René Haby said that a whole weekend off would be "hard" on the pupils. (French youngsters get Wednesday afternoons off and attend class Saturdays.) Haby said that scientific studies have shown that long weekends "often have a disastrous effect on schooling."

You don't have to be over 65 to collect from Social Security and Medicare

If you think that the Government's Social Security and Medicare programs are strictly for folks over 65, you couldn't be more mistaken! Thanks to changes in both programs, eligible men and women under 65 could not only collect under both Social Security and Medicare, but their benefits could add up to tens or even hundreds of thousands of dollars in some cases.

Because all these changes in Social Security and Medicare have been so rapid over the past few years, most folks haven't had a chance to grasp their full meaning. Yet a basic understanding of them can be all-important to your present and future security and happiness.

U.S. Dept. of H.E.W. figures show that, right now, nearly one person out of every seven in the United States—including 11,000,000 people under age 65—receives a Social Security check every month. And nearly 2,000,000 Americans under 65 have already received benefits under Medicare.

Despite these growing Government benefits, people of all ages still need help in avoiding financial loss from sickness and injury. For example, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports that people under Medicare now pay slightly more out of their pockets for medical expenses than they did back before Medicare started.

For men and women under 65, experts have developed protection to help provide the added security you need for today's high cost of getting sick or hurt. For example, without changing your present health insurance one bit, you can add insurance protection that can help solve the problem of skyrocketing medical costs because it provides full policy benefits regardless of benefits you receive from any other insurance, including group.

When covered sickness or injuries strike, you have valuable added protection just when you'll need it most. Pay hospital and doctor bills not covered by your other insurance. Use the benefits as you see fit to help make sure a sickness or injury won't cost you plenty out of your own pocket.

With today's record high medical costs, most people need added protection to help prevent a financial crisis when a serious sickness or accident strikes. That's why protection that provides its full specified benefits regardless of your other insurance makes mighty good sense.

The story of "add-on" protection that provides its full policy benefits regardless of your other insurance, and help for people over 65 to avoid financial loss when they're sick or hurt, is told in the "Blue Book", an interesting and informative booklet delivered free by Bankers Life and Casualty Co., whose policies under the famous White Cross Plan trademark now protect over 7,000,000 Americans.

To receive your free copy of the "Blue Book", which also contains important facts about today's bigger Social Security and Medicare benefits, simply fill out and mail the postage-free reply card below. There's no cost or obligation for this service.

If you have already decided not to send for the FREE "BLUE BOOK"...

I'm puzzled. Frankly, I don't understand why everyone doesn't send for the free "BLUE BOOK." It offers important information about today's bigger Social Security and Medicare benefits for eligible people of all ages, and tells how you can add to them for a happier and more secure life.

Perhaps you feel that Social Security and Medicare are strictly for "senior citizens," or that you can wait until you're about to retire to think about it. But your Government benefits are far too important to ignore, and thus perhaps run the risk of not having the kind of "add-on" protection you need and want at a critical time of your life.
